Three found brutally murdered in home

The mutilated bodies of three members of an Elk Grove Village family, brutally stabbed and bludgeoned to death, were discovered Friday night in their home.

The Cook County Coroner's Office reported Frank Columbo, 42, of 55 Brantwood Dr., his wife, Mary, 40, and their son, Michael, 13 were found in their home about 7 p.m. Each was stabbed 40 to 50 times, police said.

Reports indicated they may have been dead for several days. They were last seen Tuesday night.

ELK GROVE VILLAGE police said they went to the house to check on a report of a stolen car after Chicago police had recovered an auto belonging to the family on Chicago's near West Side.

The family auto was apparently the only thing taken from the home. Police were unable to determine if burglary was a motive for the slayings.

Authorities said Columbo was an employe of the Western Auto Co. in Chicago.

The story was written by Steve Brown with Herald staff members David Ibata, Linda Punch, Gerry Kern and Jerry Thomas contributing information.

Police said when they arrived, the family dog was huddled next to the body of the mother. The woman's body was slumped on the stairs. Mrs. Columbo and her son were still in their nightclothes.

AUTHORITIES HAD no explanation or motive for the slayings. Neighbors said they had last seen Columbo and his son playing catch on their front lawn Tuesday evening.

A number of Michael's classmates gathered outside the house as police removed the mutilated bodies. They described the youth as a "quiet guy, who got good marks and loved to ride trail bikes." He was a student at Lively Junior High School, 999 Leicaster Rd., Elk Grove Village.

One neighbor said the family had lived in the split-level residence for more than 10 years.

The Columbos' daughter, Patricia, 19, was located by Elk Grove Village police at a friend's house in Addison, Ill. She graduated last year from Elk Grove High School, and neighbors said she had been living in California.

Police said they found the front door of the house ajar. They were unable to determine whether the killers had broken into the home.

Buckholz named deputy cop chief by Calderwood

Capt. Paul Buckholz has been named deputy police chief in an internal reorganization of the Arlington Heights Police Dept. by Police Chief L. W. Calderwood.

Lt. George Ekblad was named commander of field services, the position previously held by Buckholz. The commander of field services has traditionally been named from the captains' ranks.

Capt. Maurice English will remain in charge of police operations, Calderwood said.

THE REORGANIZATION and reassignments were announced in a general order issued by Calderwood, who will retire as chief July 30 after 48 years in law enforcement.

Calderwood said the reorganization was aimed at smoothing out the chain of command within the department and helping ease the transition as he steps down as top village policeman after almost 20 years.

Buckholz, who was recently promoted to captain, will assume command of the department during an absence of the chief. Shift commanders also will report to Buckholz, Calderwood said.

Ekblad will take charge of officers on patrol with his new title in addition to his present duties as head of the department's juvenile bureau. He also will retain his position as ranking detective, Calderwood said.

WHILE ENGLISH will remain in charge of operations, which involves budgetary and other related duties, some observers viewed the reorganization as a lessening of his unofficial authority.

English previously had acted as deputy chief, but without the title. He often acted on Calderwood's behalf during the chief's absences, and appeared with him at hearings with the village trustees.

The naming of Buckholz marks the first time there has been an officially designated deputy chief on the force.

The action does not require confirmation of the village board as did the creation of deputy fire chief two years ago because no salary increase is involved, making it an internal matter.

George C. Leck, chairman of the village fire and police commission, said he had not been formally notified of the reorganization, but said he viewed it as an "interdepartmental matter" and not within the commission's jurisdiction.

Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson was unavailable for comment on the reorganization.

National unemployment level remaining stable

The nation's unemployment rate remained at 7.5 per cent in April, while the total number of workers with jobs increased to a record high. In the Chicago area, unemployment dropped from 7.5 to 6.9 per cent.

The U.S. Labor Dept. said it was the first time since 1973 that the nation has gone seven straight months without an increase in unemployment.

Total employment rose by 710,000 persons to a record 87.4 million, but the total number of persons available for work also rose to an all-time high of 61.6 per cent of the population.

Unemployment held steady at 7 million persons in April. The jobless rate has remained at 7.5 per cent for the past two months.

IN ILLINOIS, the employment picture improved in April with the Quad Cities and the Chicago area registering strong gains.

Donald A. Johnson, director of the state Labor Dept., said the number of unemployed persons declined from 363-900 in March to 353-400 in April. The corresponding unemployment rate improved from 7.3 per cent in March to 7.1 per cent in April.

The Quad Cities showed the biggest improvement, with an unemployment rate droppng from 7.6 per cent in March to 6.1 per cent in April. Other major labor markets showing improvements included the six-county Chicago area, 7.5 to 6.9 per cent; Springfield 6.3 to 5.9 per cent and the Metro East area of St. Louis, 8.4 to 8.2 per cent.

It's Mother's Day eve— and the gift scurry is on

by JILL BETTNER

No other holiday of the year tugs at the old heartstrings like Mother's Day. Everybody, it seems, has a soft spot for Mom that is never more evident than on the second Sunday in May.

Tomorrow is that day and if you haven't had time to get something for the special woman in your life. don't worry — you're not alone. Area stores are prepared for the usual last-minute rush.

The phone company, too, is gearing up for the holiday that always means a flood of long distance calls. Illinois Bell anticipates at least three million calls will be placed Sunday just to, from and within Illinois. The lowest direct dial rates are in effect until 5 p.m. Sunday.

As far as Mother's Day gifts, the sentimental favorites still seem to be flowers and candy along with the "right" card, either funny or frilly.

MORE FLOWERS are sold for Mother's Day than at any other time, according to Michael Loewenherz, manager of Amling's Flowerland in Rolling Meadows. He predicts the nine Chicagoland Amling's stores will sell over a quarter million blooms. One of the most popular floral items is a bouquet of mixed flowers called, appropriately, "The Hug."

Marshall Field & Co. has a new feature this year for Mother's Day shoppers. It's called "The Berry Patch," a display of a wide variety of prewrapped cosmetics, accessories and gift items priced mostly under $5 each. A spokesman for the Woodfield Shopping Center store said the display was devised to help youngsters in their shopping for Mom, but dads appear to like it, too.

Unlike the Christmas holiday, when the Pet Rock and other comical gimmicks were big, most stores are offering a sampling of fairly traditional Mother's Day gifts — hosiery, perfumes, cookware, linens and knick knacks. Arts and crafts items are popular, especially needlework kits, according to David Fellows, assistant store manager at Wieboldt's, Randhurst Shopping Center.

WIEBOLDT'S AND all other Randhurst stores are running a Mother's Day contest. The winner will be treated to a $100 shopping spree at the Mount Prospect mall.

For many families, Mother's Day is traditionally the day to "spoil" the woman who spends the rest of the year doing nice things for everyone else with breakfast in bed, lots of TLC (Tender, Loving Care) all day and often, a special dinner out. Restaurants always do a booming business and this year apparently will be no exception.

"We've been flooded with reservations," said Mary Kay Losch, manager of Don Roth's in Wheeling. "Mother's Day is usually one of the biggest if not the biggest day of the year for us."

COMPARED TO other American holidays, Mother's Day is one of the youngest. Moms everywhere owe their special day to a woman named Anna M. Jarvis of Philadelphia, who started a campaign for a day of tribute to mothers back in 1908. Mrs. Jarvis, who wanted to honor her own mother, was successful in persuading the city of Philadelphia to proclaim the second Sunday of May as Mother's Day.

In 1914, President Wilson proclaimed that the day would be observed nationwide and Sunday marks the 62nd straight time.

But while Mother's Day is relatively new to us, it actually has its origins in the ancient Greek worship of Cybele, "Great mother of the Gods." The holiday declined in popularity with the spread of Christianity and was all but lost until it was revived in Philadelphia. It now has spread to many other countries around the world.

In fact, Mother's Day is observed as one of the most important holidays of the year in Vienna and is popular in Australia, throughout South America and other Spanish-speaking areas.

But despite its popularity here and elsewhere, in England, moms rate not one but three special days. This way if they forget a gift, card or call there's always another chance.

Wheeling workers, union chiefs huddle

About 15 Wheeling village employes met Friday with representatives of the Combined Counties Police Assn. (CCPA) to discuss possible unionization. John Flood, CCPA president, said the closed-door meeting was to answer questions by village employes about joining the Assn. of Municipal Employes, the CCPA's sister organization. Union representation is being sought by some employes in the current salary negotiations with the village board. The board has never recognized union affiliation by its employes. Wheeling has about 100 employes.

More progress in UPS talks

More progress has been reported in talks in Arlington Heights between United Parcel Service and the Teamsters union, which represents about 14,000 striking UPS employes in 13 states. A Teamsters spokesman, who did not want to be identified, Thursday night said there was "some progress on (contract) language" Thursday and the two sides planned to meet again today. "The economics —they're pretty well set," the spokesman said. Progress toward a settlement of the week-old strike has been reported every day since the two sides resumed negotiations Tuesday at the Arlington Park Hilton. Talks broke off last Friday and the UPS employes struck at midnight when their contract expired. UPS employes are on strike in Colorado, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, North Dakota, Ohio, South Dakota, Wisconsin and Wyoming. The walkout has halted UPS package delivery in the 13 affected states. The Teamsters said the main issues in the walkout are working conditions and appearance standards.

Developer pays Atcher's taxes

Property taxes on the home of retired Schaumburg Village Pres. Robert O. Atcher were paid again this year for the sixth consecutive year by a major Schaumburg developer, although the developer says Atcher is in the process of reimbursing the firm for the tax payments. Neil L. Hunter, president of Lancer Corp., said his firm in March paid a $1,044 first installment of 1975 property taxes on the Atcher home, 524 Groen Ct. Hunter added, however, that Atcher has reimbursed the building firm more than $6,000 in taxes on the house since 1970. Atcher was village president from 1959 to 1975.

From Lindberg, Schaeffer

Rayson tells tax hike 'message'

by STEVE BROWN

An Illinois legislator has been told by the state's top economic officials that a hike in the state income tax is needed immediately to prevent major money problems in Illinois.

State Rep. Leland Rayson, D-Tinley Park, said both Comptroller George Lindberg, a Republican, and Leonard Schaeffer, director of the Bureau of the Budget, have privately told him the tax hike is needed.

Rayson, who is not seeking reelection, is the co-sponsor of legislation to increase the state income tax. He will start a series of parliamentary maneuvers next week in hopes of getting the Illinois General Assembly to seriously consider the bill.

Rayson admitted that many lawmakers were opposed to even discussing any income tax increase during an election year. Many observers credit former Gov. Richard Ogilvie's 1972 defeat to his support for the income tax.

"We really can't afford to let them use a lot of campaign rhetoric and then after November go back on their word," Rayson said.

The tax hike bill would boost the income tax rate for individuals from 2.5 per cent to 3 per cent and the corporate tax rate from 4 per cent to 4.8 per cent, Rayson said. He noted the measure also will include a provision to increase exemptions from $1,000 per person to $1,500 per person. He added the state will get $230 million in additional revenue.

"This should mean a family of four making up to $16,000 would pay no more tax next year than they did this year, he said.

Aides for both the Walker administration and Lindberg have consistently opposed a tax increase. A Walker aide said Friday he knew of no effort by Schaeffer to privately lobby for a tax hike. Lindberg aides also denied he privately favored tax increases.

Walker has campaigned consistently against any tax increases. Some observers believe Walker is trying desperately to hold the line on state spending so that he can leave office in January without any tax increases during his administration.

Rayson said the solution he proposed to form a special committee to study tax increases and the state's general fiscal condition might gain approval because it has received some backing from the Democratic leadership in the House.

House majority leader Gerald Shea, D-Riverside, flatly denied published reports last week that he had prepared a sweeping series of tax increase bills which would hike almost every tax levied by the state.

Shea said no member of the Democratic leadership had plans to introduce income tax increase legislation this year.

Current fiscal projections for the state indicate there might not be enough money in the state treasury next September to pay all of the bills. Walker was accused this year of delaying payment on some bills because of a lack of funds, but the governor has repeatedly denied there were any delays.

Abortion stance to draw Mother's Day protestors

Anti-abortion organizations are expected to join in a demonstration against Northwest Community Hospital, 800 W. Central Rd., Arlington Heights, beginning at 1 p.m. Sunday.

The demonstration is to protest the hospital's recent decision to perform abortions during the first three months of pregnancy.

Expected to participate in picketing at the hospital are the Illinois Right to Life Committee, Illinois Nurses Who Feel Abortion Not Tolerable, Illinois Citizens for Life and Illinois Citizens Concerned for Life.

IN ADDITION TO picketing, protesters are expected to distribute anti-abortion leaflets.

"The Mother's Day demonstration will focus attention on the new policy as the antithesis of the true role of the mother as protector of new life and as a reversal of the hospital's purpose for existence, to preserve human life," said Joseph Scheidler, director of the Illinois Right to Life Committee.

Right to Life has urged persons to boycott the hospital and not consult with doctors on the staff who endorse the new abortion policy.

Malcolm D. MacCoun, Northwest Community Hospital President, said last week that the abortion policy was changed because "a number of people feel a community hospital should serve the whole community." Previously, hospital policy permitted abortions only in cases where the mother's life was endangered by the pregnancy.

MacCoun has declined comment on Right to Life statements that the change was made because of pressure from seven obstetricians on the hospital staff. However, Robert H. Bukowski, president of the board of directors of Northwest Community Hospital, has denied the charge.

Wheeling workers, union chiefs huddle

About 15 Wheeling village employes met Friday with representatives of the Combined Counties Police Assn. (CCPA) to discuss possible unionization. John Flood, CCPA president, said the closed-door meeting was to answer questions by village employes about joining the Assn. of Municipal Employes, the CCPA's sister organization. Union representation is being sought by some employes in the current salary negotiations with the village board. The board has never recognized union affiliation by its employes. Wheeling has about 100 employes.

More progress in UPS talks

More progress has been reported in talks in Arlington Heights between United Parcel Service and the Teamsters union, which represents about 14,000 striking UPS employes in 13 states. A Teamsters spokesman, who did not want to be identified, Thursday night said there was "some progress on (contract) language" Thursday and the two sides planned to meet again today. "The economics —they're pretty well set," the spokesman said. Progress toward a settlement of the week-old strike has been reported every day since the two sides resumed negotiations Tuesday at the Arlington Park Hilton. Talks broke off last Friday and the UPS employes struck at midnight when their contract expired. UPS employes are on strike in Colorado, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, North Dakota, Ohio, South Dakota, Wisconsin and Wyoming. The walkout has halted UPS package delivery in the 13 affected states. The Teamsters said the main issues in the walkout are working conditions and appearance standards.

Developer pays Atcher's taxes

Property taxes on the home of retired Schaumburg Village Pres. Robert O. Atcher were paid again this year for the sixth consecutive year by a major Schaumburg developer, although the developer says Atcher is in the process of reimbursing the firm for the tax payments. Neil L. Hunter, president of Lancer Corp., said his firm in March paid a $1,044 first installment of 1975 property taxes on the Atcher home, 524 Groen Ct. Hunter added, however, that Atcher has reimbursed the building firm more than $6,000 in taxes on the house since 1970. Atcher was village president from 1959 to 1975.

From Lindberg, Schaeffer

by STEVE BROWN

An Illinois legislator has been told by the state's top economic officials that a hike in the state income tax is needed immediately to prevent major money problems in Illinois.

State Rep. Leland Rayson, D-Tinley Park, said both Comptroller George Lindberg, a Republican, and Leonard Schaeffer, director of the Bureau of the Budget, have privately told him the tax hike is needed.

Rayson, who is not seeking reelection, is the co-sponsor of legislation to increase the state income tax. He will start a series of parliamentary maneuvers next week in hopes of getting the Illinois General Assembly to seriously consider the bill.

Rayson admitted that many lawmakers were opposed to even discussing any income tax increase during an election year. Many observers credit former Gov. Richard Ogilvie's 1972 defeat to his support for the income tax.

"We really can't afford to let them use a lot of campaign rhetoric and then after November go back on their word," Rayson said.

The tax hike bill would boost the income tax rate for individuals from 2.5 per cent to 3 per cent and the corporate tax rate from 4 per cent to 4.8 per cent, Rayson said. He noted the measure also will include a provision to increase exemptions from $1,000 per person to $1,500 per person. He added the state will get $230 million in additional revenue.

"This should mean a family of four making up to $16,000 would pay no more tax next year than they did this year, he said.

Aides for both the Walker administration and Lindberg have consistently opposed a tax increase. A Walker aide said Friday he knew of no effort by Schaeffer to privately lobby for a tax hike. Lindberg aides also denied he privately favored tax increases.

Walker has campaigned consistently against any tax increases. Some observers believe Walker is trying desperately to hold the line on state spending so that he can leave office in January without any tax increases during his administration.

Rayson said the solution he proposed to form a special committee to study tax increases and the state's general fiscal condition might gain approval because it has received some backing from the Democratic leadership in the House.

House majority leader Gerald Shea, D-Riverside, flatly denied published reports last week that he had prepared a sweeping series of tax increase bills which would hike almost every tax levied by the state.

Shea said no member of the Democratic leadership had plans to introduce income tax increase legislation this year.

Current fiscal projections for the state indicate there might not be enough money in the state treasury next September to pay all of the bills. Walker was accused this year of delaying payment on some bills because of a lack of funds, but the governor has repeatedly denied there were any delays.

Abortion stance to draw Mother's Day protestors

Anti-abortion organizations are expected to join in a demonstration against Northwest Community Hospital, 800 W. Central Rd., Arlington Heights, beginning at 1 p.m. Sunday.

The demonstration is to protest the hospital's recent decision to perform abortions during the first three months of pregnancy.

Expected to participate in picketing at the hospital are the Illinois Right to Life Committee, Illinois Nurses Who Feel Abortion Not Tolerable, Illinois Citizens for Life and Illinois Citizens Concerned for Life.

IN ADDITION TO picketing, protesters are expected to distribute anti-abortion leaflets.

"The Mother's Day demonstration will focus attention on the new policy as the antithesis of the true role of the mother as protector of new life and as a reversal of the hospital's purpose for existence, to preserve human life," said Joseph Scheidler, director of the Illinois Right to Life Committee.

Right to Life has urged persons to boycott the hospital and not consult with doctors on the staff who endorse the new abortion policy.

Malcolm D. MacCoun, Northwest Community Hospital President, said last week that the abortion policy was changed because "a number of people feel a community hospital should serve the whole community." Previously, hospital policy permitted abortions only in cases where the mother's life was endangered by the pregnancy.

MacCoun has declined comment on Right to Life statements that the change was made because of pressure from seven obstetricians on the hospital staff. However, Robert H. Bukowski, president of the board of directors of Northwest Community Hospital, has denied the charge.

Woodcock backs Jimmy Carter

United Press International

Jimmy Carter Friday won the backing of United Auto Workers Pres. Leonard Woodcock, and Carter's acceptance by so influential a labor leader appeared to damage Morris Udall's effort to win his first primary in Michigan.

Carter also won the endorsement of Henry Ford II, chairman of the Ford Motor Co., for the Democratic nomination. Asked whether he would also support Carter in the November presidential election, however, the motor executive said, "I'll have to decide that later."

President Ford, back in a tight GOP nomination race with Ronald Reagan, went west with a new campaign strategy of ignoring Reagan's criticisms and concentrating instead on his own achievements in office.

His newly adopted campaign style called for him to stress his achievements and let administration officials and other surrogates do the verbal counterpunching against Ronald Reagan.

Among other suggestions made by his advisers after four straight primary losses to Reagan was to drop out of some future primaries he stands little chance of winning. A White House source said, however, "there was no truth" to reports Ford would drop out of some primaries.

Carter flew from Maryland to Michigan for a joint news conference with Woodcock, who said, "There could be no better symbol of reconciliation than to elect a president from the genuine South — the New South — one who listens to the people instead of the traditional politicians."

Earlier in the day, Woodcock said, "I am most sympathetic to his candidacy and I have no concern with him on any of the issues."

Udall, who campaigned in the heart of auto-making territory in Flint, Mich., has been hoping Michigan union members and liberals will rally behind him in the May 18 primary to give him his first primary victory and slow Carter's drive. Carter is facing a strong challenge the same day in Maryland from Edmund G. Brown Jr.

Udall has based his appeal to labor on claims Carter "is not with labor, or at least he's fuzzy on the issues."

In a reference to Udall, Woodcock said, "Those who say Carter is almost as conservative as Ford and Reagan are speaking political nonsense."

Udall told local UAW leaders in Flint that a victory in Michigan is crucial to his hopes of stopping Carter from getting a first-ballot nomination.

"There isn't going to be any second ballot unless Michigan turns it around," Udall said. "Labor leaders have overreacted to 1968 and 1972 and they're settling too easily, giving up too quickly. They're so anxious to stampede to side with winners. But it's not over yet."

Carter had some strong words for Brown, his other major opponent who has taken Maryland by storm in a week of campaigning. Carter, at a Baltimore news conference, dismissed Brown's record as governor of California is one "based on popular nonaction and the idea that no action is good government."

He also lashed out at Maryland's "machine bosses," the state party organization under Gov. Marvin Mandel, for their down-the-line endorsement of Brown.

"These are the people willing to lose an election rather than turn it over to a candidate who is deeply committed to programs . . . in health, transportation and tax reform," he said.

Before Ford left for two days of stumping in Nebraska and Missouri, Press. Sec. Ron Nessen acknowledged, "We have a political problem. We are going to solve it. President Ford will be nominated on the first ballot of the party convention."

White House aides said while Ford talks about his own achievements and character, GOP leaders such as Sen. Barry Goldwater, Vice Presient Nelson Rockefeller and Commerce Sec. Elliot Richardson will be asked to go out and respond to Reagan's so-far effective criticism of administration foreign policy.

The President, concerned about possible Democratic crossover votes helping Reagan in the Michigan primary, scheduled a trip to the Detroit area next Wednesday.

Already in Omaha, Democrat Frank Church again denounced Ford and Reagan for "playing politics with matters that could lead to another foolish war."

INES MATTIAZZI, trapped for 13 hours in the rubble of Thursday's earthquake in Central Europe, weeps with joy after being rescued. Her village in Gemona, Italy, was one of the hardest hit.

1,000 feared dead in wake of earthquake in N. Italy

GEMONA, Italy (UPI) — A government spokesman said Friday night the death toll from the earthquake that devastated northeastern Italy was nearing the 1,000 mark as search parties recovered scores of bodies from the rubble of a dozen shattered towns.

Two strong aftershocks jolted the Dolomite foothills during the day, hampering the search for survivors and victims in the Thursday night quake that was felt as far as 1,000 miles away in Western Europe and shook such landmarks as the Leaning Tower of Pisa.

"We don't know the exact number but the total of the dead is approaching 1,000 and the hospitals are full," Udine prefecture spokesman Natale Labia told reporters in Udine, capital of the quake-stricken Friuli region near the border of Yugoslavia.

"We don't know how many are injured but it is certainly more than 1,000," Labia said. "An estimated 2,000 to 3,000 persons are homeless."

In Rome, the general headquarters of the Carabinieri (national police) corps said 284 bodies had been counted by early evening in the disaster area.

But Labia said 400 persons were known dead in Gemona, a town of 12,000 inhabitants 16 miles northwest of Udine where about 80 per cent of the buildings appeared damaged or wrecked.

Dust clouds still hung over Gemona as bulldozers churned slowly in the hot and humid afternoon to clear rubble-blocked streets. The 11th Century castle, 14th Century cathedral and most houses in the medieval hilltop district had crumbled.

A woman in a pink dress wept as teen-age boys and men poked through the debris of three-and four-story homes to recover kitchen utensils, which they wrapped in white sheets.

Rescue workers walked quickly past with a white-blanket covered stretcher. A grimy hand hung lifelessly down one side.

Hardly anyone spoke. The only sounds were bulldozers, steamshovels, wailing sirens and whirling helicopters, some of them American sent in by the U.S. Army as part of a gigantic relief effort. Still stunned survivors sat listlessly in chairs in open patches amid their ruined homes, many of which were several centuries old.

Labia told reporters 100 persons were known dead in Forgaria, southwest of Gemona, and at least 80 were known dead in Maiano, where three six-story apartment buildings collapsed. The town of Buia had about 30 dead, Labia said.

"We need everything," Labia told reporters. "Water pipes and aqueducts are broken so we have no water. There's no bread because bakeries are closed. Many telephone lines are still down."

Water and bread were being trucked in.

An army of 2,500 police, soldiers and volunteers, aided by U.S. Army forces and helicopters, dug through the rubble of collapsed homes searching for survivors and victims. A series of fires and large boulders which blocked roads leading to the area slowed their efforts.

The two aftershocks hit within 26 seconds of each other and measured 4.2 and 4.1 on the open-ended Richter scale. The initial earthquake Thursday night measured 6.9 and was felt in eight European countries from Berling 1,000 miles to the north to Sarajevo, Yugoslavia, 300 miles to the south.

The famed leaning tower of Pisa swayed during the temblor. In Venice, the Bell Tower in St. Marks Square, which was rebuilt after collapsing in 1902, also swayed but officials said it was not endangered.

Ford vetoes arms aid for foreigners

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford Friday vetoed a $4 billion foreign military aid bill. He called it "Congressional encroachment," saying it would "seriously obstruct" his authority to conduct foreign policy.

The bill included $2.3 billion for Israel.

Prospects for a congressional override of Ford's veto were dim, since the bill cleared the House by 215-185 and the Senate by 51-35 — both far short of the two-thirds needed.

Ford told Congress he regretted having to veto the International Security Assistance bill for the fiscal period ending Sept. 30.

"I act as any president would, and must, to retain the ability to function as the foreign policy leader and spokesman of the nation," he said.

The bill, designed to give Congress a voice in how foreign military aid is spent, would have permitted it to terminate aid in some circumstances, limit total arms sales abroad and temporarily lift trade restrictions with Vietnam.

Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., a sponsor of the bill, said, "The President seeks to assert the right to engage in the indiscriminate export, sale and transfer of vast amounts of conventional arms without regard to the views of the Congress.

"His action flies in the face of the American people's desire for a new measure of accountability."

U.S. arms sales abroad hit a record $10 billion in 1974.

Ford's veto had been urged by GOP congressional leaders. He said the bill "would seriously obstruct the exercise of the president's constitutional responsibilities for the conduct of foreign affairs."

His constitutional authority to carry out foreign policy would be diminished by "congressional encroachment" in the bill's provisions, Ford said. He said he objected to a "pattern of unprecedented restrictions," including:

- An annual $9 billion ceiling on total U.S. government sales and commercial exports of military arms and services. He said it would limit "our ability to respond to the legitimate defense needs of our friends" and make it harder for U.S. industry to compete abroad.
- Ending military aid to any country Congress decided was engaging in "gross violations" of human rights. Ford said that "ignores the many other complex factors" and would "impair our ability to deal by more appropriate means" with such problems.

Levi Strauss charged with price fixing

The Federal Trade Commission Friday accused Levi Strauss of price fixing in the sale of its blue jeans and other products. The company not only told its 15,000 dealers in this country what to charge for the jeans and other clothing, but required its retailers to buy some of its other product lines before it would allow them to sell the denim jeans, the agency said in a complaint issued on a unanimous vote. Levi Strauss and Co. defended its sales practices, saying, "Levi's marketing system as it is functioning today is wholly lawful, and the company is prepared to defend itself."

Big government meat swindle charged

Some meat packers cheated the government out of millions of dollars with bribes and gifts for military meat inspectors while cheap beef was substituted for prime, Senate investigators said Friday. Sen. Lawton Chiles, D-Fla., said an investigation by his Senate subcommittee on federal spending practices showed bribery, fraud, incompetence and poor-quality purchases in the Defense Department's beef procurement program. The Army paid up to $4 a pound for top-of-the-line steaks and roasts but got tough, cheap beef in a swindle amounting to "millions of dollars" a year, Chiles said.

Allied Chemical charged with pollution

The giant Allied Chemical Corp., Richmond, Va., the city of Hopewell and the manufacturer of a pesticide that poisoned workers and fishing waters were charged Friday with criminal violations of federal pollution laws in one of the largest environmental indictments in history. The defendants were charged under the 1899 Rivers and Refuse Act and the 1972 Water Pollution Control Act, with polluting the James River with the ant and roach killer kepone. Allied also was accused of conspiring to circumvent the anti-pollution mission of the Environmental Protection Agency and the Army Corps of Engineers.

Union meets on ending SF strike

Union leaders met behind closed doors in San Francisco Friday to consider a proposal aimed at ending the 38-day walkout of city craft workers which has brought cable cars, streetcars and buses to a halt. The proposal, reported to have been approved tentatively by the striking unions, would appoint a fact-finding committee to investigate the issues in the walkout after the striking employes return to work.

Moslems urge election boycott today

Moslem leftist leaders declared Friday they would boycott parliament's election of a new president and urged Lebanese to stage a general strike and "use all kinds of methods" to block the crucial session today. The appeal, a last-ditch challenge to Syria's peace initiative, threatened to explode Beirut's fragile cease-fire and touch off a new escalation of the fighting still raging in mountain villages east of the capital. The Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine, a breakaway guerrilla group opposed to Syrian political and military intervention in Lebanon, threatened to resume all-out war if no political settlement was reached. The leftist alliance, meeting under Socialist chief Kamal Jumblatt, called on the Lebanese people to "declare a general strike and use all kinds of methods to manifest the popular protest against attempts to appoint a president by force."

New cars expected to go up $200

DETROIT (UPI) — New car prices probably will increase this fall by only 4 to 5 per cent — around $200 a car — if material and labor costs can be held in check, the trade publication Automotive News says.

Those increases in the fall will be in line with the $248 price hike (4.6 per cent) on the average equipped 1976-model automobile and well below the $1,000 a car jump spread over the 1974 and 1975 model years. Those sharp increase helped push the depressed industry further in the hole.

Chrysler Corp. Chairman John Riccardo already has said price increases are a certainty this fall.

"Cost increases are increasing and as long as they continue to increase," Riccardo said at a recent news conference, "we are going to have to get some recovery."

The price hike announced by the major steel manufacturers for mid-June are not expected to be passed on until the 1977 models are introduced. Financial analysts say automakers would be justified in an $18-a-car hike just to recover that one extra cost.

Automotive News, in its May 10 edition, says a key element in the new-car price equation is the increases passed along by automotive suppliers. And lately suppliers have been raising prices to cash in on the auto industry's renewed profitability.

A survey by the trade publication of financial analysts indicated there was a lengthy period during most of 1974 when smaller suppliers were told to hold the price line. Such suppliers are now long overdue for increases on their products, the analysts said.

The price increases will be spread sharply among different car lines, those analysts said.

General Motors is expected to be very cautious in pricing its downsized standard car lines to get them a favorable reception in the marketplace. There still is some uncertainty on how the new, smaller "big cars" will be received when they're compared to the conventional full-sized cars offered by Ford and Chrysler.

Intermediates, the hottest-selling car segment, are expected to get the largest price boosts. There is a lack of capacity to meet the demand for intermediates right now, and this shortage is expected to continue into the fall.

3rd World plan supported

NAIROBI, Kenya (UPI) — Sec. of State Henry Kissinger's proposals to aid the Third World economy with money and technology won approval Friday from a number of rich and poor nations.

But several western nations split over proposals the developing nations themselves put forward at the U.N. Conference on Trade and Development.

The key to the plan Kissinger announced Thursday was a $1 billion international resources bank to "promote more rational equitable and systematic" tapping of raw materials in poor countries.

Few of the 4,500 participants at the 23-day conference replied to Kissinger's complicated proposals in their set speeches on the meeting's third day, but many expressed support for the new U.S. policy in interviews.

Australia followed up one of Kissinger's points and announced it would lower import tariffs to assist poor nations' industries. Foreign Affairs Minister Andrew Peacock said the U.S. policy provided a "most promising start to our deliberations."

The chief delegate from Pakistan, Niaz Ahmad Naik, said Kissinger's willingness to transfer technology and industrial techniques to poor nations in some respects went beyond what the Third World itself has proposed.

"I think the Group of 77 (a Third World bloc of 111 nations) are gratified that counterproposals are on the table," he said. "I find positive elements in the speech."

Delegates from Brazil and India agreed. However, Libyan delegate Misbah Oreibi said it was "completely unrealistic."

Udall told local UAW leaders in Flint that a victory in Michigan is crucial to his hopes of stopping Carter from getting a first-ballot nomination.

"There isn't going to be any second ballot unless Michigan turns it around," Udall said. "Labor leaders have overreacted to 1968 and 1972 and they're settling too easily, giving up too quickly. They're so anxious to stampede to side with winners. But it's not over yet."

Carter had some strong words for Brown, his other major opponent who has taken Maryland by storm in a week of campaigning. Carter, at a Baltimore news conference, dismissed Brown's record as governor of California is one "based on popular nonaction and the idea that no action is good government."

He also lashed out at Maryland's "machine bosses," the state party organization under Gov. Marvin Mandel, for their down-the-line endorsement of Brown.

"These are the people willing to lose an election rather than turn it over to a candidate who is deeply committed to programs . . . in health, transportation and tax reform," he said.

Before Ford left for two days of stumping in Nebraska and Missouri, Press. Sec. Ron Nessen acknowledged, "We have a political problem. We are going to solve it. President Ford will be nominated on the first ballot of the party convention."

White House aides said while Ford talks about his own achievements and character, GOP leaders such as Sen. Barry Goldwater, Vice Presient Nelson Rockefeller and Commerce Sec. Elliot Richardson will be asked to go out and respond to Reagan's so-far effective criticism of administration foreign policy.

The President, concerned about possible Democratic crossover votes helping Reagan in the Michigan primary, scheduled a trip to the Detroit area next Wednesday.

Already in Omaha, Democrat Frank Church again denounced Ford and Reagan for "playing politics with matters that could lead to another foolish war."

INES MATTIAZZI, trapped for 13 hours in the rubble of Thursday's earthquake in Central Europe, weeps with joy after being rescued. Her village in Gemona, Italy, was one of the hardest hit.

1,000 feared dead in wake of earthquake in N. Italy

GEMONA, Italy (UPI) — A government spokesman said Friday night the death toll from the earthquake that devastated northeastern Italy was nearing the 1,000 mark as search parties recovered scores of bodies from the rubble of a dozen shattered towns.

Two strong aftershocks jolted the Dolomite foothills during the day, hampering the search for survivors and victims in the Thursday night quake that was felt as far as 1,000 miles away in Western Europe and shook such landmarks as the Leaning Tower of Pisa.

"We don't know the exact number but the total of the dead is approaching 1,000 and the hospitals are full," Udine prefecture spokesman Natale Labia told reporters in Udine, capital of the quake-stricken Friuli region near the border of Yugoslavia.

"We don't know how many are injured but it is certainly more than 1,000," Labia said. "An estimated 2,000 to 3,000 persons are homeless."

In Rome, the general headquarters of the Carabinieri (national police) corps said 284 bodies had been counted by early evening in the disaster area.

But Labia said 400 persons were known dead in Gemona, a town of 12,000 inhabitants 16 miles northwest of Udine where about 80 per cent of the buildings appeared damaged or wrecked.

Dust clouds still hung over Gemona as bulldozers churned slowly in the hot and humid afternoon to clear rubble-blocked streets. The 11th Century castle, 14th Century cathedral and most houses in the medieval hilltop district had crumbled.

A woman in a pink dress wept as teen-age boys and men poked through the debris of three-and four-story homes to recover kitchen utensils, which they wrapped in white sheets.

Rescue workers walked quickly past with a white-blanket covered stretcher. A grimy hand hung lifelessly down one side.

Hardly anyone spoke. The only sounds were bulldozers, steamshovels, wailing sirens and whirling helicopters, some of them American sent in by the U.S. Army as part of a gigantic relief effort. Still stunned survivors sat listlessly in chairs in open patches amid their ruined homes, many of which were several centuries old.

Labia told reporters 100 persons were known dead in Forgaria, southwest of Gemona, and at least 80 were known dead in Maiano, where three six-story apartment buildings collapsed. The town of Buia had about 30 dead, Labia said.

"We need everything," Labia told reporters. "Water pipes and aqueducts are broken so we have no water. There's no bread because bakeries are closed. Many telephone lines are still down."

IDENTIFIED only by her first name, Katia, a young girl, rests in a hospital bed in Osoppo, Italy.

Water and bread were being trucked in.

An army of 2,500 police, soldiers and volunteers, aided by U.S. Army forces and helicopters, dug through the rubble of collapsed homes searching for survivors and victims. A series of fires and large boulders which blocked roads leading to the area slowed their efforts.

The two aftershocks hit within 26 seconds of each other and measured 4.2 and 4.1 on the open-ended Richter scale. The initial earthquake Thursday night measured 6.9 and was felt in eight European countries from Berling 1,000 miles to the north to Sarajevo, Yugoslavia, 300 miles to the south.

The famed leaning tower of Pisa swayed during the temblor. In Venice, the Bell Tower in St. Marks Square, which was rebuilt after collapsing in 1902, also swayed but officials said it was not endangered.

Ford vetoes arms aid for foreigners

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford Friday vetoed a $4 billion foreign military aid bill. He called it "Congressional encroachment," saying it would "seriously obstruct" his authority to conduct foreign policy.

The bill included $2.3 billion for Israel.

Prospects for a congressional override of Ford's veto were dim, since the bill cleared the House by 215-185 and the Senate by 51-35 — both far short of the two-thirds needed.

Ford told Congress he regretted having to veto the International Security Assistance bill for the fiscal period ending Sept. 30.

"I act as any president would, and must, to retain the ability to function as the foreign policy leader and spokesman of the nation," he said.

The bill, designed to give Congress a voice in how foreign military aid is spent, would have permitted it to terminate aid in some circumstances, limit total arms sales abroad and temporarily lift trade restrictions with Vietnam.

Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., a sponsor of the bill, said, "The President seeks to assert the right to engage in the indiscriminate export, sale and transfer of vast amounts of conventional arms without regard to the views of the Congress.

"His action flies in the face of the American people's desire for a new measure of accountability."

U.S. arms sales abroad hit a record $10 billion in 1974.

Ford's veto had been urged by GOP congressional leaders. He said the bill "would seriously obstruct the exercise of the president's constitutional responsibilities for the conduct of foreign affairs."

His constitutional authority to carry out foreign policy would be diminished by "congressional encroachment" in the bill's provisions, Ford said. He said he objected to a "pattern of unprecedented restrictions," including:

- An annual $9 billion ceiling on total U.S. government sales and commercial exports of military arms and services. He said it would limit "our ability to respond to the legitimate defense needs of our friends" and make it harder for U.S. industry to compete abroad.
- Ending military aid to any country Congress decided was engaging in "gross violations" of human rights. Ford said that "ignores the many other complex factors" and would "impair our ability to deal by more appropriate means" with such problems.

Levi Strauss charged with price fixing

The Federal Trade Commission Friday accused Levi Strauss of price fixing in the sale of its blue jeans and other products. The company not only told its 15,000 dealers in this country what to charge for the jeans and other clothing, but required its retailers to buy some of its other product lines before it would allow them to sell the denim jeans, the agency said in a complaint issued on a unanimous vote. Levi Strauss and Co. defended its sales practices, saying, "Levi's marketing system as it is functioning today is wholly lawful, and the company is prepared to defend itself."

Big government meat swindle charged

Some meat packers cheated the government out of millions of dollars with bribes and gifts for military meat inspectors while cheap beef was substituted for prime, Senate investigators said Friday. Sen. Lawton Chiles, D-Fla., said an investigation by his Senate subcommittee on federal spending practices showed bribery, fraud, incompetence and poor-quality purchases in the Defense Department's beef procurement program. The Army paid up to $4 a pound for top-of-the-line steaks and roasts but got tough, cheap beef in a swindle amounting to "millions of dollars" a year, Chiles said.

Allied Chemical charged with pollution

The giant Allied Chemical Corp., Richmond, Va., the city of Hopewell and the manufacturer of a pesticide that poisoned workers and fishing waters were charged Friday with criminal violations of federal pollution laws in one of the largest environmental indictments in history. The defendants were charged under the 1899 Rivers and Refuse Act and the 1972 Water Pollution Control Act, with polluting the James River with the ant and roach killer kepone. Allied also was accused of conspiring to circumvent the anti-pollution mission of the Environmental Protection Agency and the Army Corps of Engineers.

Union meets on ending SF strike

Union leaders met behind closed doors in San Francisco Friday to consider a proposal aimed at ending the 38-day walkout of city craft workers which has brought cable cars, streetcars and buses to a halt. The proposal, reported to have been approved tentatively by the striking unions, would appoint a fact-finding committee to investigate the issues in the walkout after the striking employes return to work.

Moslems urge election boycott today

Moslem leftist leaders declared Friday they would boycott parliament's election of a new president and urged Lebanese to stage a general strike and "use all kinds of methods" to block the crucial session today. The appeal, a last-ditch challenge to Syria's peace initiative, threatened to explode Beirut's fragile cease-fire and touch off a new escalation of the fighting still raging in mountain villages east of the capital. The Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine, a breakaway guerrilla group opposed to Syrian political and military intervention in Lebanon, threatened to resume all-out war if no political settlement was reached. The leftist alliance, meeting under Socialist chief Kamal Jumblatt, called on the Lebanese people to "declare a general strike and use all kinds of methods to manifest the popular protest against attempts to appoint a president by force."

New cars expected to go up $200

DETROIT (UPI) — New car prices probably will increase this fall by only 4 to 5 per cent — around $200 a car — if material and labor costs can be held in check, the trade publication Automotive News says.

Those increases in the fall will be in line with the $248 price hike (4.6 per cent) on the average equipped 1976-model automobile and well below the $1,000 a car jump spread over the 1974 and 1975 model years. Those sharp increase helped push the depressed industry further in the hole.

Chrysler Corp. Chairman John Riccardo already has said price increases are a certainty this fall.

"Cost increases are increasing and as long as they continue to increase," Riccardo said at a recent news conference, "we are going to have to get some recovery."

The price hike announced by the major steel manufacturers for mid-June are not expected to be passed on until the 1977 models are introduced. Financial analysts say automakers would be justified in an $18-a-car hike just to recover that one extra cost.

Automotive News, in its May 10 edition, says a key element in the new-car price equation is the increases passed along by automotive suppliers. And lately suppliers have been raising prices to cash in on the auto industry's renewed profitability.

A survey by the trade publication of financial analysts indicated there was a lengthy period during most of 1974 when smaller suppliers were told to hold the price line. Such suppliers are now long overdue for increases on their products, the analysts said.

The price increases will be spread sharply among different car lines, those analysts said.

General Motors is expected to be very cautious in pricing its downsized standard car lines to get them a favorable reception in the marketplace. There still is some uncertainty on how the new, smaller "big cars" will be received when they're compared to the conventional full-sized cars offered by Ford and Chrysler.

Intermediates, the hottest-selling car segment, are expected to get the largest price boosts. There is a lack of capacity to meet the demand for intermediates right now, and this shortage is expected to continue into the fall.

3rd World plan supported

NAIROBI, Kenya (UPI) — Sec. of State Henry Kissinger's proposals to aid the Third World economy with money and technology won approval Friday from a number of rich and poor nations.

But several western nations split over proposals the developing nations themselves put forward at the U.N. Conference on Trade and Development.

The key to the plan Kissinger announced Thursday was a $1 billion international resources bank to "promote more rational equitable and systematic" tapping of raw materials in poor countries.

Few of the 4,500 participants at the 23-day conference replied to Kissinger's complicated proposals in their set speeches on the meeting's third day, but many expressed support for the new U.S. policy in interviews.

Australia followed up one of Kissinger's points and announced it would lower import tariffs to assist poor nations' industries. Foreign Affairs Minister Andrew Peacock said the U.S. policy provided a "most promising start to our deliberations."

The chief delegate from Pakistan, Niaz Ahmad Naik, said Kissinger's willingness to transfer technology and industrial techniques to poor nations in some respects went beyond what the Third World itself has proposed.

"I think the Group of 77 (a Third World bloc of 111 nations) are gratified that counterproposals are on the table," he said. "I find positive elements in the speech."

Delegates from Brazil and India agreed. However, Libyan delegate Misbah Oreibi said it was "completely unrealistic."

Ascorbic acid solves 'mystery'

Andy sends the Encyclopedia Britannica's 1976 Yearbook of Science and the Future to Tanya McIntyre, 12, of Thorold South, Ont., Canada, for her question:

WHY IS ASCORBIC ACID ADDED TO FRUIT JUICE?

The story of ascorbic acid is linked to a dreaded disease called scurvy. This disease has been around for centuries; and although its cure has been known for 150 years, the cause was not discovered until relatively modern times. Nowadays this terrible affliction is little more than a dark memory of bygone days. But the complete unraveling of its cause and cure is like reading an exciting mystery story with a happy ending.

In the early 1500's exploration fever gripped the rulers of many countries. Columbus had discovered the New World, and there were many who wanted to explore and share the wealth of this strange new land. When sailors set up on the long voyages, they were aware of the many dangers and hardships that faced them.

One thing they did not understand, however, was the disease called scurvy. No one was certain what caused it or who would get it. Some thought that cold, damp air was responsible, while others felt that crowded shipboard conditions were to blame. There were even some who believed that being homesick, unhappy or depressed could bring on the mysterious ailment.

Victims of scurvy became a hopeless, depressed, unhappy lot. They weakened and developed ugly skin sores. Teeth became loose in gums that would bleed frequently. And bones seemed to break ever so easily. Asif this weren't enough, blood vessels would break under the skin and even the tiniest cut would not heal. Many of the victims eventually died a painful death.

As years passed, it was noted that if certain foods were added to a seaman's diet, scurvy could be avoided. Tomatoes, raw cabbage or potatoes, fresh fruits, especially lemons, limes and oranges, seemed to contain a substance necessary to the body. And by 1795 rations of lemon juice became a part of each sailor's daily diet. The disease was cured, but its exact cause was still unknown.

It was not until 1932 that ascorbic acid — vitamin C — was pinned down as the substance that prevented scurvy. Scientists also discovered that the body does not store vitamin C in any great amounts, and daily doses are necessary.

Ascorbic acid is not a difficult vitamin to obtain, but it is hard to store. Exposure to air, light and high temperatures destroys this valuable vitamin. In the preparation of most canned juices heat is involved. Ascorbic acid — vitamin C — is then added to enrich our daily diet.

Vitamin C does more than merely prevent scurvy. It is needed for the development of sound bones and teeth. The ability of the body to heal wounds and produce strong healthy vessels also depends on daily quantities of this most important substance — Vitamin C.

Andy sends a Student Globe to Tom Hecker, 11, of Lancaster, Pa., for his question:

DO ALL ANIMALS SLEEP?

Mr. Sandman brings sleep to all of us regularly — and we rise to greet the new day eagerly and refreshed. During sleep, our muscles relax; our breathing and heartbeat rate slow down, and our brain waves become slower. Scientists tell us that, among animals, only some vertebrates (animals with backbones) experience true sleep, with changes in brain wave patterns. There are the reptiles, birds and mammals.

Sleep envelopes these animals in varying patterns. Some sleep all night, like we do, while others take quick catnaps. Some sleep standing up, such as cattle and horses. Others sleep curled up in a ball, or with their head tucked under a wing. Although fish and amphibians have lull priods when they are less aware of their surroundings, changes in brain waves do not occur. And members of the insect and spider world evidently do not sleep or doze at all, in spite of their habit of taking an hour or two off for rest now and then.

Fifth-grade teacher Norma Hulett supervises the colonial classroom at Dunton School.

Colonial school days return

The good old days are back at Dunton School in Arlington Heights.

One of the rooms of the school at 1200 S. Dunton has been converted into an old-fashioned classroom where students spend a portion of the day. The desks and tables have been replaced by wooden benches where students sit dressed in suspenders and long dresses. Modern textbooks are replaced by "horns," paddle-shaped colonial books, and students write their lessons with quill pens.

Beware to the student who gets out of line! The modern methods of discipline have no place in this classroom.

Students who "misbehave" sit in the corner wearing the cone-shaped dunce cap. The dunce must balance himself on a one-legged stool.

Residency rule 'all boils down to the buck'

by JOE SWICKARD

Village Pres. James T. Ryan terms it one of the "aspects of living in a prestige community," and a village employe says, "it all boils down to a buck."

While Chicago's Mayor Richard J. Daley, backed by a recent decision of the U.S. Supreme Court, has ordered his municipal employes to live within the city limits under threat of losing their job, more than one-third of Arlington Heights' employes live outside the village with the approval of the village fathers.

Gregory Ford, village personnel director, said that of the 427 employes of the village and the Arlington Heights Memorial Library, 177 live outside the village, compared to 250 that live inside the corporate limits.

"THERE HAS BEEN no discussion about changing the rules," Ford said. "We don't even ask people where they live when they apply for work (as a consideration for employment)."

He said there are no "bonus points" or special consideration given to a potential employe based upon his address.

Most employes who make their home outside Arlington Heights have a Rolling Meadows address, Ford said. The 35 Rolling Meadows residents working for the village are followed, in quantity, by the 11 in Mount Prospect, he said.

The remaining 131 employes are classified as living in "other communities."

FORD SAID the village employe policy manual, adopted in 1971, requires only "the village manager and those department heads he appoints" to live inside the village. An "outsider" appointed as a department head has one year during which to move into the village, according to the policy.

However, village residents are given priority for summer jobs, and persons hired under the Comprehensive Training and Education Act must be residents. Ford said the CETA residency requirement is a federal regulation, and not set by the village.

Ryan said village employes "could be priced out of the market" when it comes time to find a home because of real estate values in Arlington Heights.

"This is just one aspect of living in a prestigious community," Ryan said.

HE SAID THAT other high-income suburbs have similar situations with their municipal employes.

"It has not presented a problem in the past. A policeman, for example, living in Mount Prospect may actually be closer to the station than one living in Arlington Heights on Dundee Road. If it does become a problem, we can take a look at it then," Ryan said.

Capt. Paul Buckholz is one of those employes who makes his home outside Arlington Heights. Buckholz said he would have preferred moving to Arlington Heights when he joined the force, but the houses were out of his price range.

"It was real estate values. Really, who wants to drive to work farther than you have to? When I moved, I got into Rolling Meadows for nickels and dimes and Arlington Heights would have cost me an arm and a leg," Buckholz said.

HE SAID HE WOULD "just as soon live in Arlington Heights" now, but that after 19 years in Rolling Meadows he is reluctant to pick up stakes and start over again in a new house.

"Arlington Heights is expensive," he said. "It boils down to a buck."

However, the steadily increasing real estate values throughout the area are forcing some village employes to move farther out in order to find a house they can afford, Buckholz said.

"The distance requirement is not an iron-clad thing. It comes down to performance: can they get here when they are needed. So far, it has not been a big thing," he said.

Court won't let Harper mail contracts to faculty

The Harper College Board of Trustees has been prohibited by the Cook County Circuit Court from mailing contracts to faculty members for another 10 days.

Circuit Court Judge Nathan M. Cohen extended a temporary restraining order against the college board until May 17. The order issued Thursday prevents the board from communicating directly with faculty members about contracts and salary negotiations without prior approval of the court.

The injunction against the board was obtained last week by the Harper Faculty Senate. The faculty sought the injunction after the board established salaries for the 1976-77 school year following a breakdown in negotiations.

THE FACULTY CHARGED the board with violating an agreement which recognizes the faculty senate for negotiating. Trustees say, however, the agreement merely names the senate as the bargaining agent, but does not require the board to negotiate.

The Harper faculty voted earlier this week to affiliate with a national teachers' union. Faculty Senate Pres. David Macaulay said the breakdown in negotiations this year was the "final push" in convincing the faculty to form a union.

Trustee Robert Rausch, chief board negotiator, said the court order probably will mean the board will wait until June 1 to mail faculty contracts, when the recognition agreement with the faculty senate expires.

Another hearing on the matter is set for Tuesday before Cohen.

Dist. 214 board vote due Monday on teacher pact

A tentative contract agreement with teachers in High School Dist. 214, calling for a 7 per cent increase in base salary, will go to the board of education for approval Monday night.

The agreement was reached last month between the board's negotiating team and the negotiating team of the Dist. 214 Education Assn., which represents teachers. Members of the association voted on the agreement Friday, but the votes will not be counted until Tuesday.

The association's governing board decided to postpone counting the teachers ballots until after board members voted on the agreement, "so that neither side knows the result of the other side until both have voted," said association president Randall Knudsen. Three years ago, teachers accepted a contract agreement by a 5-1 margin, but that evening board members rejected the agreement in a 4-3 vote.

BOTH SIDES must approve the agreement before it can take effect. If the agreement is not approved, the contract goes back to the bargaining table.

The board will act on the agreement at 8 p.m. Monday at the Dist. 214 administration center, 799 W. Kensington Rd., Mount Prospect.

The two-year agreement, which would take effect in August, calls for a 7 per cent increase in base salary the first year, from $10,140 to $10,850. In the second year the base pay would be raised equal to the percentage increase in the cost of living in the Chicago area during 1976.

TEACHERS ALSO receive an annual step raise for an additional year of experience. The amount of the raise varies at different points on the salary schedule. The average step raise is now about 4 per cent, which would make the total pay raise for the average teacher about 11 per cent next year.

Other provisions in the proposed contract include:

- An increase in medical coverage, including emergency room coverage and diagnostic, accident and maternity coverage.
- Elimination of some nonacademic assignments of teachers.
- A provision to freeze a teacher's salary if his evaluation shows his performance has been unsatisfactory.
- An increase in extra duty pay, supervisory assignment pay and summer school pay.

Fifth-grade teacher Norma Hulett supervises the colonial classroom at Dunton School.

Colonial school days return

The good old days are back at Dunton School in Arlington Heights.

One of the rooms of the school at 1200 S. Dunton has been converted into an old-fashioned classroom where students spend a portion of the day. The desks and tables have been replaced by wooden benches where students sit dressed in suspenders and long dresses. Modern textbooks are replaced by "horns," paddle-shaped colonial books, and students write their lessons with quill pens.

Beware to the student who gets out of line! The modern methods of discipline have no place in this classroom.

The poor dunce, Oksana Haliw.

Residency rule 'all boils down to the buck'

by JOE SWICKARD

Village Pres. James T. Ryan terms it one of the "aspects of living in a prestige community," and a village employe says, "it all boils down to a buck."

While Chicago's Mayor Richard J. Daley, backed by a recent decision of the U.S. Supreme Court, has ordered his municipal employes to live within the city limits under threat of losing their job, more than one-third of Arlington Heights' employes live outside the village with the approval of the village fathers.

Gregory Ford, village personnel director, said that of the 427 employes of the village and the Arlington Heights Memorial Library, 177 live outside the village, compared to 250 that live inside the corporate limits.

"THERE HAS BEEN no discussion about changing the rules," Ford said. "We don't even ask people where they live when they apply for work (as a consideration for employment)."

He said there are no "bonus points" or special consideration given to a potential employe based upon his address.

Most employes who make their home outside Arlington Heights have a Rolling Meadows address, Ford said. The 35 Rolling Meadows residents working for the village are followed, in quantity, by the 11 in Mount Prospect, he said.

The remaining 131 employes are classified as living in "other communities."

FORD SAID the village employe policy manual, adopted in 1971, requires only "the village manager and those department heads he appoints" to live inside the village. An "outsider" appointed as a department head has one year during which to move into the village, according to the policy.

However, village residents are given priority for summer jobs, and persons hired under the Comprehensive Training and Education Act must be residents. Ford said the CETA residency requirement is a federal regulation, and not set by the village.

Ryan said village employes "could be priced out of the market" when it comes time to find a home because of real estate values in Arlington Heights.

"This is just one aspect of living in a prestigious community," Ryan said.

HE SAID THAT other high-income suburbs have similar situations with their municipal employes.

"It has not presented a problem in the past. A policeman, for example, living in Mount Prospect may actually be closer to the station than one living in Arlington Heights on Dundee Road. If it does become a problem, we can take a look at it then," Ryan said.

Capt. Paul Buckholz is one of those employes who makes his home outside Arlington Heights. Buckholz said he would have preferred moving to Arlington Heights when he joined the force, but the houses were out of his price range.

"It was real estate values. Really, who wants to drive to work farther than you have to? When I moved, I got into Rolling Meadows for nickels and dimes and Arlington Heights would have cost me an arm and a leg," Buckholz said.

HE SAID HE WOULD "just as soon live in Arlington Heights" now, but that after 19 years in Rolling Meadows he is reluctant to pick up stakes and start over again in a new house.

"Arlington Heights is expensive," he said. "It boils down to a buck."

However, the steadily increasing real estate values throughout the area are forcing some village employes to move farther out in order to find a house they can afford, Buckholz said.

"The distance requirement is not an iron-clad thing. It comes down to performance: can they get here when they are needed. So far, it has not been a big thing," he said.

Court won't let Harper mail contracts to faculty

The Harper College Board of Trustees has been prohibited by the Cook County Circuit Court from mailing contracts to faculty members for another 10 days.

Circuit Court Judge Nathan M. Cohen extended a temporary restraining order against the college board until May 17. The order issued Thursday prevents the board from communicating directly with faculty members about contracts and salary negotiations without prior approval of the court.

The injunction against the board was obtained last week by the Harper Faculty Senate. The faculty sought the injunction after the board established salaries for the 1976-77 school year following a breakdown in negotiations.

THE FACULTY CHARGED the board with violating an agreement which recognizes the faculty senate for negotiating. Trustees say, however, the agreement merely names the senate as the bargaining agent, but does not require the board to negotiate.

The Harper faculty voted earlier this week to affiliate with a national teachers' union. Faculty Senate Pres. David Macaulay said the breakdown in negotiations this year was the "final push" in convincing the faculty to form a union.

Trustee Robert Rausch, chief board negotiator, said the court order probably will mean the board will wait until June 1 to mail faculty contracts, when the recognition agreement with the faculty senate expires.

Another hearing on the matter is set for Tuesday before Cohen.

Dist. 214 board vote due Monday on teacher pact

A tentative contract agreement with teachers in High School Dist. 214, calling for a 7 per cent increase in base salary, will go to the board of education for approval Monday night.

The agreement was reached last month between the board's negotiating team and the negotiating team of the Dist. 214 Education Assn., which represents teachers. Members of the association voted on the agreement Friday, but the votes will not be counted until Tuesday.

The association's governing board decided to postpone counting the teachers ballots until after board members voted on the agreement, "so that neither side knows the result of the other side until both have voted," said association president Randall Knudsen. Three years ago, teachers accepted a contract agreement by a 5-1 margin, but that evening board members rejected the agreement in a 4-3 vote.

BOTH SIDES must approve the agreement before it can take effect. If the agreement is not approved, the contract goes back to the bargaining table.

The board will act on the agreement at 8 p.m. Monday at the Dist. 214 administration center, 799 W. Kensington Rd., Mount Prospect.

The two-year agreement, which would take effect in August, calls for a 7 per cent increase in base salary the first year, from $10,140 to $10,850. In the second year the base pay would be raised equal to the percentage increase in the cost of living in the Chicago area during 1976.

TEACHERS ALSO receive an annual step raise for an additional year of experience. The amount of the raise varies at different points on the salary schedule. The average step raise is now about 4 per cent, which would make the total pay raise for the average teacher about 11 per cent next year.

Other provisions in the proposed contract include:

- An increase in medical coverage, including emergency room coverage and diagnostic, accident and maternity coverage.
- Elimination of some nonacademic assignments of teachers.
- A provision to freeze a teacher's salary if his evaluation shows his performance has been unsatisfactory.
- An increase in extra duty pay, supervisory assignment pay and summer school pay.
- The formation of a committee to recommend procedures for reducing staff as enrollment declines. The committee would report to the board by Feb. 1, 1977.
- An early retirement incentive plan for teachers.

Old spectacles worth another look

by JEAN BARNES

Time spent in a doctor's waiting room is usually productive only of frustration. Recently this experience brought a new collectible to light. While waiting, we found a book by Dr. L. D. Bronson, California optometrist, on the subject of collecting eyeglasses.

The book, "Early American Specs," published in limited edition by The Occidental Publishing Co., Glendale, Calif., is the result of more than 30 years of collecting and compiling data on the subject.

A fairly adequate history of eyeglasses can be traced back to the 13th century, according to Dr. Bronson. Prior to that, however, the origin and use is obscure and the earliest date known is 2283 B.C. when a Chinese emperor is supposed to have worn tortoise shell glasses.

Glass has not always been used for lenses, either, he said. Rock crystal, quartz, topaz, emerald and beryl (all naturally transparent substances) were suitable substitutes.

DR. BRONSON HAS divided the collecting of eyeglasses into several categories. A definition of terms makes a difference between spectacles and eyeglasses. Specs are held in place by arms (temples) which fasten around the ears or hug the head. Early specs had folding temples which could be adjusted to fit the individual wearer.

Although the terms eyeglasses and spectacles are often used interchangeably, eyeglasses properly refer to those appliances which are held by a spring mounting on the nose.

Then there is the Oxford, a collapsible eyeglass; the lorgnette, held in place by a hand; and the quizzers, a single lens used for magnification (monocles fall in this category). Both lorgnettes and quizzers were usually very ornamental.

ALTHOUGH THERE are many collectors of specs and eyeglasses, Bronson asserted, you won't find many at antique shows and the prices are usually unrealistic. These are collectibles that too few dealers are really knowledgeable about. And, the unwary collector may find a widely fluctuating price range.

At one time in our history it was not uncommon for the wearer of specs or eyeglasses to will them to a favored heir. Many gold and silver frames have been melted down for scrap as prices for precious metals increased. Then in recent years, a drive for used spectacles to aid the needy in depressed areas both here and overseas took more of the antique specimens out of circulation.

Nevertheless, author Bronson asserts the availability of specs for those interested enough to scout for them. He suggests estate sales, swap meets, hobby and antique shows, wherever one might find old things.

NEXT WEEK: More on identifying and dating spectacles.

Weddings

Susan Dwyer – Thomas A. Stejskal

Susan Marie Dwyer of Woodstock wore her mother's chapel-length wedding gown of white satin with Alencon lace trim for her April 24 marriage to Thomas Alan Stejskal of Arlington Heights.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Stejskal

With it she wore a chapel-length veil edged in matching lace, which she made herself, and a lace tiara headpiece. Susan's bouquet was of gardenias, white roses and baby's breath.

She and Tom met a year and a half ago when they were honor attendants for her sister's wedding. For the wedding last month, Susan and Tom wrote their own vows and wedding mass. After the 3 p.m. ceremony in St. Mary's Church, Woodstock, the couple greeted 200 guests at Pal's restaurant, also in Woodstock.

THE BRIDE IS the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Dwyer and the groom the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Stejskal.

Mrs. Ann Fitzgerald of Lake Forest, Susan's sister, was matron of honor, wearing a blue and orchid flowered nylon gown with matching full-length cape and carrying white iris, daisies, baby's breath and statice.

Another sister, Janice Dwyer, was a bridesmaid along with Cathy Orso, Crystal Lake; Karen DeFazio, Palatine; and Beverly Quatroke, Algonquin. The girls were all gowned exactly like the matron of honor.

Also wearing the floral print was the flower girl, Beverly Zolezzi, 2, the bride's cousin from Berkeley, Ill. Ring bearer was John Hartlieb, 3, of Woodstock.

TOM CHOSE Phil Haag, Justice, Ill., as best man and as groomsmen John Rouse, Arlington Heights; Louis DeFazio, Palatine; and the bride's brothers, James and John Dwyer.

The newlyweds are living in Schaumburg after a week's honeymoon in New Orleans. Tom works in Elk Grove Village for International Processing Co.

He is a graduate of Wheeling High and Southern Illinois University. His bride graduated from Northeer Illinois University.

Mr. and Mrs. Brad Koerner

Jane Johnson – Brad Koerner

An area couple, Jane Johnson of Mount Prospect and Brad Koerner of Arlington Heights, honeymooned for two weeks in New England after their April 10 wedding in St. Raymond Catholic Church. They are making their home in Palatine.

Jane, daughter of the Paul J. Johnsons, is a teacher's aid at Euclid School, Mount Prospect,and her husband is with Soffit Servicing, Arlington Heights. Brad's parents are the Joseph Koreners.

For their 1 p.m. double ring service, Jane's maid of honor was her sister, Jill, and best man was Brad's brother, Jamie. The four bridesmaids were Mary Wolf, Aspen, Colo.; Diane Dewar, Mount Prospect; Karen Freeman, Chicago; and Terry Bergen Flom, Appleton, Wis. Groomsmen included the groom's brother, Geoff; Tom Lemmons, Minneapolis; and Steve Bach and Bill Sheetz, Arlington Heights.

THE BRIDE coordinated her headpiece to her bouquet, both composed of white roses, stephanotis and baby's breath. Her gown was of white organza with Chantilly lace accents and her veil was cathedral-length.

All the bridal attendants were gowned alike in apricot and carried apricot roses, daisies and baby's breath.

The reception for 175 guests was held at the Saddle and Cycle Club in Chicago.

The bride attended Sacred Heart of Mary High and graduated in '75 from Lawrence University, Appleton, Wis. The groom attended Arlington High and Goddard College, Plainfield, Vt.

Sheila Irwin – William Kesler

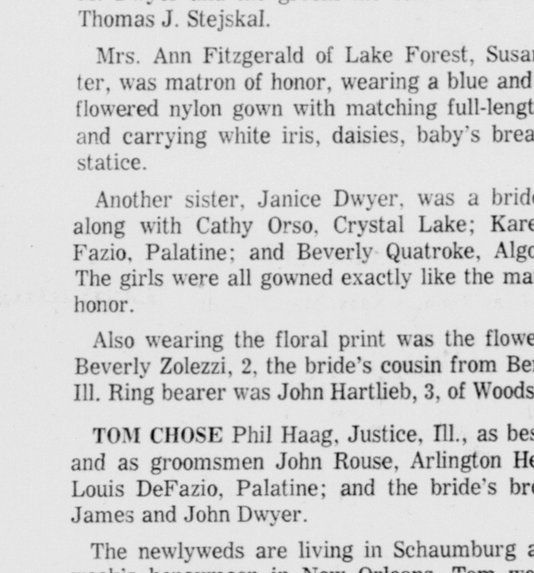
Cheyenne, Wyo., where the groom is with the Wyoming Bank Corp., is the new home for Sheila Irwin and her bridegroom, William Kesler. Married April 10 in St. James Catholic Church, Arlington Heights, Sheila is the daughter of the Thomas Irwins, Arlington Heights, and William, who has been making his home in Chicago, is the son of the William R. Keslers of Naples, Fla.

Their noontime double ring wedding was followed by a reception for 160 guests in the Barn of Barrington.

Sheila chose her sister, Mary, as maid of honor and her sister, Anne, as one of the bridesmaids. Also serving as bridesmaids were Melissa Greenwood, Arlington Heights; Shayla Berkley, St. Louis, Mo; and Barbara Speer, Palatine. All wore peach jersey gowns and carried peach gladioli and roses with miniature carnations and baby's breath.

SHEILA'S GOWN was of nylon jersey with yoke and sleeve cuffs trimmed in beads and seed pearls. A Juliet cap with the same trim held her veil, and she carried miniature white carnations and stephanotis.

David Speer, Palatine, was the groom's best man and ushers were his brothers, James and Robert Brinkman, Naples; James Hines, Chicago; and Jay Swanson, Champaign, Ill.



Mr. and Mrs. William Kesler

The new Mrs. Kesler is a '71 graduate of Prospect High and a '75 graduate of Drake University. The groom is a '69 graduate of Barrington High and a '73 graduate of Colorado State University.

Barbara Hjelm – Tom Turnbaugh

Barbara E. Hjelm and Thomas E. Turnbaugh, who recently honeymooned in London, England, first met at a Wisconsin youth camp 10 years ago and last summer they became reacquainted in this same area and began dating.

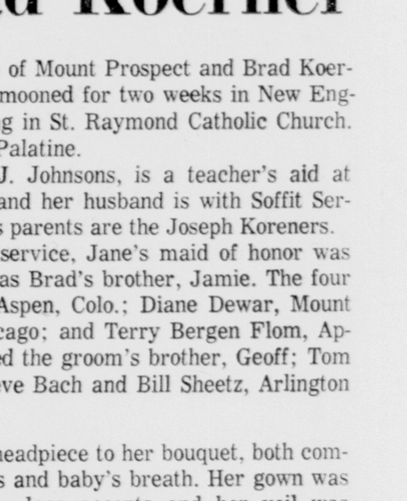
Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Hjelm, Arlington Heights, Barbara and Tom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Turnbaugh, Moline, Ill., were married April 10 in Arlington Heights Evangelical Free Church. Their 4 p.m. service was both candlelight and double ring, followed by a dinner reception for 270 guests in the church's Fellowship Hall.

Barbara wore an ivory satin gown with beaded bodice and long, organza sleeves. Her floor-length veil fell from a Juliet cap, and she carried white orchids and stephanotis.

MATRON OF honor was her sister, Janet Long, Atlanta, Ga., and bridesmaids were her cousin, Karen Porter, Elmhurst; Jorie Kincaid, Portland Ore.; Ellen Fuchs, Rockford; Paula Brooks, Lake Zurich; and Bonnie Richards, also a cousin from Elmhurst.

The girls wore sheer print gowns in yellow and apricot on green backgrounds with matching capelets, and carried mixed spring flowers. In white lace over yellow cotton were Cindy, 6 and Julie Carlson, 7 of Arlington Heights, who were flower girls. They carried small bouquets of yellow and orange flowers.

Best man was the groom's brother, Paul, and ushers were John Bowman, Lake Forest; Dan Olsen and Dan Peal, Buffalo Grove, Peter Gustafson, Vernon Hills; Joe Wesenberg, Rock Island; and the bride's brother-in-law, Charles Long, Atlanta.



Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Turnbaugh

NOW AT HOME in Wheeling, Barbara is a learning disabilities teacher in Mount Prospect and Tom is with the Park District of Hghland Park. Barbara graduated from Prospect High, studied at Wheaton College and graduated from Illinois State University. She is now studying for her master's degree at Northern Illinois University.

Tom received his B.S. degree from Trinity College in Deerfield and his master's in parks and recreation from George Williams College, Downers Grove.

THE BRIDE coordinated her headpiece to her bouquet, both composed of white roses, stephanotis and baby's breath. Her gown was of white organza with Chantilly lace accents and her veil was cathedral-length.

All the bridal attendants were gowned alike in apricot and carried apricot roses, daisies and baby's breath.

The reception for 175 guests was held at the Saddle and Cycle Club in Chicago.

The bride attended Sacred Heart of Mary High and graduated in '75 from Lawrence University, Appleton, Wis. The groom attended Arlington High and Goddard College, Plainfield, Vt.

Sheila Irwin – William Kesler

Cheyenne, Wyo., where the groom is with the Wyoming Bank Corp., is the new home for Sheila Irwin and her bridegroom, William Kesler. Married April 10 in St. James Catholic Church, Arlington Heights, Sheila is the daughter of the Thomas Irwins, Arlington Heights, and William, who has been making his home in Chicago, is the son of the William R. Keslers of Naples, Fla.

Their noontime double ring wedding was followed by a reception for 160 guests in the Barn of Barrington.

Sheila chose her sister, Mary, as maid of honor and her sister, Anne, as one of the bridesmaids. Also serving as bridesmaids were Melissa Greenwood, Arlington Heights; Shayla Berkley, St. Louis, Mo; and Barbara Speer, Palatine. All wore peach jersey gowns and carried peach gladioli and roses with miniature carnations and baby's breath.

SHEILA'S GOWN was of nylon jersey with yoke and sleeve cuffs trimmed in beads and seed pearls. A Juliet cap with the same trim held her veil, and she carried miniature white carnations and stephanotis.

David Speer, Palatine, was the groom's best man and ushers were his brothers, James and Robert Brinkman, Naples; James Hines, Chicago; and Jay Swanson, Champaign, Ill.

Mr. and Mrs. William Kesler

The new Mrs. Kesler is a '71 graduate of Prospect High and a '75 graduate of Drake University. The groom is a '69 graduate of Barrington High and a '73 graduate of Colorado State University.

Barbara Hjelm – Tom Turnbaugh

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Turnbaugh

Barbara E. Hjelm and Thomas E. Turnbaugh, who recently honeymooned in London, England, first met at a Wisconsin youth camp 10 years ago and last summer they became reacquainted in this same area and began dating.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Hjelm, Arlington Heights, Barbara and Tom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Turnbaugh, Moline, Ill., were married April 10 in Arlington Heights Evangelical Free Church. Their 4 p.m. service was both candlelight and double ring, followed by a dinner reception for 270 guests in the church's Fellowship Hall.

Barbara wore an ivory satin gown with beaded bodice and long, organza sleeves. Her floor-length veil fell from a Juliet cap, and she carried white orchids and stephanotis.

MATRON OF honor was her sister, Janet Long, Atlanta, Ga., and bridesmaids were her cousin, Karen Porter, Elmhurst; Jorie Kincaid, Portland Ore.; Ellen Fuchs, Rockford; Paula Brooks, Lake Zurich; and Bonnie Richards, also a cousin from Elmhurst.

The girls wore sheer print gowns in yellow and apricot on green backgrounds with matching capelets, and carried mixed spring flowers. In white lace over yellow cotton were Cindy, 6 and Julie Carlson, 7 of Arlington Heights, who were flower girls. They carried small bouquets of yellow and orange flowers.

Best man was the groom's brother, Paul, and ushers were John Bowman, Lake Forest; Dan Olsen and Dan Peal, Buffalo Grove, Peter Gustafson, Vernon Hills; Joe Wesenberg, Rock Island; and the bride's brother-in-law, Charles Long, Atlanta.

NOW AT HOME in Wheeling, Barbara is a learning disabilities teacher in Mount Prospect and Tom is with the Park District of Hghland Park. Barbara graduated from Prospect High, studied at Wheaton College and graduated from Illinois State University. She is now studying for her master's degree at Northern Illinois University.

Tom received his B.S. degree from Trinity College in Deerfield and his master's in parks and recreation from George Williams College, Downers Grove.

The doctor says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Diabetes frequently will affect the eyes

I have a mother who is 68 years old and has diabetes. In the last few months she started going blind. The eye doctor tells her the blood vessels are breaking in the back of her eye. She can only see forms. I am wondering if there is any hope for her. Her glasses haven't been changed in a few years, only the bifocals. I will appreciate anything you can tell me.

Your description sounds to me as if your mother has what doctors call diabetic retinopathy. The retina is a screen at the back of the eye. All images are projected on this screen much like a movie film image is projected on the screen. It is this image on the screen that is relayed to the brain so one can see.

The retinal screen contains a lot of blood vessels. Because diabetics are prone to blood vessel disease, these tend to break and cause damage to the retinal screen. Whenever there is damage the screen is unable to transmit a good image. There is very little that can be done about this problem. It is one of the complications of diabetes that makes it such an unpleasant disease. Good control of diabetes throughout life and diets which protect against the development of fatty-cholesterol deposits in arteries are helpful from a preventive point of view.

Another thing that could be happening is that she may be having hemorrhages into the vigeous, the jelly-likeksubstance that fills the major chamber inside the eye. Some work, though still in an experimental stage, is being done in which the jelly-like material can literally be sucked out of the eye, cleaned and replaced. However, I think that if I encouraged you about that at this moment, it would be a false hope.

DIABETES CAN affect the lens of the eye as well. It causes an increased incidence of cataracts. If cataracts were the only problem, they could be removed.

I would like to point out that changing glasses will have little or no effect on the kinds of changes that occur in the eye from diabetes. Changing glasses will not affect the damage to the retina or anything that may occur in the jelly-like substance.

I realize this is a fairly discouraging reply and I only wish there were something more positive that I could suggest to you.

For my other readers I would like to emphasize that diabetes is a serious disease. Early detection and careful management is essential in trying to prevent many of its undesirable complications. Screening for diabetes should be part of everyone's annual medical checkup. Those who want more information on diabetes can send 50 cents for The Health Letter, number 3-10, Diabetes: The Sweet Sickness and number 3-11, Diabetes: Diagnosis, Prevention and Management. Send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Address your letter to me in care of Paddock Publications, P. O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

Synthetic pesticides upset life's balances

Dear Dorothy: Every time I read something about the damage done by pesticides, I wonder what our forebears did in this country to control pests and crops. You've written a lot about pesticides and so you ought to know. — Mrs. Helga Smyth

There's no question our early settlers did some misguided things — like using paris green (crude arsenic) to keep the Colorado potato beetle off their potato crops and dusting grain seeds with copper sulfate. But it's irrelevant. That was a period when there were still some natural balances, and there simply isn't any way of equating the old with the new.

Rachel Carson put it best when she wrote, "Time is the essential ingredient; but in the mdern world there is no time." Whatever the early Americans did, they relied on inorganic chemicals. We broke over in World War II to the synthetic insecticides which are infinitely more deadly and which have already destroyed many of the balances life depends upon.

Dear Dorothy: Recipes make no distinction between fresh and dried herbs, and I sometimes come up with dishes that seem to me not quite right in taste. Is there a difference? — Elizabeth Gruening

Yes. Dried herbs are much stronger than the fresh. I always use a third to a half less. One can always add more, assuming you keep tasting to make sure as the cooking progresses.

Dear Dorothy: I have some blond furniture that needs cleaning and waxing. What's the best way? — Mrs. Leona Watson

Wash with a cloth wrung out of a soapy solution made of the popular white household soap, rinse off with a barely wet clean cloth, then dry. This is to eliminate any foreign matter. Then apply any good cream wax.

It will soon be moving time for a lot of families, and many probably will face the old problem of how to arrange pictures just so. Let me pass on a trick I watched a relative do in a new apartment. He marked off on the floor the exact size of each picture from pieces of newspaper and then kept moving them around. When they were just as he wanted them, he taped the patterns to the wall temporarily until each hole was drilled in the right place. An impressive "performance."

Dear Dorothy: You baffled me with your "windy yes, sunny no" comment about freshening pillows outdoors. Why no sun? — Jill Schaufele

Because a too-hot sun can dry the oil in the feathers.

Factors indicate

Offbeat religious cults losing appeal to youth

World of religion

by David E. Anderson

There are some indications that attractiveness of bizarre and offbeat religious cults such as the Children of God, the Unification Church and the Divine Light Mission of one-time boy guru Maharaj Ji may be declining.

But Bill Starr of Young Life believes some of the cults still pose a danger to adolescents and that parents need some guidelines on the various groups when their children come home proclaiming they have found the truth.

For Starr, even the use of the word cult is a negative.

"A CULT IS A distortion of some basic, historical idea of what Christianity is," he said in an interview. "A good case in point would be the distinction between the Jesus People of the 1960s and the Chilren of God."

The Jesus People, he said, "were for the most part simply an enthusiastic part of Christianity. They came out in a religious way against the war but were not destructive of historic Christianity."

But he said the Children of God, a cult basically found on the west Coast, "was one of the most damnable heresies to touch our kids . . . it was almost an enslavement."

One of the crucial guidelines, he said, would be to look at whether or not the group's teaching, "in a fundamental way distorts" historical Christianity.

"A DEAD GIVEAWAY is the way in which children are turned against their parents," he said.

If the group does not teach the potential convert to "honor thy father and mother, if it completely undermines the authority of parents, the loving authority, and teaches instead to turn children against their parents, then it is a dangerous group."

"Any authentic movement that is interested in the youngster," he said, "will be interested, must be interested, in the welfare of the whole family."

Another danger sign to watch for is the claiming of messianic authority by the leadership of the group. "It is dangerous when anyone acts as if they have all the answers."

Starr also warned about cults that promote "an irresponsible attitude toward life" and which say the potential convert "need not consider responsibility very important. Only that is important which the organization believes is important."

OTHER DANGER signs Starr pointed to included the group's educational process — "whether or not it encourages or allows differences of opinion" — and the demand that some groups make — he mentioned the Hare Krishan cult — of imposing a totally new and rigid life-style on the young person. "They tell you your present lifestyle is titally unacceptable, as are all other lifestyles but ours." An extreme form of that, Starr added, would be a group like the Manson Family, those who gathered around murderer Charles Manson.

Starr said the attractiveness of the cults, especially the more bizarre manifestations, "are definitely on the wane, in particular those cults that tried to shove it down your throats."

"The more subtle ones are the ones we have to watch for, those with more of an intellectual kind of appeal."

But Starr said young people today "basically have their heads screwed on pretty well" even while they still are going through all the turmoil of adolescence.

"We're always going to have our struggle with kids growing up and learning to handle things with moderation, but I think we're in a little better shape than we were 10 years ago," he said.

Kemper Corp. tells earnings

The Kemper Corp., Long Grove, reported operating earnings of $3,850,000 or 69 cents a share for the first quarter of 1976.

The figures compare to a loss of $2,426,000 or 43 cents a share for the same period in 1975. Realized capital gains for the first quarter amounted to 4 cents a share compared to a loss of 3 cents a share for the year-earlier period.

Kemper sales for the three-month period increased 17 per cent to $152,086,000. The increase includes $11,911,000 derived from sales of $141,568,000 during the first three months of the year and reflects participation in a pooling arrangement by two subsidiary companies.

James S. Kemper Jr., president, said the improved results reflect a turnaround in property-casualty and reinsurance operations.

Judge Friedlund to talk at meeting

Cook County Circuit Court Judge Herbert Friedlund will be the guest speaker Wednesday at the Northwest Suburban Bar Assn. meeting in Des Plaines.

The dinner meeting will be held at the Elks Club, 495 Lee St., starting with a 6:30 p.m. social hour. Friedlund is serving as the association's honorary vice chairman of May law month activities.

The organization will sponsor speakers on "Two Hundred Years of Liberty and Law," during the month.

Factors indicate

Offbeat religious cults losing appeal to youth

World of religion

by David E. Anderson

There are some indications that attractiveness of bizarre and offbeat religious cults such as the Children of God, the Unification Church and the Divine Light Mission of one-time boy guru Maharaj Ji may be declining.

But Bill Starr of Young Life believes some of the cults still pose a danger to adolescents and that parents need some guidelines on the various groups when their children come home proclaiming they have found the truth.

For Starr, even the use of the word cult is a negative.

"A CULT IS A distortion of some basic, historical idea of what Christianity is," he said in an interview. "A good case in point would be the distinction between the Jesus People of the 1960s and the Chilren of God."

The Jesus People, he said, "were for the most part simply an enthusiastic part of Christianity. They came out in a religious way against the war but were not destructive of historic Christianity."

But he said the Children of God, a cult basically found on the west Coast, "was one of the most damnable heresies to touch our kids . . . it was almost an enslavement."

One of the crucial guidelines, he said, would be to look at whether or not the group's teaching, "in a fundamental way distorts" historical Christianity.

"A DEAD GIVEAWAY is the way in which children are turned against their parents," he said.

If the group does not teach the potential convert to "honor thy father and mother, if it completely undermines the authority of parents, the loving authority, and teaches instead to turn children against their parents, then it is a dangerous group."

"Any authentic movement that is interested in the youngster," he said, "will be interested, must be interested, in the welfare of the whole family."

Another danger sign to watch for is the claiming of messianic authority by the leadership of the group. "It is dangerous when anyone acts as if they have all the answers."

Starr also warned about cults that promote "an irresponsible attitude toward life" and which say the potential convert "need not consider responsibility very important. Only that is important which the organization believes is important."

OTHER DANGER signs Starr pointed to included the group's educational process — "whether or not it encourages or allows differences of opinion" — and the demand that some groups make — he mentioned the Hare Krishan cult — of imposing a totally new and rigid life-style on the young person. "They tell you your present lifestyle is titally unacceptable, as are all other lifestyles but ours." An extreme form of that, Starr added, would be a group like the Manson Family, those who gathered around murderer Charles Manson.

Starr said the attractiveness of the cults, especially the more bizarre manifestations, "are definitely on the wane, in particular those cults that tried to shove it down your throats."

"The more subtle ones are the ones we have to watch for, those with more of an intellectual kind of appeal."

But Starr said young people today "basically have their heads screwed on pretty well" even while they still are going through all the turmoil of adolescence.

"We're always going to have our struggle with kids growing up and learning to handle things with moderation, but I think we're in a little better shape than we were 10 years ago," he said.

Kemper Corp. tells earnings

The Kemper Corp., Long Grove, reported operating earnings of $3,850,000 or 69 cents a share for the first quarter of 1976.

The figures compare to a loss of $2,426,000 or 43 cents a share for the same period in 1975. Realized capital gains for the first quarter amounted to 4 cents a share compared to a loss of 3 cents a share for the year-earlier period.

Kemper sales for the three-month period increased 17 per cent to $152,086,000. The increase includes $11,911,000 derived from sales of $141,568,000 during the first three months of the year and reflects participation in a pooling arrangement by two subsidiary companies.

James S. Kemper Jr., president, said the improved results reflect a turnaround in property-casualty and reinsurance operations.

Judge Friedlund to talk at meeting

Cook County Circuit Court Judge Herbert Friedlund will be the guest speaker Wednesday at the Northwest Suburban Bar Assn. meeting in Des Plaines.

The dinner meeting will be held at the Elks Club, 495 Lee St., starting with a 6:30 p.m. social hour. Friedlund is serving as the association's honorary vice chairman of May law month activities.

The organization will sponsor speakers on "Two Hundred Years of Liberty and Law," during the month.

No '76-77 contract yet? Still negotiating? What do you mean 'rubbing it in!' old buddy?

The way we see it

How to avoid crisis talks

High School Dist. 214 has succeeded in doing something few elementary or high school districts in this area have accomplished in recent years — they have reached tentative agreement in teacher contract negotiations more than a month before school vacation begins.

Board and teacher negotiators reached tentative accord April 26 after three months of negotiations. Teachers voted on the pact Friday and will announce the results of the vote Tuesday. The board is expected to vote on the contract Monday.

The procedures used by Dist. 214 in contract talks worked well for both sides and are something other districts, especially those with a history of tough negotiations, should seriously consider.

According to the procedures, negotiations begin with each side presenting a proposal. Talks then continue for 60 days and if no agreement has been reached an impasse is declared and more intensive negotiations begin.

The impasse stage continues for another 20 days. If agreement is not reached, negotiations enter fact-finding, where a panel including representatives from the faculty, board and a neutral third party analyze negotiations.

The procedures encourage swift, efficient bargaining, ingredients that have been lacking in many local districts. All too often negotiations drag through the summer months with little serious bargaining until September when the school year begins and a crisis atmosphere prevails.

We have long advocated the type of procedures being used by Dist. 214. Even if the contract is rejected next week, the district is a giant step ahead of its neighbors, and has proven that bargaining does not have to be an eight-or 10-month process.

Her statistics are slippery

As we all know because the National Safety Council has been telling us for years, most accidents happen in the home. It also says that most accidents in the home happen to women. Naturally. The kids are at school having their accidents, and Dad goes to work to have his.

In a more recent report, NSC says that falls are what do women in and that one common household mishap is the "pantyhose pratfall." And then it says, "Stocking feet, especially if the hose are made of slick synthetics, are the slipperiest of all."

Wrong.

MY MOTHER'S handknit woolen slippersox were the slipperiest of all and my brother will be the first to confirm this. He fell down the stairs in a pair of Mom's slippersox, picked himself up and fell down again. So did everyone else. Walking on linoleum, hardwood flooring or anything but thick carpeting while wearing Mom's slippersox was like walking on ice.

While Mom was in her slippersox phase, she made them for everybody she knew, and it was in this era that National Safety Council statistics began showing that falls were the most common accident and that the majority of them were in the home.

Of course. Nobody wore Mom's slippersox anywhere but in the house, and everybody who wore Mom's slippersox slipped and fell. Since she had relatives in California, Florida, Chicago and Washington D.C., the Frances Flip was a coast-to-coast phenomenon.

Fortunately it was only a one-year thing; Mom discovered stocking caps and nobody slips and falls on a stocking cap.

AS FAR AS the pantyhose pratfall is concerned, I'll be the first to admit that there is such a thing. However, the safety council thinks that just walking around stocking-footed causes women to fall.

Wrong again.

Hopping around on one foot while getting the opposite leg in the hose is what causes us to fall. Or getting a pair of cheapies that seem to have been woven on a corkscrew and there is no way to get them on straight. This causes a woman to walk pigeon-toed and trip over her own feet.

Although it is a rare occurrence, there is also the possibility that a woman who is in a stupor first thing in the morning might get both of her legs into one leg of the pantyhose. With her first step she, of course, falls flat on her face. This, however, cannot be considered a pratfall nor included in pratfall statistics.

Until the council checks with me and Joe Namath, their pantyhose pratfall research is incomplete.

Today is Saturday, May 8, the 129th day of 1976 with 237 to follow.

The moon is between its first quarter and full phase.

The morning stars are Venus and Jupiter.

The evening stars are Mercury, Mars and Saturn.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Taurus.

Harry Truman, 33rd president of the United States, was born May 8, 1884.

On this day in history:

• In 1541, Spanish explorer Hernando de Soto discovered the Mississippi River.

• In 1879, George Selden of Rochester, N.Y., filed for the first patent for an automobile. It was granted in 1895.

• In 1945, President Truman officially declared V-E Day — the end of World War II in Europe.

• In 1972, President Nixon ordered the mining of North Vietnam ports as part of an effort to force the Communists to agree to end the Vietnam war.

AMERICAN REVOLUTION BICENTENNIAL 1776-1976

Dateline 1776

By United Press International

DELAWARE RIVER, May 8 — Thirteen row gallies and two British warships, the Roebuck and the Liverpool, exchanged fire for two hours but the damage on both sides was minimal but provided public excitement, drawing spectators from Philadelphia and towns on both sides of the river.

Explosion brought help from many

On Easter Sunday, our Lord rose from the dead. On Easter Monday many of the Palatine Cedar Garden apartment dwellers thanked the same Lord. In fact, many deserve a thank you regarding this "so close to home incident."

Thank you, Palatine paramedics for attending the injured and for helping the frightened to safe surroundings; Palatine firefighters for arriving so quickly and taking over the scene so competently; Palatine policemen for keeping order and protecting the belongings of those so abruptly swept from their homes; Palatine Civil Defense for helping where you saw help needed; Palatine village workers for pitching right in to clear the awful debris; American Red Cross for immediately helping the many uprooted families find shelter, clothing, food and contact relatives to assure them of their safety.

And, last but by all means not least, a big thank you to Jane and Herman. Jane is a sweet young lady who helps manage the Cedar Garden complex. She completely put her own "mother-to-be" condition aside and spent 14 hours helping the homeless relocate, answered inquiries as best she could and reassured those who had to leave she would look out for their belongings.

And now we must make special mention for Herman Holz, Cedar Garden apartment manager. He is always lending a helping hand. He tends to the many needs of his tenants, as not too many landlords do in this day and age. In the last two years, he has made many improvements, both indoors and outdoors, to make a person proud to live here.

To the many elderly residents, he is an adopted son. Never too busy to stop and chat and to show a little concern. He'll empty garbage, change a light bulb and even open up a locked door, if need be. He is never too busy to listen to the needs of any of the tenants. He never shirks any job requested of him. Yes, he collects the monthly rent from the tenants, but so do many other landlords. He carries his responsibility much further than the monthly rent receipt. He cares for all; from the young married couples to the many elderly residents.

Book could be Mother's Day present idea

The other day I read about Joan Wester Anderson and Ann Toland Serb's new paperback book titled "Love, Lollipops and Laundry" in The Mount Prospect Herald.

After mentioning I would like to read it, I was really surprised when my oldest daughter presented me with a copy for an early Mother's Day gift last week. Since I am a full-time mother (of seven) and spare-time writer, myself, I have to admit their book hit home in every chapter and I will recommend it as a good last minute gift, if you want something nice for Mom. You will laugh and cry with the book.

In the continuous busy world of full-time moms, things like serving as a PTA committee woman, den mother, car-pool driver and still maintaining a constant supply of peanut-butter and jelly sandwiches, clean socks by the basket loads, kisses for small cuts and bruises, and keeping one's sense of humor above all, is what rates all of us that one special day.

So, Happy Mothers Day, Moms! You all deserve to take things easy, after washing dishes and making the beds on Sunday. Most especially, I'd like to add a "Happy Mother's Day" to Joan and Ann for their timely contribution for us full-time moms in "Love, Lollipops and Laundry."

Evelyn Heinz

Worthy of note

I would like to commend the Palatine paramedics, police and fire department.

On April 16 while we were eating, my little sister choked on a piece of meat which was stuck in her throat. The paramedics were called, and within three minutes a patrol car and police officer were here and within five minutes the paramedics arrived. Although the emergency had subsided by the time the paramedics came, they were very careful to make sure that her throat and lungs were clear, and her blood pressure was normal. Care was also taken that she wasn't worried. They made her feel easy with them.

About apathy (the lack of)

VOTER APATHY, lack of concern and absence of active participation are labels frequently used to describe the elaborate, the antithesis of this attitude provided among a group of concerned citizens of Dist. 59 this last week. Within a time frame of 96 hours, residents of the area served by Dist. 59 circulated a petition relative to the study committee findings and progress of the Committee of Ten's proposal to develop a unit district in this area.

As proof of the profound interest of citizens affected by this proposal, 1,538 signatures appeared on the petition to the county superintendent of schools requesting withdrawal of the petition of the Committee of Ten filed at 9:15 a.m., April 26, 1976.

As proponents of this withdrawal petition, we would like to publicly express our appreciation to those concerned citizens who volunteered their time and energy in obtaining signatures on this petition.

COMMUNITY APATHY is far more newsworthy to your paper than the cooperative efforts of local government and its citizens. Most volunteer groups, like ours, are dependent on local newspaper coverage, to encourage further participation, interest and funding of its goals.

Many such efforts are going unnoticed by your paper, but when a glimmer of community apathy pokes up its head (front page — July 31, 1975 — "Beautification Plans Wilt: Community Apathy Blamed") it's front page news. Tell the average citizen that he is in a majority who stands back and does nothing to benefit anyone. Hurray! to The Palatine Herald who applauds his lack of involvement with front page news. Who said "No news is good news" — must have been close to home.

I was disturbed by your lack of interest (picture — Page 5 — May 4, 1976 — Palatine Herald) on Palatine's first entrance marker. The submitted story was totally ignored. This picture represented a real cooperative effort among many community groups and organizations. It is also obvious to our committee that such an effort ranked far below the cancellation of a kite flying contest — (again describing community lack of interest). We were hoping some positive publicity from The Herald would result in funding future entrance markers for Palatine. Can we still hope other organizations will see the benefits of such cooperation?

A lot of people care: our village trustees, the Palatine Beautification Committee and its master plan for improving Palatine, the public works department who are making the plan a reality, the Recycling Center whose funds since 1973 are directed toward beautification; the Palatine Park District who has done wonders in beautifying Palatine; and many, many worthwhile organizations and individuals who do give a "hoot." Even the guy who yells out his car window, "It's about time," at our beautification efforts.

It is about time our newspaper takes a positive stand and encourages others to pull our town, community, and lest we forget — country — together again.

New park purchase backed

Your editorial of Tuesday, May 4, about the Buffalo Grove Park District referendum erroneously states that it is an "inter-dependent" referendum. It is a five-part program with five ballots. It is not an all-or-nothing proposition. Residents can vote on the merits of each part as they see fit.

I would also like to clarify program 3 of the referendum, the yellow and beige ballots which provide for acquiring a park site in Lake County and a park site in Cook County, Mill Creek area. Mill Creek residents have been working for a usable park site for about five years. Earlier this year petitions were presented to the park board for the purchase of a park site on the last remaining 15 acres of open space in the Mill Creek area. The cost was shown to be prohibitive and a second petition was submitted for action on a smaller parcel along with a site in Lake County. This is program 3 of the referendum, yellow and beige ballots. The approximate cost to the taxpayer for this part of referendum is $6 in taxes for a home assessed at $10,000. Not only would this proposal benefit Mill Creek residents as you said, ". . . with a legitimate need . . .", but also it provides another park site for Lake County residents.

I hope Buffalo Grove residents realize not all five parts of the referendum are inter-dependent. I urge residents to decide the merits of each part and give every consideration to the yellow and beige ballots which provide for the new park sites.

Douglas Tolman
Buffalo Grove

(Editor's note: One ballot (beige) would authorize the park district to increase its bonded indebtedness. A second (green) would permit $500,000 of this newly authorized indebtedness to be spent equipping and improving various existing park sites. A third (yellow) would permit $600,000 of the newly authorized indebtedness to be spent acquiring and developing new parks in Mill Creek and Willow Stream. Neither the green nor yellow ballots could be effected without approval of the beige ballot. Nor could Mill Creek park be authorized without approval of Willow Stream park. The orange and white ballots authorize increases in the recreational and corporate tax levies, respectively. Part of the planned increase in these operating fund tax rates is designed for the operation of newly developed sites; part is designed to maintain the district's current level of operations.)

No '76-77 contract yet? Still negotiating? What do you mean 'rubbing it in!' old buddy?

The way we see it

How to avoid crisis talks

High School Dist. 214 has succeeded in doing something few elementary or high school districts in this area have accomplished in recent years — they have reached tentative agreement in teacher contract negotiations more than a month before school vacation begins.

Board and teacher negotiators reached tentative accord April 26 after three months of negotiations. Teachers voted on the pact Friday and will announce the results of the vote Tuesday. The board is expected to vote on the contract Monday.

The procedures used by Dist. 214 in contract talks worked well for both sides and are something other districts, especially those with a history of tough negotiations, should seriously consider.

According to the procedures, negotiations begin with each side presenting a proposal. Talks then continue for 60 days and if no agreement has been reached an impasse is declared and more intensive negotiations begin.

The impasse stage continues for another 20 days. If agreement is not reached, negotiations enter fact-finding, where a panel including representatives from the faculty, board and a neutral third party analyze negotiations.

The procedures encourage swift, efficient bargaining, ingredients that have been lacking in many local districts. All too often negotiations drag through the summer months with little serious bargaining until September when the school year begins and a crisis atmosphere prevails.

We have long advocated the type of procedures being used by Dist. 214. Even if the contract is rejected next week, the district is a giant step ahead of its neighbors, and has proven that bargaining does not have to be an eight-or 10-month process.

Her statistics are slippery

As we all know because the National Safety Council has been telling us for years, most accidents happen in the home. It also says that most accidents in the home happen to women. Naturally. The kids are at school having their accidents, and Dad goes to work to have his.

In a more recent report, NSC says that falls are what do women in and that one common household mishap is the "pantyhose pratfall." And then it says, "Stocking feet, especially if the hose are made of slick synthetics, are the slipperiest of all."

Wrong.

MY MOTHER'S handknit woolen slippersox were the slipperiest of all and my brother will be the first to confirm this. He fell down the stairs in a pair of Mom's slippersox, picked himself up and fell down again. So did everyone else. Walking on linoleum, hardwood flooring or anything but thick carpeting while wearing Mom's slippersox was like walking on ice.

While Mom was in her slippersox phase, she made them for everybody she knew, and it was in this era that National Safety Council statistics began showing that falls were the most common accident and that the majority of them were in the home.

Of course. Nobody wore Mom's slippersox anywhere but in the house, and everybody who wore Mom's slippersox slipped and fell. Since she had relatives in California, Florida, Chicago and Washington D.C., the Frances Flip was a coast-to-coast phenomenon.

Fortunately it was only a one-year thing; Mom discovered stocking caps and nobody slips and falls on a stocking cap.

AS FAR AS the pantyhose pratfall is concerned, I'll be the first to admit that there is such a thing. However, the safety council thinks that just walking around stocking-footed causes women to fall.

Wrong again.

Hopping around on one foot while getting the opposite leg in the hose is what causes us to fall. Or getting a pair of cheapies that seem to have been woven on a corkscrew and there is no way to get them on straight. This causes a woman to walk pigeon-toed and trip over her own feet.

Although it is a rare occurrence, there is also the possibility that a woman who is in a stupor first thing in the morning might get both of her legs into one leg of the pantyhose. With her first step she, of course, falls flat on her face. This, however, cannot be considered a pratfall nor included in pratfall statistics.

Until the council checks with me and Joe Namath, their pantyhose pratfall research is incomplete.

DELAWARE RIVER, May 8 — Thirteen row gallies and two British warships, the Roebuck and the Liverpool, exchanged fire for two hours but the damage on both sides was minimal but provided public excitement, drawing spectators from Philadelphia and towns on both sides of the river.

Explosion brought help from many

On Easter Sunday, our Lord rose from the dead. On Easter Monday many of the Palatine Cedar Garden apartment dwellers thanked the same Lord. In fact, many deserve a thank you regarding this "so close to home incident."

Thank you, Palatine paramedics for attending the injured and for helping the frightened to safe surroundings; Palatine firefighters for arriving so quickly and taking over the scene so competently; Palatine policemen for keeping order and protecting the belongings of those so abruptly swept from their homes; Palatine Civil Defense for helping where you saw help needed; Palatine village workers for pitching right in to clear the awful debris; American Red Cross for immediately helping the many uprooted families find shelter, clothing, food and contact relatives to assure them of their safety.

And, last but by all means not least, a big thank you to Jane and Herman. Jane is a sweet young lady who helps manage the Cedar Garden complex. She completely put her own "mother-to-be" condition aside and spent 14 hours helping the homeless relocate, answered inquiries as best she could and reassured those who had to leave she would look out for their belongings.

And now we must make special mention for Herman Holz, Cedar Garden apartment manager. He is always lending a helping hand. He tends to the many needs of his tenants, as not too many landlords do in this day and age. In the last two years, he has made many improvements, both indoors and outdoors, to make a person proud to live here.

To the many elderly residents, he is an adopted son. Never too busy to stop and chat and to show a little concern. He'll empty garbage, change a light bulb and even open up a locked door, if need be. He is never too busy to listen to the needs of any of the tenants. He never shirks any job requested of him. Yes, he collects the monthly rent from the tenants, but so do many other landlords. He carries his responsibility much further than the monthly rent receipt. He cares for all; from the young married couples to the many elderly residents.

Book could be Mother's Day present idea

The other day I read about Joan Wester Anderson and Ann Toland Serb's new paperback book titled "Love, Lollipops and Laundry" in The Mount Prospect Herald.

After mentioning I would like to read it, I was really surprised when my oldest daughter presented me with a copy for an early Mother's Day gift last week. Since I am a full-time mother (of seven) and spare-time writer, myself, I have to admit their book hit home in every chapter and I will recommend it as a good last minute gift, if you want something nice for Mom. You will laugh and cry with the book.

In the continuous busy world of full-time moms, things like serving as a PTA committee woman, den mother, car-pool driver and still maintaining a constant supply of peanut-butter and jelly sandwiches, clean socks by the basket loads, kisses for small cuts and bruises, and keeping one's sense of humor above all, is what rates all of us that one special day.

So, Happy Mothers Day, Moms! You all deserve to take things easy, after washing dishes and making the beds on Sunday. Most especially, I'd like to add a "Happy Mother's Day" to Joan and Ann for their timely contribution for us full-time moms in "Love, Lollipops and Laundry."

Worthy of note

I would like to commend the Palatine paramedics, police and fire department.

On April 16 while we were eating, my little sister choked on a piece of meat which was stuck in her throat. The paramedics were called, and within three minutes a patrol car and police officer were here and within five minutes the paramedics arrived. Although the emergency had subsided by the time the paramedics came, they were very careful to make sure that her throat and lungs were clear, and her blood pressure was normal. Care was also taken that she wasn't worried. They made her feel easy with them.

About apathy (the lack of)

VOTER APATHY, lack of concern and absence of active participation are labels frequently used to describe the elaborate, the antithesis of this attitude provided among a group of concerned citizens of Dist. 59 this last week. Within a time frame of 96 hours, residents of the area served by Dist. 59 circulated a petition relative to the study committee findings and progress of the Committee of Ten's proposal to develop a unit district in this area.

As proof of the profound interest of citizens affected by this proposal, 1,538 signatures appeared on the petition to the county superintendent of schools requesting withdrawal of the petition of the Committee of Ten filed at 9:15 a.m., April 26, 1976.

As proponents of this withdrawal petition, we would like to publicly express our appreciation to those concerned citizens who volunteered their time and energy in obtaining signatures on this petition.

Lynn Clapper
Nancy Clark
Joanne Lewis

COMMUNITY APATHY is far more newsworthy to your paper than the cooperative efforts of local government and its citizens. Most volunteer groups, like ours, are dependent on local newspaper coverage, to encourage further participation, interest and funding of its goals.

Many such efforts are going unnoticed by your paper, but when a glimmer of community apathy pokes up its head (front page — July 31, 1975 — "Beautification Plans Wilt: Community Apathy Blamed") it's front page news. Tell the average citizen that he is in a majority who stands back and does nothing to benefit anyone. Hurray! to The Palatine Herald who applauds his lack of involvement with front page news. Who said "No news is good news" — must have been close to home.

I was disturbed by your lack of interest (picture — Page 5 — May 4, 1976 — Palatine Herald) on Palatine's first entrance marker. The submitted story was totally ignored. This picture represented a real cooperative effort among many community groups and organizations. It is also obvious to our committee that such an effort ranked far below the cancellation of a kite flying contest — (again describing community lack of interest). We were hoping some positive publicity from The Herald would result in funding future entrance markers for Palatine. Can we still hope other organizations will see the benefits of such cooperation?

A lot of people care: our village trustees, the Palatine Beautification Committee and its master plan for improving Palatine, the public works department who are making the plan a reality, the Recycling Center whose funds since 1973 are directed toward beautification; the Palatine Park District who has done wonders in beautifying Palatine; and many, many worthwhile organizations and individuals who do give a "hoot." Even the guy who yells out his car window, "It's about time," at our beautification efforts.

It is about time our newspaper takes a positive stand and encourages others to pull our town, community, and lest we forget — country — together again.

Walker chides business leaders for job dispute

by STEVE BROWN

Gov. Daniel Walker scolded a group of business leaders Friday for claiming Illinois does not have a good climate for business.

Walker chided about 50 business and government officials at a meeting sponsored by the Illinois Chamber of Commerce at the Palmer House. The governor took issue with reports of job losses in the state.

"I suggest the talk of the bad business climate is a self-fulfilling prophecy," Walker said. He suggested business leaders were hurting the state by their reports of unfavorable business conditions.

Most of the business officials disputed Walker's comments, but he was not around to hear the rebuttal. The governor said he had other appointments and left the session after making his remarks.

CHAMBER PRES. Lester Brann led the criticism of Walker's comments.

"If the state chamber is out of step on this, then there are a whole lot of people with us," Brann said. Walker said the state has gained and not lost jobs in recent years, but the chamber disputes this.

Walker also asked the group to support his accelerated tax collection plan. The governor has drafted legislation to speed up the collection of sales tax and income tax withheld by employers. Walker contends the plan will boost state revenue by $85 million in fiscal 1977, but the chamber contends it will take money away from subsequent years.

Brann had attempted to steer the discussion into future activities for business leaders and not dwell on disagreements with the Walker administration. However, most of the executives took issue with Walker in their remarks.

Orville Bergman, president of the Illinois Manufacturers Assn., disputed figures on job gains. He said federal statistics show that since 1967 Illinois has lost 200,000 jobs. Other businessmen said nearby states, chiefly Wisconsin, had tax and regulatory practices more favorable than Illinois.

3 suburbs plan to seek RTA grants

At least three of the Northwest suburbs are planning to apply for Regional Transportation Authority funding to develop new bus and transit systems.

Hoffman Estates, Schaumburg and Arlington Heights officials said they will submit applications in hopes of qualifying for up to $100,000 a year per project under the new service development/demonstration grant program.

Both Buffalo Grove and Wheeling Township officials said they are looking into the grant program, but have not yet decided whether to apply for funding.

THE RTA program will allow communities to experiment with different transit systems to determine their value in the six-county area. RTA Chairman Milton Pikarsky said the program will provide "a valuable learning experience."

All municipalities, townships and counties in the six-county area are eligible for funding. The RTA plans to fund a limited number of programs, and is looking for a diversity of proposals to choose from.

Hoffman Estates and Schaumburg wili seek funding for a proposed dial-a-ride subscription bus service recommended in a transit study done for the two communities last year. The first 6-12 months of the program is estimated to cost $500,000, and the communities are hoping for federal and state grants.

SCHAUMBURG OFFICIALS have said they believe there is a good chance of RTA funding, at least for commuter bus service to the Milwaukee Road station in Roselle, because the study on the program is complete.

Arlington Heights Village Planner Joe Kesler said the village will apply for funds, although he does not yet have a specific project in mind. He said possible projects include buses to service shopping centers or the downtown area.

The grant program will require the local communities to provide at least 25 per cent of the cost. The RTA will favor projects that will be able to continue once the funding ends.

Projects that compete with existing transit service will not be considered, because the program is to provide service to areas that don't have it.

Applications for funding during 1977 will be accepted until July 30.

Walker chides business leaders for job dispute

to all students who participated inthe Paddock Publications Spelling Bee!

Nearly 250 seventh and eighth grade students tackled words like alacrity, verdure and ostracism in the first Spelling Bee we sponsored. We are quite proud of their gumption and thank them for taking part in this program.

A special thanks, also, goes to the many school teachers and administrators who assisted in the planning and operation of the Bees.

From the three regional competitions emerged 15 finalists who met head on to determine one speller to represent the Northwest suburbs in national competition. A job well done, finalists!

We extend our best wishes to Bill Runkel, who will be among 86 competitors in the National Spelling Bee in Washington, D.C. in June Good luck, Bill, and good spelling!

Robert Y. Paddock, left, executive vice-president/ administration for Paddock Publications, presented awards to the two top finalists. Lisa Rovella, second place finisher, received a 9-inch Zenith black and white television set called the "Spirit of '76." Top finisher Bill Runkel received the 30-volume Encyclopaedia Britannica 3. In addition, he and a parent will travel to the National Spelling Bee in Washington, D.C. June 7-12.

Fremd boys, girls take Falcon honors

by ART MUGALIAN
Track and Field Editor

Fremd High School upheld its reputation as a behemoth in the world of track and field Friday night by winning the first combined boys and girls track meet in the state of Illinois.

The victorious Vikings captured 134½ points to edge the hosts, the Forest View Falcons, in the nine-team Falcon Invitational, featuring a scoring system mixing the boys and the girls. Fremd took eight first places in all, including three wins for the boys' relay teams.

A total of 11 records were broken Friday, nine of them on the girls level. This was just the second year that girls events were contested at the Falcon Invite.

Hersey's Kathy LaPorte began the record-shattering evening by winning the long jump (15-10¼) and the 110-yard low hurdles (:14.9) with new meet marks. Then Gail Miloch of Wheeling eclipsed her own year-old records in the 880-yard run (2:21.6) and the mile (5:29.9).

The meet's outstanding athlete was Steve Schellenberger of Forest View, who accounted for three of his team's nine firsts. Schellenberger, the state's defending 330 champ, set one record and came within a tenth of a second in two other events.

Steve started his performance with a near-record 1:54.2 in the 880, blazing past Chris Heroux of Maine North, who finished in 1:55.5. Kurt Rutz of Fremd and Steve Kastner of St. Viator were timed in 1:59.4.

Schellenberger next brought the crowd to its feet with a record-breaking :48.8 in the 440-yard dash, his best time ever in that event. The 5-foot-8, 130-pounder was virtually unchallenged in the 440. He won the 220 rather easily, too, just a shade off the meet mark in :22.6.

Fremd runners were second behind Schellenberger in the 440 (Randy Polomsky) and the 220 (Dave Talaber).

Forest View's most satisfying performance came from Randy Gaitsch, who won both the shot put (52-2½) and the discus (150-1) with personal bests in each event.

Despite wins by Forest View's Darryl Robinson in the two-mile (9:37.8), Mike Harvey in the triple jump (43-6¾), Jim Vartanian in the 100-dash (:10.2), and Nancy Lancaster in the girls discus (110-7), Fremd managed to stay out in front.

Pole vaulter Tim Lincoln gave the Vikings a victory with a 13-6 effort, and high jumper Jim Hamill chipped in with a 6-4 first-place jump. Jim Borneman upset a strong high hurdles field which included Vartanian, winning in :15.0. And Jan Fletcher ran first in the girls 440 (:62).

But Fremd's boys showed the most success in the relay events. Dave Snow (who was also second in the 100), Talaber, Polomsky, and Passaglia ran a :44.7 in the 440-relay. Then Snow, Talaber and Passaglia joined Tom Philippe to win the 880-relay in 1:33.6.

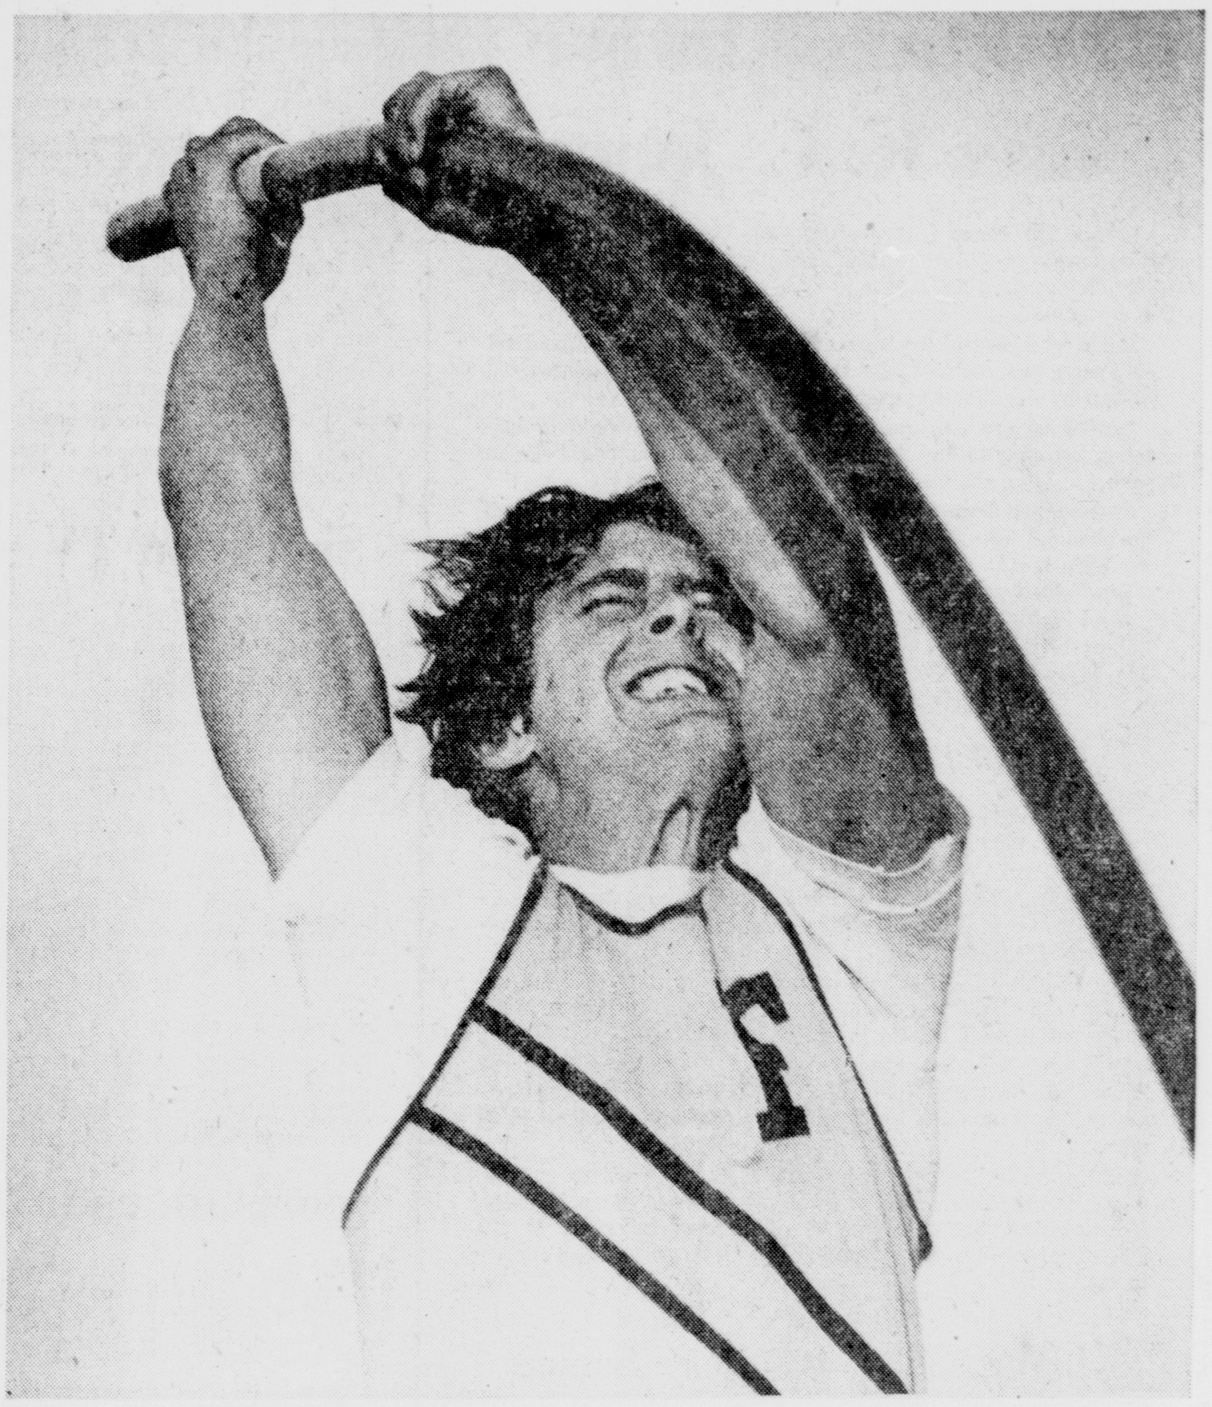
Finally, needing to beat Forest View in the final event, the Vikings got a win in the mile relay from Polomsky, Dave Jacobsen, Rolando Garza and Dan Mosby in 3:32.0. Forest View was sixth, finishing with 119 points.

Prospect's Jim Wright won the 330-yard low hurdles in :39.3, just edging out Mosby of Fremd. Wright's teammate Brad Millar was first in the long jump (21-½) and took a second in the high jump at 6-2.

Heroux, who was beaten by Schellenberger in the half-mile, came back to outduel Robinson in the mile. The Maine North miler held off Robinson to win in 4:28.0. Robinson ran 4:29.3, Dave Efken of St. Viator clocked 4:32.3 and Forest View's Bob Haas ran 4:32.6.

Other record-breakers Friday were Nancy Callard of Prospect in the 100-yard dash (:11.7), Sandy Rainey of Wheeling in the girls high jump (5-4), the Fremd girls in the mile relay (4:16.5), the Wheeling girls in the 80-relay (1:51.2), Lancaster in the discus, and Harvey in the triple jump.

Hersey finished third over-all with 97½ points and Prospect was fourth (77). Wheeling was fifth (73) and Conant sixth (55).



FREMD'S TIM LINCOLN demonstrates pole vaulting form that catapulted him to a victory in the 11th annual Falcon Invitational Friday night at Forest View. Lincoln, who reached 13-6 for his best effort of the year, was one of eight Fremd winners as the Vikings captured first place in the first combined boy-girl track meet in Illinois sports annals.

Reds handle Cubs with 'absentee' look

by BOB GALLAS

The Cincinnati Reds played a little absentee baseball at frozen Wrigley Field Friday, but it was good enough to beat the Cubs who played like they were frozen in suspended animation.

While the nine starters in manager Sparky Anderson's lineup were administering a 3-1 defeat to the Wrigleys, the rest of the defending world champions were beating the 42-degree temperature by watching the game on television in their dressing room.

"Every time we run into cold weather I keep the pitchers and just about everyone else upstairs," Anderson said as he thawed out after the game. Sparky kept only his coaches with him to brave the 15 miles-per-hour winds that whipped in off the lake. And today's starting pitcher, Santo Alcala, served as a runner-messenger to the clubhouse.

Jack Billingham got the win for the Reds, his 100th as a major leaguer. Billingham, now 3-2 for the year, wasn't overly impressive, giving up eight hits and one run before leaving for a pinch hitter in the eighth. He walked four and struck out two.

Billingham shrugged off the historic moment. "It's nothing. I feel better about winning my third game of the year," he said.

The wind blowing in produced just the opposite of the slugfests that went on earlier in the week with the Dodgers. One ball, hit by Reds centerfielder Joel Youngblood, was ticketed as a tape measure home run, but ended up a long fly ball that was hauled in by Cub centerfielder Joe Wallis who was standing on the warning track.

"I would have liked to have seen how far that ball would have gone," Anderson said. "He'll never hit a ball harder than that."

Ken Frailing made the start on the mound for the Cubs and took the loss, his first in two decisions. Frailing went five innings, giving up two runs, only one of which was earned, a creditable performance in light of the fact that he had previously only gone a total of 4-2/3 innings in two previous appearances.

The Cubs scored first when the first two hitters in the game, Joe Wallis and Jose Cardenal, singled to put runners on first and third. Wallis then scored when Bill Madlock hit into a double play.

But the Reds came right back in the top of the second. George Foster opened the inning by grounding a ball that went right between Bill Madlock's legs at third for an error that put Foster at second base.

Tony Perez then tied the game with a single that scored Foster. Perez then gave the Reds the lead for good in the fifth when he singled in Joe Morgan, who had hit a double.

The Reds added a run in the sixth on a Pete Rose single that drove in Youngblood, who had singled and stolen second.

The Cubs had runners on in all but three innings, but just couldn't cash in, stranding a total of 10 men on base to 12 left on by Cincinnati.

Reds defense also played a key part in the Cub loss, especially in the sixth inning.

Joe Wallis led off with his second single of the day but was gunned down trying to steal second by Bill Plummer, subbing for Reds catcher Johnny Bench, who was resting a sore knee and was used only as a pinch hitter in the ninth.

Then Cardenal singled and stole second to keep things going in the sixth. Madlock followed with an infield single that was knocked down by Rose who prevented the run from scoring with a great play. Billingham eventually pitched his way out of the jam with successive force outs that ended the Cub threat.

In the fourth, Youngblood threw out Champ Summers, who was trying to score from third on Dave Rosello's fly ball, for an inning ending double play.

BRUIN BRIEFS: Cub second baseman Manny Trillo extended his hitting streak to 12 games Friday . . . That's the longest streak by a Cub so far this year . . . Rick Monday's two home runs Wednesday give him seven for the year . . . Last year, Monday's seventh homer came on July 6th in the club's 84th game.

Sox bats silent again in setback

From Herald Wire Services

DETROIT — The White Sox appear perfectly cast for a silent movie.

They're making absolutely no noise at all these days.

The Sox hitters — for lack of a better term — have drilled exactly ONE hit past the infield over their last two games. They have three over-all and two are of the infield variety.

Friday night in the 44-degree temperatures of Detroit the silent Sox stroked one hit and that was of the scratch variety by Ralph Garr.

Right-hander Ray Bare, who was pounded in Chicago just one week ago, was dazzling before the home folks. He walked two and faced only 28 hitters, one over the minimum.

Second baseman Gary Sutherland went far to his left to field Garr's sharp grounder but had no change to get the speedy off-season acquisition from Atlanta because he had to dive for the ball and stopped it with his back to home plate.

Chicago was silenced on two hits by Jim Palmer Wednesday night in Baltimore in a 2-0 loss. They actually collected eight hits on Tuesday but now have only one earned run in the last 27 innings.

"Realistically, we're not that bad," said White Sox Manager Paul Richards after the game. "Sooner or later, the hitting will come around. If we can keep our pitching going like it has, we'll be OK."

Terry Forster worked on the mound for the Sox and didn't look too bad until the sixth when he was driven out by Ron LeFlore's bases-loaded single. John Wockenfuss had doubled home a run earlier in the sixth.

Alex Johnson singled and scored on Rusty Staub's double in the first inning for the only run Bare needed and then singled home the Tigers' second run in the fifth.

The silver lining for Chicago was the relief work of Pete Vukovich. He struck out five and didn't allow a hit in 2½ innings.

Bart Johnson (1-2) is the probable White Sox pitcher this afternoon for the second game of the three-game set.

Frustrated owner fires K. C. Jones

Owner Abe Pollin, frustrated that his Washington Bullets have been unable to win a National Basketball Association championship, Friday fired K.C. Jones as head coach "in the best interest" of the team.

Pollin, president of the Bullets, announced that Jones would not be given a new contract following a disappointing 48-34 season and first round playoff loss to the Cleveland Cavaliers.

"One price a person pays for being the head of any major organization is having to make some very tough final decisions," Pollin said.

"After much deep thought and a concentrated effort to weigh all the factors, I have decided that in the best interest of the Washington Bullets, K.C. Jones will not be retained as the coach of the team. We part good friends."

Jones, 44, a playing great with the Boston Celtics, coached the Bullets for three years and had a record of 155-91, second only to Tom Heinsohn of the Celtics, among active NBA coaches.

Help ahead for Winter Olympics?

President Ford Friday asked Congress to approve $28 million to help finance the 1980 Winter Olympics at Lake Placid, N.Y.

Ford said the legislation he is proposing would give Commerce Secretary Elliot L. Richardson responsibility for coordinating assistance for the construction of the permanent sports facilities required for the games.

The President said Richardson would use existing program authority to the maximum extent possible and could request additional appropriations, if needed, to finance construction.

Ford made the announcement at a Rose Garden ceremony where he met with members of the Lake Placid Olympic Organizing Committee. The committee had hoped for a $50 million federal allotment.

Under the legislation, Ford stipulated that the federal government will not assume any special responsibility for financing other facilities or services which may be needed for these games. He said these costs would be the responsibility of the state and local governments.

Kingman slugs two more homers

Dave Kingman's two homers and five runs batted in supported Jerry Koosman's six-hit pitching Friday night and led the New York Mets to a 6-2 victory over the San Diego Padres.

The two homers for the Prospect High School grad gave him 12 for the season and tied him with Philadelphia's Mike Schmidt for the major league lead. His five RBIs extended his major league leading total to 29.

Kingman's first homer, a two-run blast in the first inning, followed a two-out single by Joe Torre. His second homer, in the eighth, followed a double by Felix Millan and Torre's third single.

Kingman, who has recently been featured in two national publications, last season hit 36 homers for the Mets. In full seasons since coming up with San Francisco in 1972 he has hit 29, 24, 18 and 36.

Hayes shoots 67 to stretch lead

Mark Hayes shot a 67 Friday to run his string to 36 holes without a bogey and stretch his lead to two strokes in the second round of the $200,000 Byron Nelson Golf Classic in Dallas, Tex.

Hayes, who was last in the 1975 Nelson, entered the second round with a one-stroke lead at five under par and had four birdies to move two ahead of Bob E. Smith.

Smith, who placed second in last year's Nelson, shot a 67 Friday to finish the 36 holes alone in second place at seven under par.

Bill Rogers, a University of Houston product on the tour for only two years, was in third place, tied at five under with Masters champion Ray Floyd and veteran Don Bies.

Tom Kite, Don January, Hale Irwin and Jerry Pate were at four under.

Lee Trevino, who still has not won in Texas, and Jack Nicklaus were in a group at three under. Arnold Palmer finished at one over par.

"I haven't had a bogey yet and that's a key to how I'm playing," said Hayes, 15th on the money list this spring with $58,561.

Janet Guthrie tries Indy today

The lady was ready and waiting in the wings, anxious to prove she can compete with the big boys in the Indianapolis "500."

Janet Guthrie, the first woman nominated to drive in racing's richest event, hoped to take her initial ride shortly after the famous 2½-mile oval is opened for practice today.

Her blue-colored rear-engine car will be shaken down by teammate Dick Simon before she takes over for her rookie test.

"As soon as the car is set up, I'll take it out," said Simon, who is seeking his seventh starting spot in the Memorial Day Classic.

"If I find all is okay, I'll turn it over to the rookie. Our plans are for her to finish her test by Sunday — if the United States Auto Club is happy with the first phase of it Saturday."

Guthrie, a slender New Yorker, has 13 years sports car racing to her credit and last Sunday made her debut in USAC open-cockpit racing in the Trenton "200," finishing 15th after mechanical problems sidelined her on the 79th lap.

Condroski wins Junior Olympic boxing tourney

Danny Condroski of Rolling Meadows captured an Illinois State AAU Junior Olympic Boxing Championship in the 112 pound division in competition staged in Sterling, Illinois.

Condroski, who qualified for the state tournament by winning the Chicago city-wide Park District title, participated in the day-long elimination and semi-final matches, defeating Brad Denniston of Rockford for the crown. Condroski received a gold medal for the victory.

Condroski, in starting his boxing career in February, 1975 has now won two Chicago city-wide championships and three Illinois titles in addition to several individual boxing matches throughout the state.

Arlington girls win in seventh

Arlington staged a dramatic rally Friday afternoon to pull out an 11-10 victory over Palatine in Mid-Suburban League girls softball play.

With two outs in the home half of the seventh inning Diane Brouhard drew a walk. Betsy Schultz then followed with a double to left-center that chased across the winning run.

Dawn Mantwell was the winning pitcher and she went 4-for-4. Kim Broderick was 4-for-5 for Arlington with three runs-batted-in.

Julie Kett was the losing pitcher. Cindy Charlier had three hits for Palatine.

Score by innings:

Palatine	301	201	3—10-11
Arlington	201	250	1—11-16

In other makeup action Friday Fremd pounded Buffalo Grove, 15-0.

Wheeling is scheduled to play at Fremd today in a rescheduled game.

Frustrated owner fires K. C. Jones

Owner Abe Pollin, frustrated that his Washington Bullets have been unable to win a National Basketball Association championship, Friday fired K.C. Jones as head coach "in the best interest" of the team.

Pollin, president of the Bullets, announced that Jones would not be given a new contract following a disappointing 48-34 season and first round playoff loss to the Cleveland Cavaliers.

"One price a person pays for being the head of any major organization is having to make some very tough final decisions," Pollin said.

"After much deep thought and a concentrated effort to weigh all the factors, I have decided that in the best interest of the Washington Bullets, K.C. Jones will not be retained as the coach of the team. We part good friends."

Jones, 44, a playing great with the Boston Celtics, coached the Bullets for three years and had a record of 155-91, second only to Tom Heinsohn of the Celtics, among active NBA coaches.

Help ahead for Winter Olympics?

President Ford Friday asked Congress to approve $28 million to help finance the 1980 Winter Olympics at Lake Placid, N.Y.

Ford said the legislation he is proposing would give Commerce Secretary Elliot L. Richardson responsibility for coordinating assistance for the construction of the permanent sports facilities required for the games.

The President said Richardson would use existing program authority to the maximum extent possible and could request additional appropriations, if needed, to finance construction.

Ford made the announcement at a Rose Garden ceremony where he met with members of the Lake Placid Olympic Organizing Committee. The committee had hoped for a $50 million federal allotment.

Under the legislation, Ford stipulated that the federal government will not assume any special responsibility for financing other facilities or services which may be needed for these games. He said these costs would be the responsibility of the state and local governments.

Kingman slugs two more homers

Dave Kingman's two homers and five runs batted in supported Jerry Koosman's six-hit pitching Friday night and led the New York Mets to a 6-2 victory over the San Diego Padres.

The two homers for the Prospect High School grad gave him 12 for the season and tied him with Philadelphia's Mike Schmidt for the major league lead. His five RBIs extended his major league leading total to 29.

Kingman's first homer, a two-run blast in the first inning, followed a two-out single by Joe Torre. His second homer, in the eighth, followed a double by Felix Millan and Torre's third single.

Kingman, who has recently been featured in two national publications, last season hit 36 homers for the Mets. In full seasons since coming up with San Francisco in 1972 he has hit 29, 24, 18 and 36.

Hayes shoots 67 to stretch lead

Mark Hayes shot a 67 Friday to run his string to 36 holes without a bogey and stretch his lead to two strokes in the second round of the $200,000 Byron Nelson Golf Classic in Dallas, Tex.

Hayes, who was last in the 1975 Nelson, entered the second round with a one-stroke lead at five under par and had four birdies to move two ahead of Bob E. Smith.

Smith, who placed second in last year's Nelson, shot a 67 Friday to finish the 36 holes alone in second place at seven under par.

Bill Rogers, a University of Houston product on the tour for only two years, was in third place, tied at five under with Masters champion Ray Floyd and veteran Don Bies.

Tom Kite, Don January, Hale Irwin and Jerry Pate were at four under.

Lee Trevino, who still has not won in Texas, and Jack Nicklaus were in a group at three under. Arnold Palmer finished at one over par.

"I haven't had a bogey yet and that's a key to how I'm playing," said Hayes, 15th on the money list this spring with $58,561.

Janet Guthrie tries Indy today

The lady was ready and waiting in the wings, anxious to prove she can compete with the big boys in the Indianapolis "500."

Janet Guthrie, the first woman nominated to drive in racing's richest event, hoped to take her initial ride shortly after the famous 2½-mile oval is opened for practice today.

Her blue-colored rear-engine car will be shaken down by teammate Dick Simon before she takes over for her rookie test.

"As soon as the car is set up, I'll take it out," said Simon, who is seeking his seventh starting spot in the Memorial Day Classic.

"If I find all is okay, I'll turn it over to the rookie. Our plans are for her to finish her test by Sunday — if the United States Auto Club is happy with the first phase of it Saturday."

Guthrie, a slender New Yorker, has 13 years sports car racing to her credit and last Sunday made her debut in USAC open-cockpit racing in the Trenton "200," finishing 15th after mechanical problems sidelined her on the 79th lap.

Condroski wins Junior Olympic boxing tourney

Danny Condroski of Rolling Meadows captured an Illinois State AAU Junior Olympic Boxing Championship in the 112 pound division in competition staged in Sterling, Illinois.

Condroski, who qualified for the state tournament by winning the Chicago city-wide Park District title, participated in the day-long elimination and semi-final matches, defeating Brad Denniston of Rockford for the crown. Condroski received a gold medal for the victory.

Condroski, in starting his boxing career in February, 1975 has now won two Chicago city-wide championships and three Illinois titles in addition to several individual boxing matches throughout the state.

Arlington girls win in seventh

Arlington staged a dramatic rally Friday afternoon to pull out an 11-10 victory over Palatine in Mid-Suburban League girls softball play.

With two outs in the home half of the seventh inning Diane Brouhard drew a walk. Betsy Schultz then followed with a double to left-center that chased across the winning run.

Dawn Mantwell was the winning pitcher and she went 4-for-4. Kim Broderick was 4-for-5 for Arlington with three runs-batted-in.

Julie Kett was the losing pitcher. Cindy Charlier had three hits for Palatine.

Score by innings:

Palatine	301	201	3—10-11
Arlington	201	250	1—11-16

In other makeup action Friday Fremd pounded Buffalo Grove, 15-0.

Wheeling is scheduled to play at Fremd today in a rescheduled game.

MEET PETE. Cincinnati Reds' star Pete Rose, most valuable player in the 1975 World Series and three-time league batting champion, signs autographs Friday night at Wiebolt's in Randhurst. Rose visited the Mount Prospect location after helping the Reds beat the Cubs in the afternoon, 3-1.

Rose never slows down; lofty goals within reach

by BOB GALLAS

After 13 years of going full speed on the baseball field, Cincinnati Reds' third baseman Pete Rose shows no sign of slowing down. Besides, why change a good thing.

Ask him what he intends doing when his playing days are over and his answer is a terse "I'm still worrying about playing four or five more years first."

Four or five years. The Reds probably wish he'd play forever.

The Cincinnati superstar, who was mobbed at a guest appearance in Wieboldts' store at the Randhurst Shopping Center in Mount Prospect, is a model of consistency.

In 13 years in the Reds lineup, Rose has resembled a machine more than a ballplayer — a machine that hits for a lifetime average of .310.

He hasn't missed a game since the 1973 season and that's the way he likes it. In 13 seasons only once has he played fewer than 150 games.

The switch-hitting slugger, who's excelled as a second baseman, outfielder, and now third baseman, has lofty goals — lofty goals that are easily within reach.

"I'd like to get 3,000 hits," he said after Friday's 3-1 win over the Cubs. "And I'd like to break the all-time career hits record for a switch hitter," said the man who five times has led the National League in hits for a season.

Frankie Frisch holds that mark coveted by Rose — 2,880 hits as a switch-hitter. Rose started this season with 2,547 hits and is off at a breakneck pace — 40 hits in 97 at bats for a .412 average.

Rose agrees with manager Sparky Anderson that this is the best Reds team yet.

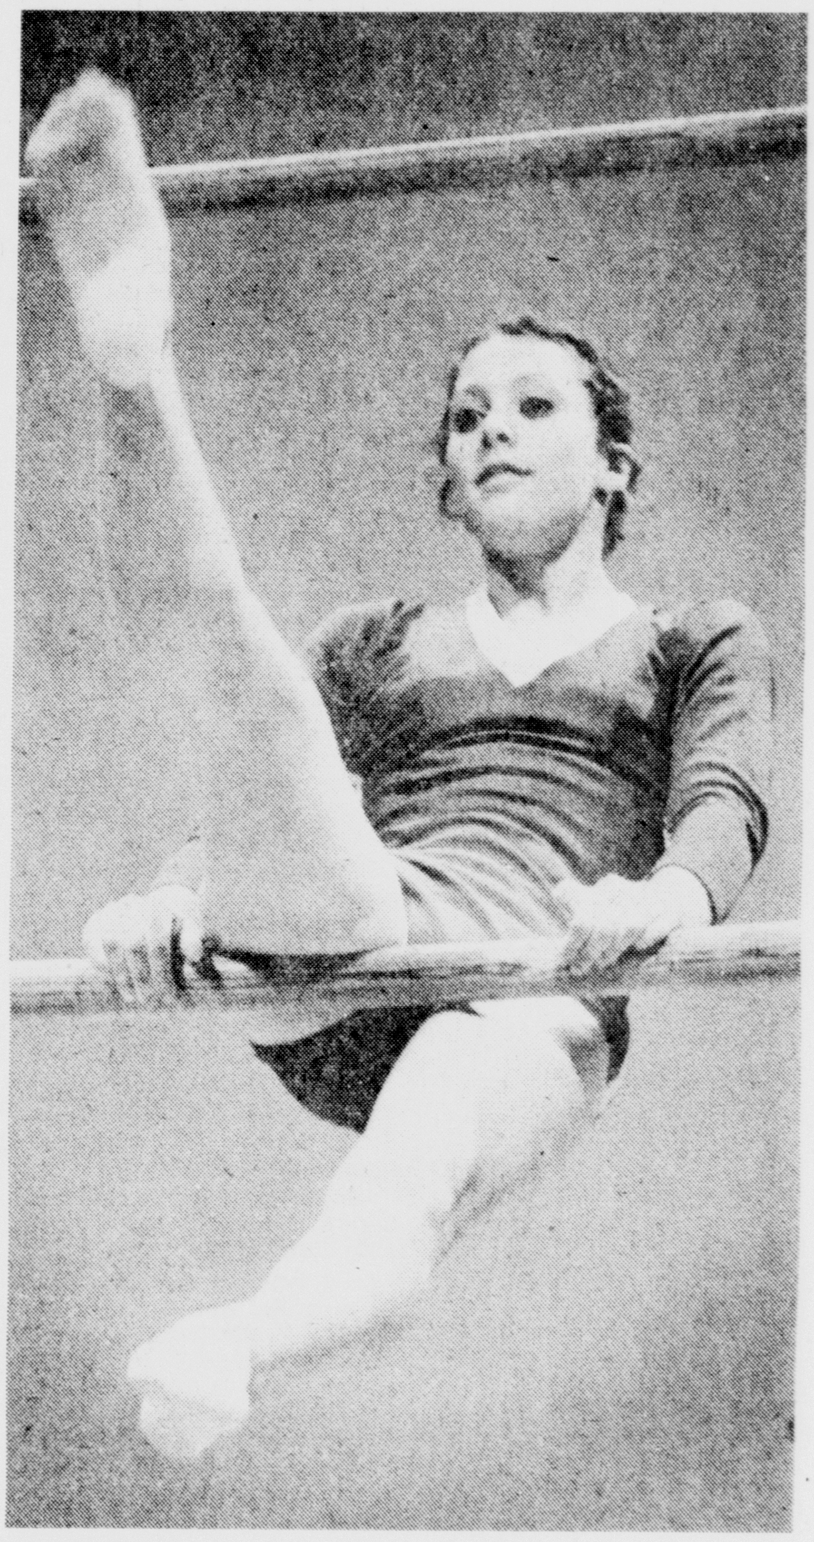
"(Ken) Griffey, (George) Foster, (Rawley) Eastwick and (Will) McEnaney have all matured. Don Gullet was out 64 days last season but is back." And guys like (Joe) Morgan, (Johnny) Bench, (Tony) Perez and myself all know now what it takes to win it all."

Finished dressing and ready for his visit to the Northwest suburbs, Rose left the Reds' lockerroom the same way he's going through life — at full speed.

Hoffman to host girls track invite

Hoffman Estates will hold its first track invitational for girls this morning, starting at 11:00.

Furnishing the competition will be Schaumburg, DeKalb and New Trier East.



CHAMPION of the uneven parallel bars at the recent Barrington nine-team invitational is Gaye Johnson of Arlington. She helped her team to the over-all title with an 8.3.

Drama

Girls stage exciting battle in gymnastics

It's two weeks and counting before the Mid-Suburban girls meet for the conference gymnastics title.

Barring a monumental upset during the three remaining dual meet nights, the league title race has developed into a three-team affair.

Hersey, Prospect and Arlington are deadlocked with 8-1 records thanks to the Prospect Knights stunning 174.05 to 172.95 win over Arlington.

Earlier in the season, Arlington nipped Hersey. And in the first MSL meet of the year, Hersey edged Prospect.

"I really don't think we were ready for Hersey," said Sue Nelson, Prospect's head coach. "Knowing it was the first meet against Hersey, I think they were real uneasy."

The Huskies, led by the talented twosome of junior Mary Charpenter and senior Jayne Morava, were unbeatable that night. But Prospect's been that way ever since and holds the league's longest winning streak at eight straight.

Prospect's top three performers are seniors Cyndi Devero and Sue Cassidy and freshman Mary Beth Martensen. They've done well all season long, according to Nelson. She said the win over Arlington was important to the Knights in more ways than one.

"It made them realize we're really a lot tougher than we thought they were," said Nelson. "After the Hersey loss there was a question in our minds. We were really up for Arlington in a big way.

"There was a lot of tension and I think they handled the tension pretty well. In other meets there hasn't been as much tension.

"The edge was our optional kids. The judges told me our routines were the most original in the conference right now."

It was a tough loss for Arlington Tuesday night after winning the big nine-team Barrington Invitational over the weekend.

"They did absolutely excellent," praised Arlington coach Joanna Murdoch. "We had just one bad performance that probably cost us the meet, but that happens."

Murdoch said she expected the conference meet to "depend on who has a good day."

Her team had a good one at Barrington's third annual meet, rolling up 119.20 points to Barrington's 113.20. Freshman Donna Wasielewski had an exceptional meet, winning optional balance beam in 8.45 and optional floor exercise in 8.4, placing second in optional vaulting with 8.0 and third in optional uneven bars with 7.85.

Wasielewski's super showing gave her 32.70 points for first place in all-around. Placing second to her was last year's Mid-Suburban all-around champion Mary Tompkins of Conant with 29.60.

Conant, which finished sixth in the team standings with 83.35, was also led by Tompkins in the events with seconds in both beam (8.0) and floor exercise (8.2).

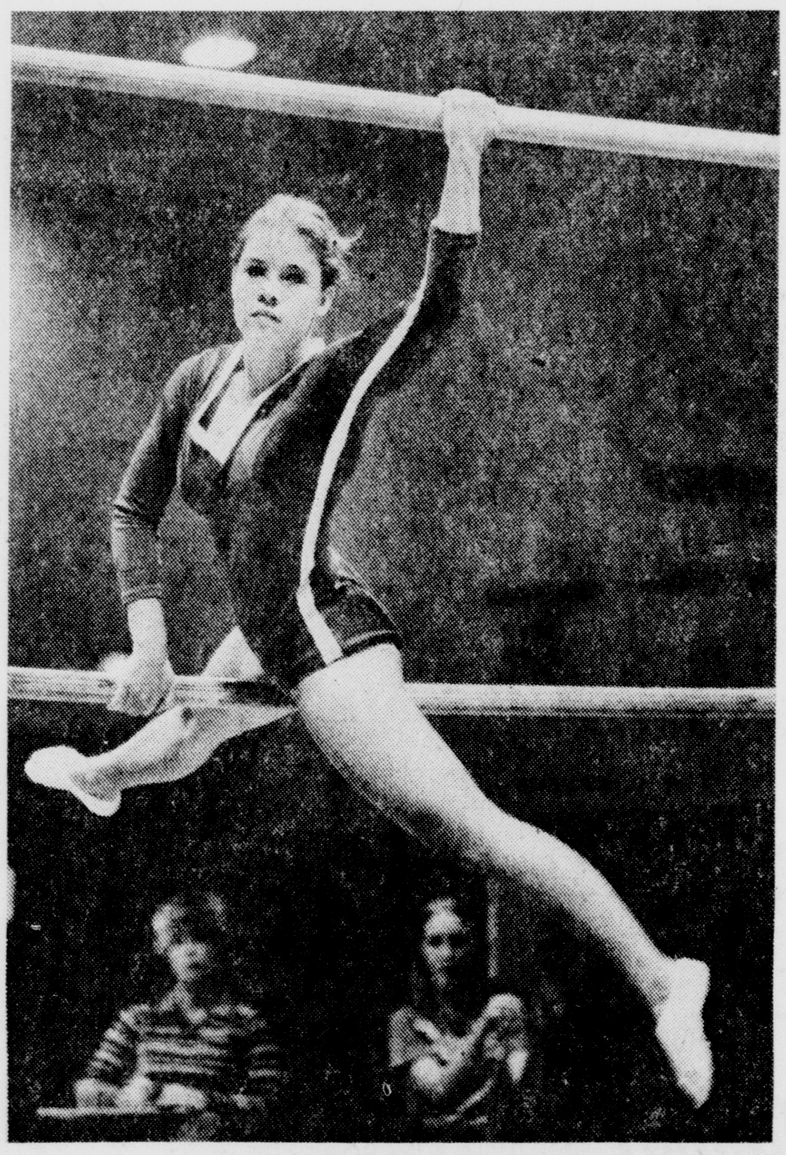
Junior Gaye Johnson placed first for Arlington on bars with an 8.3. It was a strong event for Murdoch's team for besides the efforts by Johnson and Wasielewski, senior Jeanne LaGorio was fifth (7.6) and junior Kim Kilgore was sixth (6.85).

Arlington also dominated beam. After Wasielewski came teammates Dyanne Oak, a sophomore, and Sharon McNicholas, a freshman, tied for third with 7.35s.

Other key points were won in vaulting by Beth Kleinsmith with fifth (7.0) and Kim Bornman with 10th (6.7) and in floor exercise by Nancy Bender with sixth (7.9) and Linda Scanlan with eighth (7.5).

Murdoch said the win "gave them confidence outside of our conference. They'd only gone against Mid-Suburban competition. Barrington invited some pretty good schools from each conference."

She added that Arlington's showing demonstrated the strength of the MSL. "It looks good for next year," said Murdoch of the state tournament.



WINNING ON THE uneven parallel bars for Arlington is sophomore Nancy Bach. She recorded a 7.7 on the compulsory level against Elk Grove Thursday.

From Herald Wire Services

The weather might play a major role in the Big Ten baseball race, beginning this weekend when first place Michigan plays doubleheaders at home against Ohio State today and Indiana Sunday.

The Wolverines have played only five games, with a 4-1 record, and under Big Ten regulations must play a minimum of nine games to be eligible for the championship. Michigan has six games scheduled after this weekend, against Wisconsin, Northwestern and Michigan State, and cancellation of any games could put on the pressure not only to win, but to play.

Ohio State and Indiana could vault into close contention by tripping the Wolverines Saturday and Sunday. Each of them has only two defeats and by sweeping a doubleheader could knock Michigan out of the lead and perhaps take it over.

But the weather is a factor for both of them too, since the Hoosiers have played only five games and Ohio State only six. Both started the season a week late and after this weekend each team has eight games remaining.

Iowa, in second place with an 8-4 record but leading in the games behind column, will be idle this weekend while Minnesota, a game behind with a 7-5 mark, plays four nonconference games, against Augsburg Saturday and Wisconsin-LaCrosse Sunday.

Other conference games on the weekend will be Indiana at Michigan State and Northwestern at Wisconsin Saturday and Ohio State at Michigan State Sunday.

Overall batting averages slipped last weekend, with Al Weston of Michigan State retaining the lead with .526, followed by Jerry Mahon of Ohio State with .524 and Scott Weiner of Indiana and Paul Molitor of Minnesota with .500.

In pitching, Chuck Baker of Michigan State and Larry Sorenson of Michigan led with zero earned run averages and had 2-0 won-lost records along with Scott Gidley of Indiana, Jerry Ujdur of Minnesota, Craig Van Syoc of Iowa and Paul Sewall of Ohio State. Randy Renwicke of Wisconsin had a 3-0 won-lost record but an earned run average of 2.61.

Anglers welcome break in weather

No Lake Michigan fisherman is about to ask how Chicago was branded with its Windy City nickname.

For the past week, a near gale-force fan off the lake has created more fishing miseries than the alewife and lamprey combined.

Even the most devoted angler has kept his power line shore fishing rig in mothballs until the unpredictable one-two punch of wet and wind takes a vacation.

A scheduled charter boat excursion on the big pond Thursday was drowned by the sickening monsoon and cold breath of fresh air that had the shirt-sleeve fraternity of anglers scrambling for their hip boots and hand warmers.

The almost obscene conditions launched the popular Coho '76 Fishing Derby along the lakefront on a rusty note.

The month-long contest, which rewards anglers weighing the largest fish on a weekly basis, found slim pickings hitting the scale.

"We had some decent catches registered during the early part of the week," contest coordinator Ray Gray said. "But the wind churned up the bottom for the shore fishermen and the 6-to-12 foot swells kept most of the charter boat captains glued to the harbors."

"I had an all-day charter Wednesday," Captain Gary Zillian of Lamprey Charter Service said. "The temperatures were in the 70s, but we were back in and tied up about noon simply because you couldn't hold a boat in those 6-foot waves."

Despite the climatic adversities, Martin Jeffers of Lake Forest stands a good chance to cash for one of the contest's major prizes.

Fishing seven miles out of Diversey Harbor in 50 feet of water, Jeffers smacked into a 23-pound chinook salmon Sunday morning using a silver and blue Red-Eye lure.

Taken 12-15 feet below the water's surface, the king made two strong runs, forcing Captain Bob Moeller of the Montynard to chase the fish with the boat to prevent the 200 yards of 15-pound monofilament line from running out and snapping.

"It sure was lucky for us," Moeller said after netting the trophy salmon. "I've been fishing for a long time, mostly off Waukegan, but I've never been rewarded with such a fish."

A Tad-Polly brought in the second largest fish of the week, a 19-pound chinook taken by Rich Cudzillo of Bartlett who was also trolling in Michigan's deep water.

The top coho salmon award is being shared by Chicagoans Jack Cina, Henry Ichida, and Rudy Geisel who baited power lines with nightcrawlers and each netted 2½-pound cohos. Ichida weighed a stringer of four salmon and lost another to just miss taking the prescribed daily limit.

The brown trout derby was won by Gregorio Reyes of Chicago who battled an 8½-pound brownie from shore to the top run of the standings.

The rainbow ratings were led by R. Everets of Dolton who took the trout while trolling by boat.

Local entries to crack the contest lineup include Palatine's Lynn Stupich of 636 E. Mill Valley Rd. who just rich of 636 E. Mill Valley Rd. who just missed sharing in the top coho prize with a 2-pound, 4-ouncer and Bob Strickland of 2882 Scott St. in Des Plaines whose 19½-inch, 2-pound, 3-ounce coho was taken from a charter vessel.

The Coho '76 Derby continues through May 29 with plenty of good fishing weather hopefully in store. Those interested in chartering a boat can call 922-1100.

Axehead yields 4-pound rainbow

Outdoor Editor

Axehead Lake, the petite 17-acre forest preserve district pond at the corner of Touhy Ave. and River Rd., east of the Tri-State Tollway in Des Plaines, is developing into a tackle-breaking rainbow trout bonanza.

"I got one sitting in the freezer that weighs four pounds," an excited Phil Scardina of 906 White Oak in Arlington Heights explained.

"I was casting with something they call a 'Shyster' and it looks like a Rooster Tail only it has a spinner that is yellow with black spots, a small yellow bucktail and a treble hook.

"I know a lot of people fish with cheese, so I tried to offer the trout the closest thing I had. I also attached a little lead weight to the line to toss it out there farther.

"On one of my casts," Scardina continued, "I set the hook, but the rod didn't snap back. I was using six-pound test line, but when I got him near shore and he saw me, I needed every ounce of strength in that line."

Scardina wasn't the only angler to discover larger trout in Axehead.

"We got a couple that were about 16 inches long," Jim Sunagel, a lieutenant in the Elk Grove fire department said. "We're so used to catching eight-inchers that these really took us by surprise."

The success failed to astonish forest preserve district biologist Dave McGinty, though. He released an additional 3,000 rainbows into Axehead last week.

"The trout we stocked last week were considerably larger than the ones released in our first release this year," McGinty said.

"The initial stocking was free from the federal government and they were all about 6-8 inches long. The second release, though, were trout we had purchased with a specified size.

"We requested the trout be one-half pound, on the average," McGinty said, "but I netted them and saw some much larger fish. Some were in the two or 2½-pound range.

"Many of these fish will survive and grow larger for what is anticipated to provide great fall fishing."

Axehead will receive still another shot of trout during the last week in May, increasing the total release of the year to some 7,200.

Roadside seeding, mowing planned

Pheasants gain habitat

Transportation Secretary Langhorne Bond and Conservation Director Tony Dean announced a new joint land management practice along several Illinois highways designed to benefit and increase the populations of nesting wildlife.

The new land management practice consists of seeding some roadsides with brome grass and alfalfa instead of the normal fescue mixture. This new seed composite will not only provide better nesting areas and food for wildlife, but will also give a sturdy stand of turf which will replace weeds along the roadsides.

Fescue is a coarse grass that grows about two feet high. Brome grass is about the same in appearance and texture as fescue, but conservationists report that seed from adult brome grass is more desirable as a food source for wildlife. The alfalfa has pink flowers in spring and summer, provides good nesting cover for pheasants and a food supply for rabbits and other ground animals.

In conjunction with the test seedings, a new mowing practice along the primary highway system has been initiated. Besides benefitting wildlife, especially pheasants, the new mowing practice will also help conserve the amount of gasoline used to mow roadsides, and reduce the number of man hours spent mowing.

Under the new practice the right-of-way along primary highways will be mowed only to the ditch line, regardless of the width of the state property. In the past if the right-of-way were wider than 80 feet, the turf was mowed to the ditch line. If it were less than 80 feet, the entire right-of-way was mowed.

The new seeding mixture will be applied along nearly 180 miles of highways (3,934 acres) in some of the prime pheasant country of Illinois. Some of the seeding was started last fall, and the majority will be completed by this fall.

Test areas include:

—Interstate 55 in Sangamon, Logan, McLean and Livingston Counties.

—Interstate 72 in Sangamon, Macon and Platt Counties.

—Supplemental Freeway 408 in Sangamon and Morgan Counties.

—Supplemental Freeway 403 in Whiteside County.

—Illinois Route 23 in LaSalle and DeKalb Counties.

The Department of Conservation and Illinois Natural History Survey have experimented with the brome-alfalfa mixture at other test sites since 1962, and found that by the end of the third year the number of nesting birds and their offspring nearly tripled.

Dean said that his department estimates that the pheasant population will increase 15 to 20 per cent in the area of new seedings and limited mowing. However, it will take several years before the full effect is realized.

Anglers welcome break in weather

No Lake Michigan fisherman is about to ask how Chicago was branded with its Windy City nickname.

For the past week, a near gale-force fan off the lake has created more fishing miseries than the alewife and lamprey combined.

Even the most devoted angler has kept his power line shore fishing rig in mothballs until the unpredictable one-two punch of wet and wind takes a vacation.

A scheduled charter boat excursion on the big pond Thursday was drowned by the sickening monsoon and cold breath of fresh air that had the shirt-sleeve fraternity of anglers scrambling for their hip boots and hand warmers.

The almost obscene conditions launched the popular Coho '76 Fishing Derby along the lakefront on a rusty note.

The month-long contest, which rewards anglers weighing the largest fish on a weekly basis, found slim pickings hitting the scale.

"We had some decent catches registered during the early part of the week," contest coordinator Ray Gray said. "But the wind churned up the bottom for the shore fishermen and the 6-to-12 foot swells kept most of the charter boat captains glued to the harbors."

"I had an all-day charter Wednesday," Captain Gary Zillian of Lamprey Charter Service said. "The temperatures were in the 70s, but we were back in and tied up about noon simply because you couldn't hold a boat in those 6-foot waves."

Despite the climatic adversities, Martin Jeffers of Lake Forest stands a good chance to cash for one of the contest's major prizes.

Fishing seven miles out of Diversey Harbor in 50 feet of water, Jeffers smacked into a 23-pound chinook salmon Sunday morning using a silver and blue Red-Eye lure.

Taken 12-15 feet below the water's surface, the king made two strong runs, forcing Captain Bob Moeller of the Montynard to chase the fish with the boat to prevent the 200 yards of 15-pound monofilament line from running out and snapping.

"It sure was lucky for us," Moeller said after netting the trophy salmon. "I've been fishing for a long time, mostly off Waukegan, but I've never been rewarded with such a fish."

A Tad-Polly brought in the second largest fish of the week, a 19-pound chinook taken by Rich Cudzillo of Bartlett who was also trolling in Michigan's deep water.

The top coho salmon award is being shared by Chicagoans Jack Cina, Henry Ichida, and Rudy Geisel who baited power lines with nightcrawlers and each netted 2½-pound cohos. Ichida weighed a stringer of four salmon and lost another to just miss taking the prescribed daily limit.

The brown trout derby was won by Gregorio Reyes of Chicago who battled an 8½-pound brownie from shore to the top run of the standings.

The rainbow ratings were led by R. Everets of Dolton who took the trout while trolling by boat.

Local entries to crack the contest lineup include Palatine's Lynn Stupich of 636 E. Mill Valley Rd. who just rich of 636 E. Mill Valley Rd. who just missed sharing in the top coho prize with a 2-pound, 4-ouncer and Bob Strickland of 2882 Scott St. in Des Plaines whose 19½-inch, 2-pound, 3-ounce coho was taken from a charter vessel.

The Coho '76 Derby continues through May 29 with plenty of good fishing weather hopefully in store. Those interested in chartering a boat can call 922-1100.

Axehead yields 4-pound rainbow

Outdoor Editor

Axehead Lake, the petite 17-acre forest preserve district pond at the corner of Touhy Ave. and River Rd., east of the Tri-State Tollway in Des Plaines, is developing into a tackle-breaking rainbow trout bonanza.

"I got one sitting in the freezer that weighs four pounds," an excited Phil Scardina of 906 White Oak in Arlington Heights explained.

"I was casting with something they call a 'Shyster' and it looks like a Rooster Tail only it has a spinner that is yellow with black spots, a small yellow bucktail and a treble hook.

"I know a lot of people fish with cheese, so I tried to offer the trout the closest thing I had. I also attached a little lead weight to the line to toss it out there farther.

"On one of my casts," Scardina continued, "I set the hook, but the rod didn't snap back. I was using six-pound test line, but when I got him near shore and he saw me, I needed every ounce of strength in that line."

Scardina wasn't the only angler to discover larger trout in Axehead.

"We got a couple that were about 16 inches long," Jim Sunagel, a lieutenant in the Elk Grove fire department said. "We're so used to catching eight-inchers that these really took us by surprise."

The success failed to astonish forest preserve district biologist Dave McGinty, though. He released an additional 3,000 rainbows into Axehead last week.

Dance with me, Henry

You don't have to be Gene Kelly to enjoy ballroom dancing

They could have danced all night to the country beat at Elgin's Blue Moon.

Story by Lea Tonkin

Side by side, they sashay and swing to the melodies of yesteryear.

Bodies swirl to a waltz tempo. Then the beat changes, and it's time for the punctuated rhythm of a saucy two-step.

Let's hear it for ballroom dancing!

People who take to the likes of the fox trot and the cha cha now follow the heavy beat of the hustle. Rock music and the common fear of stepping on somebody's toes may have quashed its popularity for a time, but ballroom dancing is making a comeback.

Anyone can join in the fling. For those who let a mere lack of dancing skills hold them back, a one-night stand at any nearby ballroom should clear up any doubts.

People of all sizes and shapes blend into silhouettes whirling across the dance floor. A lady in a long, red velvet dress leans a little closer to her partner as the waltz draws to a close. They kiss. For a moment, the silver-haired sweethearts are alone in the crowd.

Everyone smiles, applauds and waits for the next dance. As the strains of "My Heart Has a Mind of Its Own" are heard, the dancers seem anxious to prove their feet are likewise independent.

One couple makes its way down the length of the ballroom, seeming to slither. Taking a different approach, another twosome dances in what could best be described as the cheek-to-cheek, back-side-out position. An older gentleman with long wispy hair and Western attire swings his partner in a modified jitterbug. Amidst the hundreds of couples, a lone dancer does the two step on his way to the men's room.

Even the confirmed non-dancer sitting on the sidelines can be caught up in the good times. Seating and a bar are provided. Just watch the dancers for a few numbers, listen to the subtle swishing

Where you can dance all night

Ballroom dancing enthusiasts can trip the light fantastic, enjoy dinner and a cocktail at several nearby locations.

• The sound of the big bands is featured at the Lancer Steak House, 50 E. Algonquin Road, Schaumburg. Dancing starts at 9 p.m. Friday and Saturday nights. Cost is $1.50 per person if dinner is purchased at the restaurant, or $3 for dancing only.

Although the ladies may wear suitable attire of their choice, the Lancer management requests that men wear jackets. Information on dancing lessons is available at the restaurant. Beginners who sign up for the classes will receive Friday ballroom passes, good for 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. admission.

• A combination of modern and nostalgic tunes is played at Willow Brook Ballroom and Restaurant, 8900 S. Archer Ave., Willow Springs. As many as 1500 dancers come to the ballroom Thursday through Sunday evenings. Thursday dancing starts at 8:30 p.m. and continues to 12:30 a.m. Hours are Friday, 8:30 p.m. to 1 a.m.; Saturday, 8:30 a.m. to 2 a.m.; and Sunday, 2:30 p.m. to 6 p.m. The charge is $2.75 per person Thursday and Friday, $3.25 Saturday and $2.25 Sunday.

• A medley of "country rock," oldies but goodies and polkas provide musical background for dancing at the Blue Moon Ballroom and Lounge, 1900 Larkin Ave., Elgin. An average 500 to 600 dancers flock to the ballroom for Saturday night sessions, 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. Cost is $3 a person. Dress ranges from shirtsleeves casual to formal attire.

The Bingo Game

BINGO!

Story by Linda Punch
Photos by Jim Frost

Jack Olsen needs a G-55 to end a three-month losing streak. The announcer calls off a number, G-53, and a voice cries out at the back of the room. BINGO! Olsen sweeps the chips from his card.

"It just depends on how your luck goes," he says.

Each week millions of Americans like Jack Olsen trek to their local church or hall for the game of chance called bingo. For some it is time to get together with friends for an evening of socializing. For others it is an opportunity to parlay the $1 admission fee into a $500 prize. For most it is the ultimate challenge — a head-on confrontation with Lady Luck.

Bingo continues to be an ever popular game despite the condition of the national economy. At St. Joseph the Worker Church in Wheeling, Olsen is one of 300 regulars who attend the weekly Friday night games. The Northwest suburbs alone offer some 15 weekly games and state officials issued more than 1,400 bingo licenses last year.

And the popularity is on the rise. The Illinois Dept. of Revenue reports more than $7 million received from bingo taxes (10 per cent of receipts) in 1975, up from nearly $6 million received the year before.

To an outsider, the popularity of the game is hard to understand. Even the organizers of bingo games are hard pressed to explain what lures hundreds of people into a school cafeteria to try their luck with chips and playing cards.

"What attracts people to the track and horse racing? These people just love bingo," says Paul Philip, member of the men's group which sponsors the games at St. Joseph's. Philip notes that bingo players, like horse race fans, have their own strategies and tactics for winning the game.

"We have maybe 15 or 20 hardcore players and they all have their own idiosyncrasies. A lot of them have special spots to sit and you see all sorts of religious statues," he says.

At most bingo games the regulars begin arriving an hour or more before playing time. They queue up before admission windows to rummage through cards in search of a special combination of numbers. Many hurry into the playing room to seek out the special seat with the best lighting, acoustics and luck.

The trickle of people soon turns into a steady flow as game time nears. The seats fill slowly as new arrivals seek out friends. At several tables small groups play a few hands of gin rummy to warm up. At others middle-aged women needlepoint or knit before the night's activities begin.

The ultimate challenge — a chance to turn $1 into $500

At every table veteran bingo players line up their cards in orderly rows, taping them flat to the table top. The paraphernalia of the game — plastic chips, magic markers and an occasional good luck charm — are set up nearby.

At game time the announcer reads off the rules of the game, tests the electric tote board and draws the first number. "Okay, here we go with game number one for $30. And the first number is I-24." Instantly a hush falls over the room and 300 pairs of eyes turn to the cards.

Game styles differ. At one table, a white-haired man in a flowered shirt and plaid pants hunches intently over several rows of cards. He clenches a cigar firmly in his teeth as he covers the numbers announced by the caller. At a neighboring table a young woman in pigtails and blue jeans sips a bottle of pop while she scrutinizes the cards before her. Occasionally one player will lean toward his neighbor to ask a question or point out an uncovered number on the card.

Olsen, a regular at St. Joseph's games for the past 3½ years, runs his hand up and down the rows systematically searching for the numbers called.

"If you start at the beginning and keep going there's less of a chance of missing any numbers. You just can't look hit and miss in between — you'll never make out at all," he explains.

Olsen has been a frequent winner in the past, a fact he attributes to his system of selecting playing cards.

"I try to get all the numbers on the board. If you get all 75 in key places, your chances are much better. You have better than a 50-50 chance of winning the game," he says.

Olsen pats the 31 cards ($1 for the first card, 25 cents for the rest) spread neatly before him on the tabletop. This is a real bingo connoisseur. "I play with more cards than most people do," he says. "I get nervous if I play with less."

Eventually a player comes up with the right combination of numbers and the shout of "bingo" resounds through the room. The losers brush the chips from their cards while the game is verified. And the process begins again.

The official rules of bingo can be listed on a single sheet of paper. The game, a modern form of lotto, can be traced back to as far as 1530 when Italians became obsessed with lotto as a parlor game. Today bingo is played in some form or another in Latin America, Europe, Africa and Asia.

Unwritten rules are just as important as official ones. Players who talk loudly during games are roundly criticized and even announcers are susceptible to verbal abuse if they fail to speak clearly and loudly.

Bingo legend abounds with tales of near violent episodes where irate players ganged up on a hapless offender who disturbed the game. The Rev. Thomas Moran of St. Joseph's says his group is a "more cordial crew" but acknowledges there are occasional letters in the suggestion box "to tell so-and-so to stop making so much noise."

Bingo is popular not only as a form of recreation but as a money maker. Ed Gautchier of St. Joseph's Men's Club notes that the weekly bingo games are the mainstay of the parish school.

"We make about $500 a week with bingo — it's the only way we can keep the school open. I won't play the game myself. I can't stand it," he says.

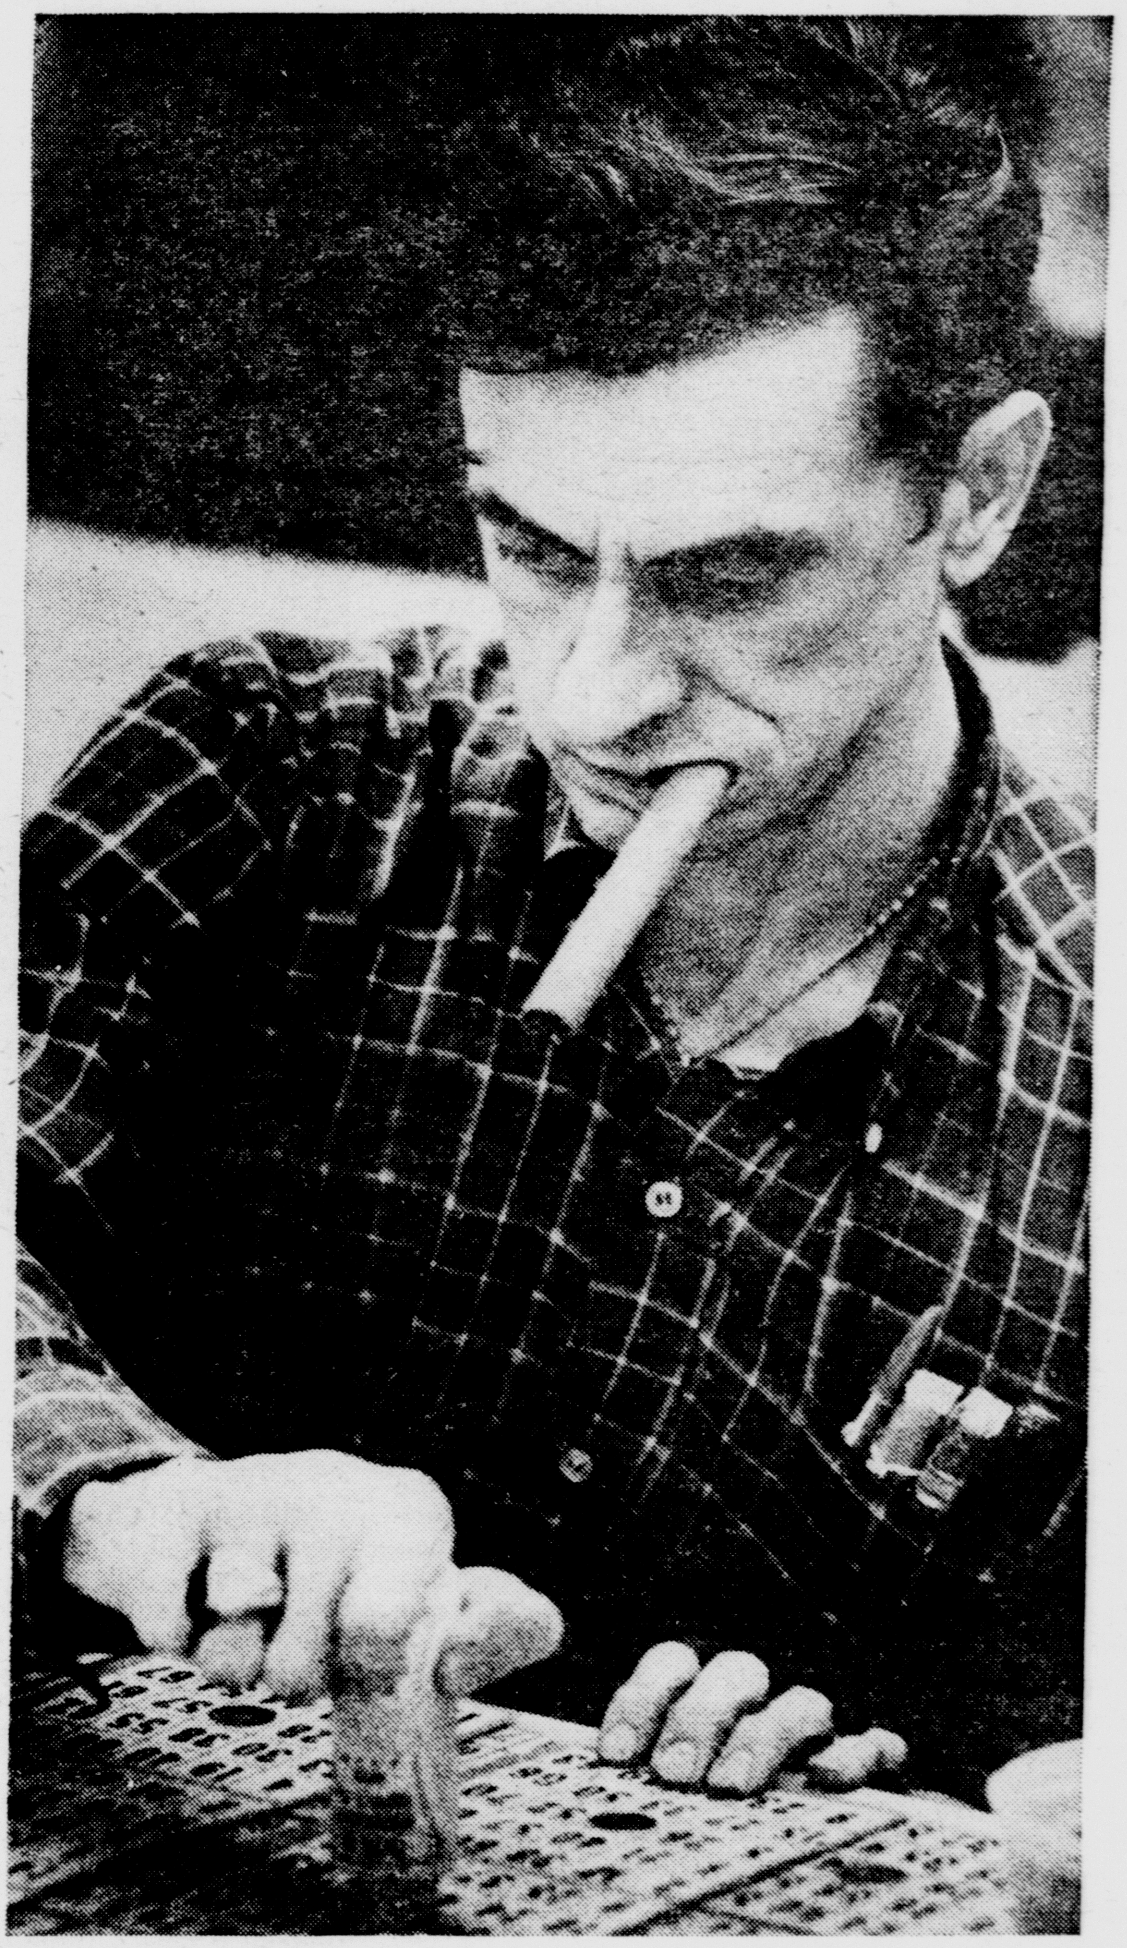
The money making potential of the game has not escaped big time operators. Representatives of nine charities recently pooled resources to open The Million Dollar Bingo Palace, 5341 N. Lincoln, Chicago. The proceeds will benefit the charities including Little City in Palatine.

Bernard Glochowsky, a spokesman for the bingo palace which opened last week, says the hall is "one of a kind. There's nothing like it in the state of Illinois."

The hall boasts special bingo tables, electric scoreboards, free bus transportation for large groups and games seven nights a week. There is room for more than 1,000 players and Glochowsky says cash prizes will total $20,000 each week.

"This is probably the most modern, beautiful bingo hall in the whole country. We think it's going to glamorize bingo and take it out of the backyard," he says.

But the setting doesn't really matter. Avid bingo players will continue to gather wherever there are chips, cards and the promise of a winning game.



Jack Olsen, marking the free spots, gets ready for Lady Luck.

BINGO!

Photos by Jim Frost

Jack Olsen needs a G-55 to end a three-month losing streak. The announcer calls off a number, G-53, and a voice cries out at the back of the room. BINGO! Olsen sweeps the chips from his card.

"It just depends on how your luck goes," he says.

Each week millions of Americans like Jack Olsen trek to their local church or hall for the game of chance called bingo. For some it is time to get together with friends for an evening of socializing. For others it is an opportunity to parlay the $1 admission fee into a $500 prize. For most it is the ultimate challenge — a head-on confrontation with Lady Luck.

Bingo continues to be an ever popular game despite the condition of the national economy. At St. Joseph the Worker Church in Wheeling, Olsen is one of 300 regulars who attend the weekly Friday night games. The Northwest suburbs alone offer some 15 weekly games and state officials issued more than 1,400 bingo licenses last year.

And the popularity is on the rise. The Illinois Dept. of Revenue reports more than $7 million received from bingo taxes (10 per cent of receipts) in 1975, up from nearly $6 million received the year before.

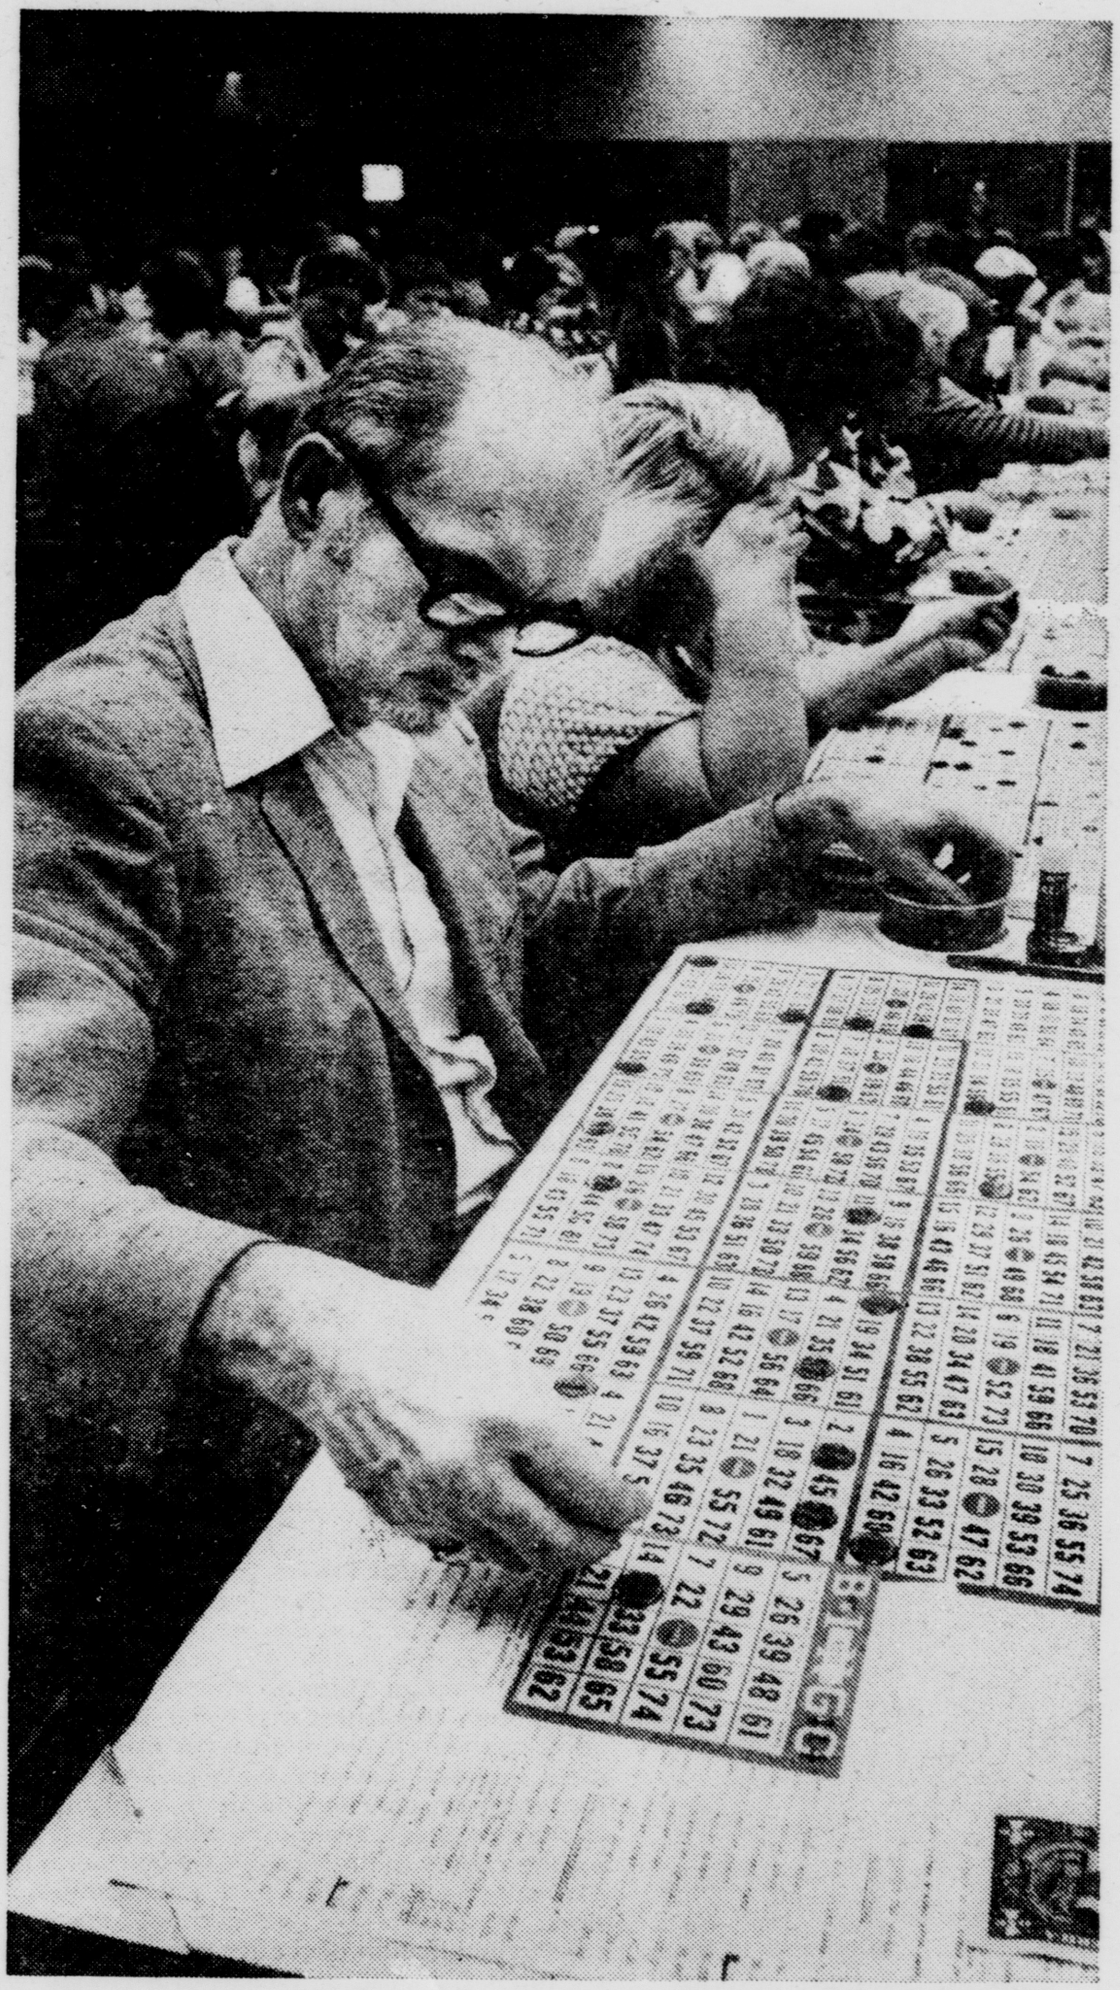
To an outsider, the popularity of the game is hard to understand. Even the organizers of bingo games are hard pressed to explain what lures hundreds of people into a school cafeteria to try their luck with chips and playing cards.

"What attracts people to the track and horse racing? These people just love bingo," says Paul Philip, member of the men's group which sponsors the games at St. Joseph's. Philip notes that bingo players, like horse race fans, have their own strategies and tactics for winning the game.

"We have maybe 15 or 20 hardcore players and they all have their own idiosyncrasies. A lot of them have special spots to sit and you see all sorts of religious statues," he says.

At most bingo games the regulars begin arriving an hour or more before playing time. They queue up before admission windows to rummage through cards in search of a special combination of numbers. Many hurry into the playing room to seek out the special seat with the best lighting, acoustics and luck.

The trickle of people soon turns into a steady flow as game time nears. The seats fill slowly as new arrivals seek out friends. At several tables small groups play a few hands of gin rummy to warm up. At others middle-aged women needlepoint or knit before the night's activities begin.



The ultimate challenge — a chance to turn $1 into $500

At every table veteran bingo players line up their cards in orderly rows, taping them flat to the table top. The paraphernalia of the game — plastic chips, magic markers and an occasional good luck charm — are set up nearby.

At game time the announcer reads off the rules of the game, tests the electric tote board and draws the first number. "Okay, here we go with game number one for $30. And the first number is I-24." Instantly a hush falls over the room and 300 pairs of eyes turn to the cards.

Game styles differ. At one table, a white-haired man in a flowered shirt and plaid pants hunches intently over several rows of cards. He clenches a cigar firmly in his teeth as he covers the numbers announced by the caller. At a neighboring table a young woman in pigtails and blue jeans sips a bottle of pop while she scrutinizes the cards before her. Occasionally one player will lean toward his neighbor to ask a question or point out an uncovered number on the card.

Olsen, a regular at St. Joseph's games for the past 3½ years, runs his hand up and down the rows systematically searching for the numbers called.

"If you start at the beginning and keep going there's less of a chance of missing any numbers. You just can't look hit and miss in between — you'll never make out at all," he explains.

Olsen has been a frequent winner in the past, a fact he attributes to his system of selecting playing cards.

"I try to get all the numbers on the board. If you get all 75 in key places, your chances are much better. You have better than a 50-50 chance of winning the game," he says.

Olsen pats the 31 cards ($1 for the first card, 25 cents for the rest) spread neatly before him on the tabletop. This is a real bingo connoisseur. "I play with more cards than most people do," he says. "I get nervous if I play with less."

Eventually a player comes up with the right combination of numbers and the shout of "bingo" resounds through the room. The losers brush the chips from their cards while the game is verified. And the process begins again.

The official rules of bingo can be listed on a single sheet of paper. The game, a modern form of lotto, can be traced back to as far as 1530 when Italians became obsessed with lotto as a parlor game. To-

Architecture tours

Buildings reflect Chicago area history

To celebrate its tenth anniversary, the Chicago School of Architecture Foundation is giving a gift to residents of Chicago and its suburbs.

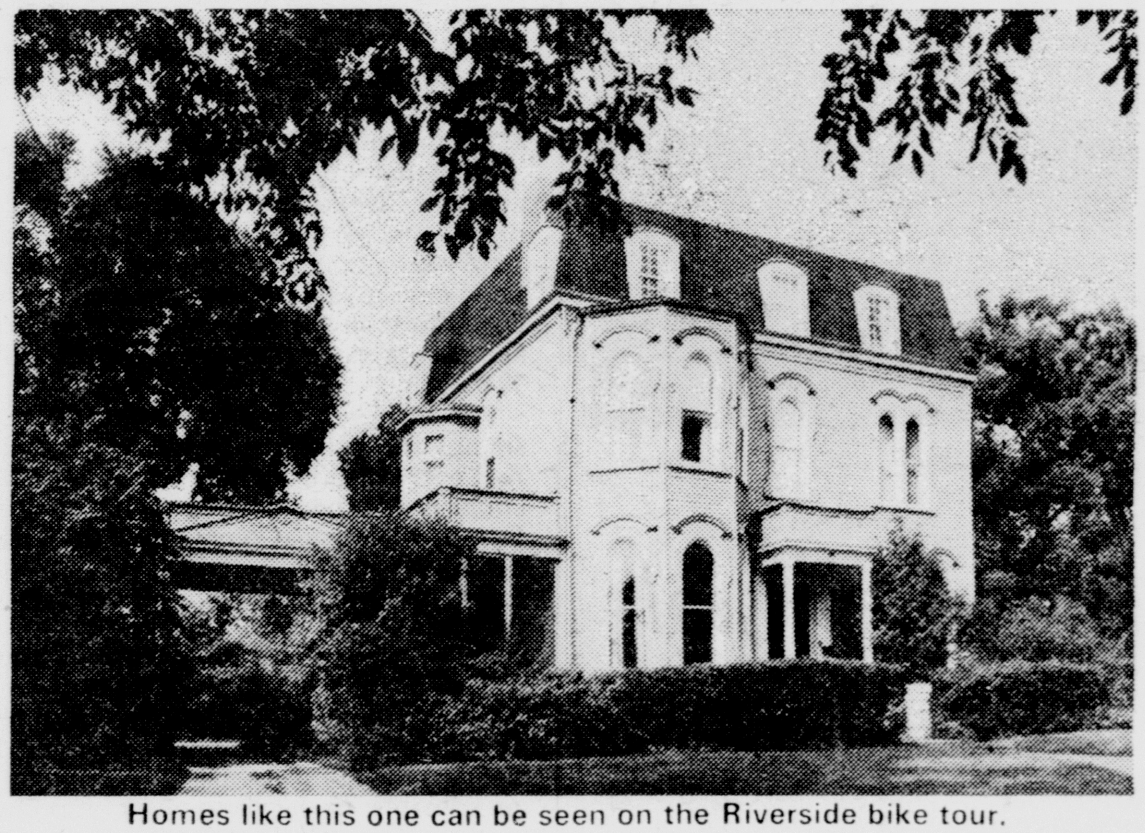
Starting this month and continuing through November, the foundation will sponsor guided walking, bike and bus tours of unique architecture in and around Chicago. Participants will be able to view buildings designed by famous architects Frank Lloyd Wright, Louis Sullivan and others. Taking a tour is a good way to get outside and learn something about the history of the Chicago area.

The foundation's ArchiCenter, 111 S. Dearborn, features exhibits, films, slide shows and special programs on architecture. Walking tours of Chicago's Loop are given 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. Tuesdays through Saturdays and 2 p.m. Sundays. A special corps of volunteers has trained to guide the tours.

All the 1½-hour Loop tours begin at the ArchiCenter and concentrate on downtown buildings, exterior and interior. A 20-minute film precedes the walking tour. Cost, $2 per person; no reservations required except for groups of 10 or more. Call 782-1776.

"Highlights of Chicago Architecture" is a 3½-hour bus tour given every Saturday morning at 9:30 a.m. starting at the ArchiCenter. The tour tells Chicago history through its architecture and includes famous buildings in the Loop, north and south sides, historic districts, landmarks and college campuses. Cost, $7. Reservations required: 782-1776.

In addition to the ArchiCenter tours, the foundation will offer 19 different tours of Chicagoland by foot, bike and bus through October. All walking and bicycle tours are $2 each; reservations are not required except for groups over 10, 782-1776. All tours are two hours long.



Homes like this one can be seen on the Riverside bike tour.

Here is a schedule of the upcoming walking tours:

The Near West Side: Visit both the University of Illinois' Chicago Circle Campus and the neighboring West Side Conservation Project. Begins from Victor Arrigo Park, Lexington and Lytle Streets, Chicago, May 16, 2 p.m.

The River Walk: From the site of Fort Dearborn to Sears Tower, this tour follows multi-level Wacker Drive. Begins at Illinois Center Plaza, 111 E. Wacker Dr. May 9, 23, 2 p.m.

Evanston Along the Lake: This tour focuses on the residential architecture of the North Shore and features distinguished dwellings ranging from Gothic cottages to Prairie School houses and mansions. Begins at Raymond Park, Hinman Avenue and Lake Street, Evanston. June 6, 13, 20. 2 p.m.

Streeterville / Grant Park. Lake Point Tower is among the highlights on the northern leg of this tour. The tour moves south along Lake Shore Drive to explore Michigan Avenue's noteworthy buildings. Begins at the Time-Life Building, Fairbanks Court at Ohio Street, Chicago. June 13, 20, 27. 2 p.m.

North Michigan Avenue: a walk past 100 years of architecture along Chicago's "Magnificent Mile" and neighboring streets from the Water Tower to the Hancock Center. Begins at Pioneer Court, 401 N. Michigan Ave., Chicago. July 8, 22. 5:30 p.m.

The Gold Coast: A look at the elegant town houses and modern apartment buildings on graceful, tree-lined streets. Begins at Lincoln statue east of Chicago Historical Society, Clark Street and North Avenue. July 15, 29. 5:30 p.m.

Beverly Walk: This 100-year-old community features gracious hillside homes from Carptenter Gothic, English Manor and Prairie School traditions. Begins at Rock Island Station, 103rd Street and Walden Parkway, Chicago. July 11, 25. 2 p.m.

Hyde Park Walk: Covering 18 of the buildings in Hyde Park, for more than 80 years Chicago intellectual center. Begins in front of Rockefeller Chapel, 59th Street and Woodlawn Ave., Chicago. Aug. 1, 15, 29. 2 p.m.

Lincoln Park Community Walk: Skilled 19th century craftsmen rebuilt this neighborhood after the Chicago Fire. Begins at Academy of Sciences, Clark Street and Armitage Avenue, Chicago. Aug. 1, 8, 22. 2 p.m.

Graceland Cemetery: A walk through the cemetery where shapers of much Chicago history lie buried — including architects Louis Sullivan, D. H. Burnham and Mies van der Rohe. Begins at cemetery entrance, Clark Street and Irving Park Road, Chicago. Sept. 5, 12, 19, 26. 2 p.m.

A Restoration Walk: Starting in the new Prairie Avenue Historic District, this tour traces the history of the Near South Side from the elegant 1880s through the days of "auto row." Begins at Glessner House, 1800 S. Prairie Avenue, Chicago. Sept. 12, 26. 2 p.m.

Bus tours sponsored by the foundation include:

The North Shore: This tour explores palatial homes and architecture of Chicago's lakefront suburbs. Begins at Fountain Square, Davis Street and Sherman Avenue, Evanston. Cost, $7.50. Reservations: 326-1393. May 9, Oct. 17. 1 p.m.

A Century of Building in Chicago: Five-hour tour visits little-known gems of architecture including Louis Sullivan's famous Holy Trinity Orthodox Cathedral. Begins at Glessner House, 1800 S. Praire Ave., Chicago. Cost, $8. Reservations: 326-1393. Nov. 7, noon.

On the foundation's bike tours, participants must bring their own bike. No reservations needed. Tours, which cost $2, are:

Riverside: A tour of the 19th century houses and homes designed by Frank Lloyd Wright. Begins at Riverside Library, Burling Road across from railroad depot, Riverside. Cost, $2. June 6, 20, 27. 2 p.m.

Central Chicago: A guided ride along the bike path on downtown streets. Begins at Civic Center Plaza, Washington and Dearborn Streets. July 18, 25, Aug. 1. 2 p.m.

Hyde Park/Kenwood: Focus is on Hyde Park and Kenwood. Begins at Harper Court, 52nd Street and Harper Avenue, Chicago. Aug. 8, 22. 2 p.m.

Frank Lloyd Wright: This tour includes Wright homes in River Forest and works by Drummond, Van Bergen, Mather and others. Begins at Unity Temple, Lake Street and Kenilworth Avenue, Oak Park. Sept. 12, 19, 26. 2 p.m.

day bingo is played in some form or another in Latin America, Europe, Africa and Asia.

Unwritten rules are just as important as official ones. Players who talk loudly during games are roundly criticized and even announcers are susceptible to verbal abuse if they fail to speak clearly and loudly.

Bingo legend abounds with tales of near violent episodes where irate players ganged up on a hapless offender who disturbed the game. The Rev. Thomas Moran of St. Joseph's says his group is a "more cordial crew" but acknowledges there are occasional letters in the suggestion box "to tell so-and-so to stop making so much noise."

Bingo is popular not only as a form of recreation but as a money maker. Ed Gautchier of St. Joseph's Men's Club notes that the weekly bingo games are the mainstay of the parish school.

"We make about $500 a week with bingo — it's the only way we can keep the school open. I won't play the game myself. I can't stand it," he says.

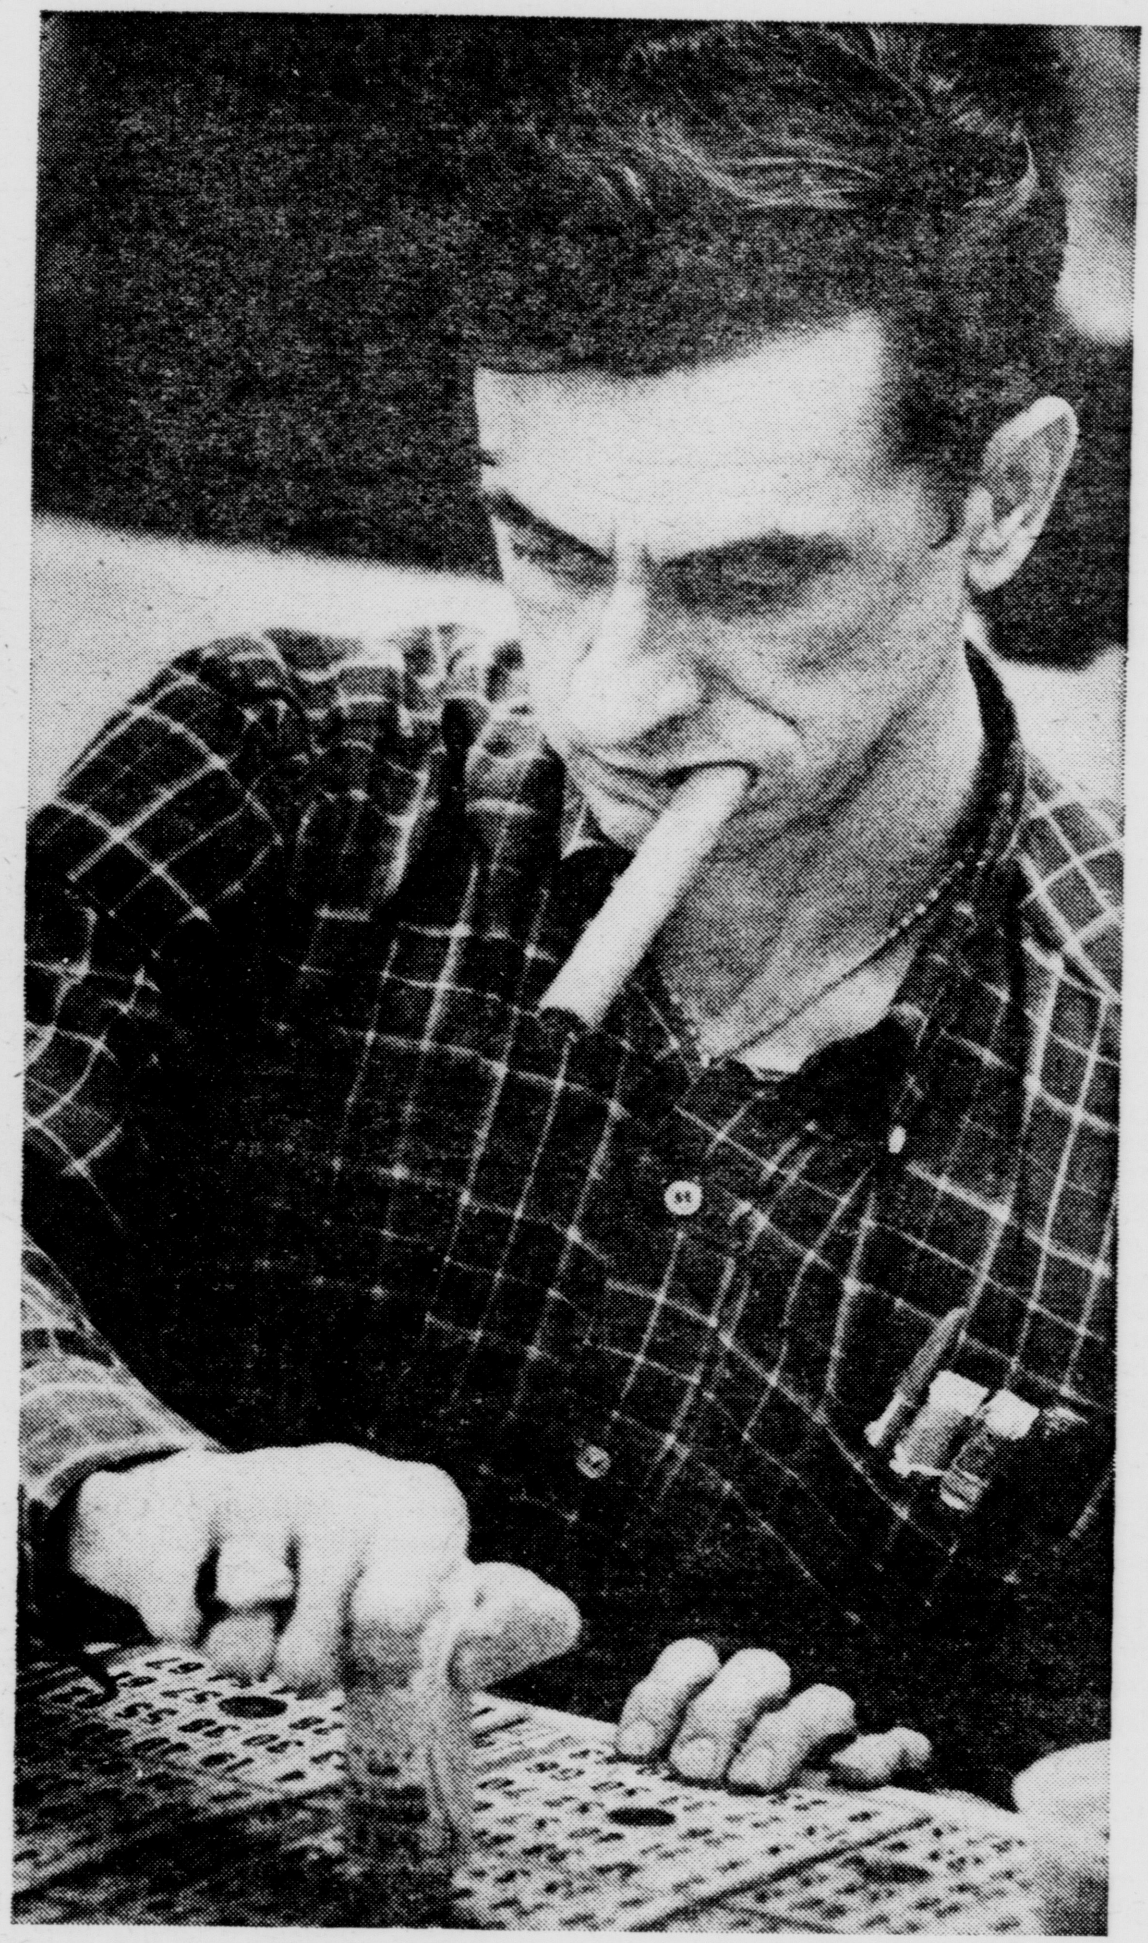
The money making potential of the game has not escaped big time operators. Representatives of nine charities recently pooled resources to open The Million Dollar Bingo Palace, 5341 N. Lincoln, Chicago. The proceeds will benefit the charities including Little City in Palatine.

Bernard Glochowsky, a spokesman for the bingo palace which opened last week, says the hall is "one of a kind. There's nothing like it in the state of Illinois."

The hall boasts special bingo tables, electric scoreboards, free bus transportation for large groups and games seven nights a week. There is room for more than 1,000 players and Glochowsky says cash prizes will total $20,000 each week.

"This is probably the most modern, beautiful bingo hall in the whole country. We think it's going to glamorize bingo and take it out of the backyard," he says.

But the setting doesn't really matter. Avid bingo players will continue to gather wherever there are chips, cards and the promise of a winning game.



Jack Olsen, marking the free spots, gets ready for Lady Luck.

"The Surrender of Cornwallis"

Sheets mark Bicentennial

The U.S. Postal Service will release four Bicentennial Souvenir Sheets May 29, opening day of INTERPHIL '76 (the Seventh International Philatelic Exhibition) in Philadelphia.

Each of the 6x8-inch souvenir sheets has five stamps as part of the design which may be detached and used for postage. All five stamps on a sheet are the same denomination but each sheet has a different denomination.

The sheets are based on famous paintings:

— "The Surrender of Cornwallis" by John Trumbull (13-cent denomination.

— "The Declaration of Independence" by John Trumbull (18-cent).

— "Washington Crossing the Delaware" by Emmanuel Leutze/Eastman Johnson (24-cent).

— "Washington at Valley Forge" by William T. Trego (31-cent).

by Bernadine M. Rechner

Souvenir sheets are being printed by the offset and intaglio processes and will be sold uncanceled in full sheets only during INTERPHIL '76 (if you happen to be in Philadelphia), at philatelic centers (including the Loop Station and the Main Post Office in Chicago) and by mail from "Souvenir Sheets, Philatelic Sales Division, P.O. Box 764, Washington, D.C. 20044." Mail orders must specify which sheet is desired and include a 50-cent handling charge per order. Remittance must be by check or money order; cash and stamps are not acceptable for payment.

Requests for first day sheet cancellations should be sent to "Bicentennial Souvenir Sheets, Philadelphia, PA 19104" and must include a self-addressed envelope of a size large enough to accommodate the 6x8-inch sheets. Remittance must be by check or money order and orders must specify which sheet is desired. The cost of each sheet is the face value of the five stamps on it: Surrender of Cornwallis, 65-cents; Declaration of Independence, 90-cents; Crossing the Delaware, $1.20; Valley Forge, $1.55. The cost for all four sheets is $4.30.

Customers submitting mail orders are asked to be patient and allow up to 60 days for return of their orders.

Got an idea for a stamp? Write Gordon Morrison

Suppose your Uncle Alfred invented the percolator and you think he ought to be honored with his portrait on a postage stamp.

What to do is write Gordon Morison of the Postal Service. He has 13 file cabinets full of such suggestions and receives them at the rate of 4,000 a year.

Mathematically, Uncle Alfred's chances are slim. While the country has had 38 presidents, 101 Supreme Court justices and 10,653 members of Congress, there have been only 259 identifiable persons — from Dante to Walt Disney — pictured on postage stamps since they were first issued in 1847.

But Morison, director of the office of stamps and customer marketing, promises that every idea the public offers for stamp subjects will be laid before the Citizens' Stamp Advisory Committee, sometimes over and over.

It took Ernie Pyle's fans 16 years to get him on a stamp.

Some suggestions are offbeat: a stamp honoring the pretzel, with beer-flavored glue on the reverse; stamps portraying Lassie, the canine star; the hamburger; the Beatles; the FBI's 10 Most Wanted fugitives presumably to facilitate their apprehension; the first daylight bank robbery, the 2,000th swimming pool built in Palm Springs, Calif.

The advisory committee consists of 14 stamp collectors, artists, historians and experts on designing and printing who meet four times a year around a conference table and make recommendations which are forwarded to the postmaster general. Members are paid $100 plus expenses for each meeting.

To narrow the list, the committee eliminates anyone except presidents not dead for 10 years with exceptions made in the past for Walt Disney and Winston Churchill. Stamps must honor significant anniversaries and have "wide-spread national appeal and significance" but no commercial impact.

The committee chairman, Belmont Faries, a retired news editor of the Washington Star and a philatelic columnist, says the panel's suggestions are almost always accepted by the postmaster general.

Some decisions turn out to be controversial. One was the "LOVE" stamp, designed by contemporary artist Robert Indiana and issued in 1973. The idea came from someone who wrote asking, "Why don't you have a stamp for love letters?" Faries recalls.

"There was a terrific backlash," he says. "People called it a hippie stamp. Then we noticed the damn thing was selling." In fact, it became a best seller.

Each year, about 30 stamps honoring 15 subjects are issued. The committee is halfway through 1977 issues and is working on 1978.

Stamps have impact. After a "Giving Blood Saves Lives" stamp came out in 1971, blood banks reported no shortages for six months.

Architecture tours

Buildings reflect Chicago area history

To celebrate its tenth anniversary, the Chicago School of Architecture Foundation is giving a gift to residents of Chicago and its suburbs.

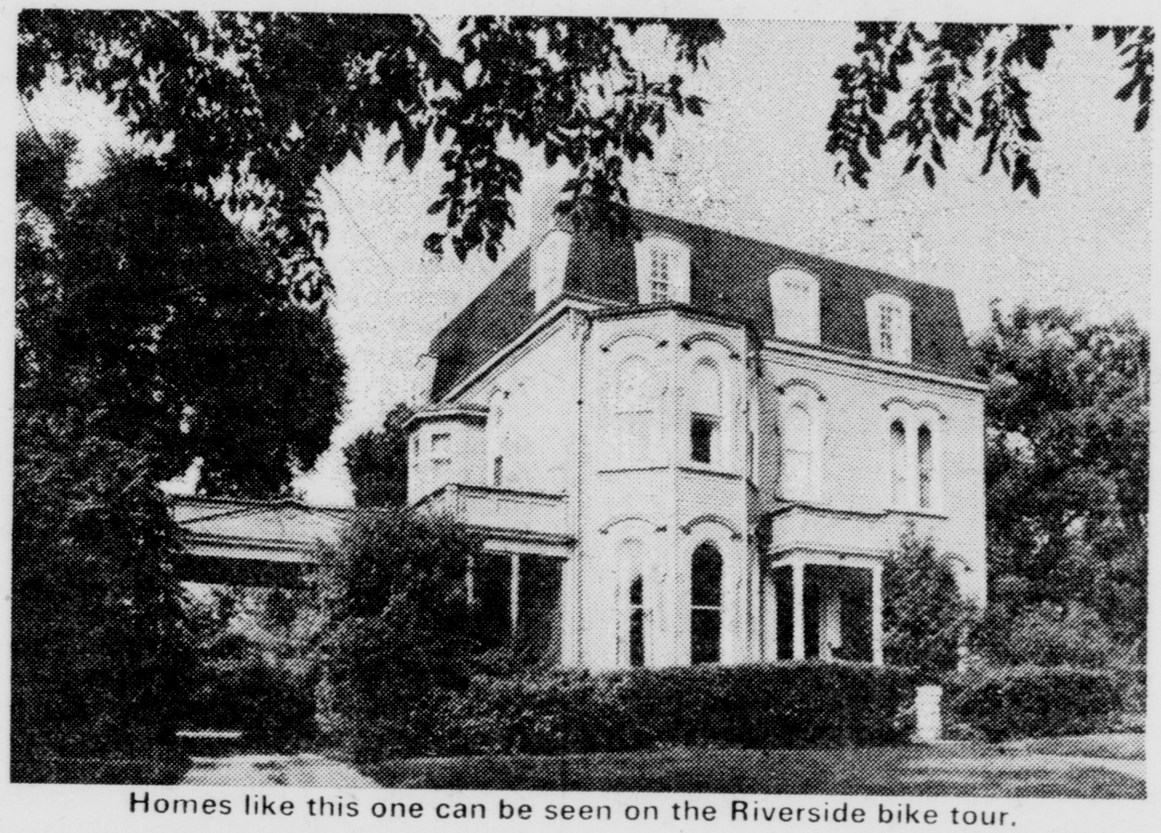
Starting this month and continuing through November, the foundation will sponsor guided walking, bike and bus tours of unique architecture in and around Chicago. Participants will be able to view buildings designed by famous architects Frank Lloyd Wright, Louis Sullivan and others. Taking a tour is a good way to get outside and learn something about the history of the Chicago area.

The foundation's ArchiCenter, 111 S. Dearborn, features exhibits, films, slide shows and special programs on architecture. Walking tours of Chicago's Loop are given 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. Tuesdays through Saturdays and 2 p.m. Sundays. A special corps of volunteers has trained to guide the tours.

All the 1½-hour Loop tours begin at the ArchiCenter and concentrate on downtown buildings, exterior and interior. A 20-minute film precedes the walking tour. Cost, $2 per person; no reservations required except for groups of 10 or more. Call 782-1776.

"Highlights of Chicago Architecture" is a 3½-hour bus tour given every Saturday morning at 9:30 a.m. starting at the ArchiCenter. The tour tells Chicago history through its architecture and includes famous buildings in the Loop, north and south sides, historic districts, landmarks and college campuses. Cost, $7. Reservations required: 782-1776.

In addition to the ArchiCenter tours, the foundation will offer 19 different tours of Chicagoland by foot, bike and bus through October. All walking and bicycle tours are $2 each; reservations are not required except for groups over 10, 782-1776. All tours are two hours long.



Homes like this one can be seen on the Riverside bike tour.

Here is a schedule of the upcoming walking tours:

The Near West Side: Visit both the University of Illinois' Chicago Circle Campus and the neighboring West Side Conservation Project. Begins from Victor Arrigo Park, Lexington and Lytle Streets, Chicago, May 16, 2 p.m.

The River Walk: From the site of Fort Dearborn to Sears Tower, this tour follows multi-level Wacker Drive. Begins at Illinois Center Plaza, 111 E. Wacker Dr. May 9, 23, 2 p.m.

Evanston Along the Lake: This tour focuses on the residential architecture of the North Shore and features distinguished dwellings ranging from Gothic cottages to Prairie School houses and mansions. Begins at Raymond Park, Hinman Avenue and Lake Street, Evanston. June 6, 13, 20. 2 p.m.

Streeterville / Grant Park. Lake Point Tower is among the highlights on the northern leg of this tour. The tour moves south along Lake Shore Drive to explore Michigan Avenue's noteworthy buildings. Begins at the Time-Life Building, Fairbanks Court at Ohio Street, Chicago. June 13, 20, 27. 2 p.m.

North Michigan Avenue: a walk past 100 years of architecture along Chicago's "Magnificent Mile" and neighboring streets from the Water Tower to the Hancock Center. Begins at Pioneer Court, 401 N. Michigan Ave., Chicago. July 8, 22. 5:30 p.m.

The Gold Coast: A look at the elegant town houses and modern apartment buildings on graceful, tree-lined streets. Begins at Lincoln statue east of Chicago Historical Society, Clark Street and North Avenue. July 15, 29. 5:30 p.m.

Beverly Walk: This 100-year-old community features gracious hillside homes from Carptenter Gothic, English Manor and Prairie School traditions. Begins at Rock Island Station, 103rd Street and Walden Parkway, Chicago. July 11, 25. 2 p.m.

Hyde Park Walk: Covering 18 of the buildings in Hyde Park, for more than 80 years Chicago intellectual center. Begins in front of Rockefeller Chapel, 59th Street and Woodlawn Ave., Chicago. Aug. 1, 15, 29. 2 p.m.

Lincoln Park Community Walk: Skilled 19th century craftsmen rebuilt this neighborhood after the Chicago Fire. Begins at Academy of Sciences, Clark Street and Armitage Avenue, Chicago. Aug. 1, 8, 22. 2 p.m.

Graceland Cemetery: A walk through the cemetery where shapers of much Chicago history lie buried — including architects Louis Sullivan, D. H. Burnham and Mies van der Rohe. Begins at cemetery entrance, Clark Street and Irving Park Road, Chicago. Sept. 5, 12, 19, 26. 2 p.m.

A Restoration Walk: Starting in the new Prairie Avenue Historic District, this tour traces the history of the Near South Side from the elegant 1880s through the days of "auto row." Begins at Glessner House, 1800 S. Prairie Avenue, Chicago. Sept. 12, 26. 2 p.m.

Bus tours sponsored by the foundation include:

The North Shore: This tour explores palatial homes and architecture of Chicago's lakefront suburbs. Begins at Fountain Square, Davis Street and Sherman Avenue, Evanston. Cost, $7.50. Reservations: 326-1393. May 9, Oct. 17. 1 p.m.

A Century of Building in Chicago: Five-hour tour visits little-known gems of architecture including Louis Sullivan's famous Holy Trinity Orthodox Cathedral. Begins at Glessner House, 1800 S. Praire Ave., Chicago. Cost, $8. Reservations: 326-1393. Nov. 7, noon.

On the foundation's bike tours, participants must bring their own bike. No reservations needed. Tours, which cost $2, are:

Riverside: A tour of the 19th century houses and homes designed by Frank Lloyd Wright. Begins at Riverside Library, Burling Road across from railroad depot, Riverside. Cost, $2. June 6, 20, 27. 2 p.m.

Central Chicago: A guided ride along the bike path on downtown streets. Begins at Civic Center Plaza, Washington and Dearborn Streets. July 18, 25, Aug. 1. 2 p.m.

Hyde Park/Kenwood: Focus is on Hyde Park and Kenwood. Begins at Harper Court, 52nd Street and Harper Avenue, Chicago. Aug. 8, 22. 2 p.m.

Dance:

sounds of their steps and you'll find yourself smiling back when they look your way.

Ballroom dancing is first and foremost an enjoyable way to spend an evening, says Delores Eiler of the Delores Eiler School of Dancing, Arlington Heights. She says teenagers, college students and mature adults take to this sociable activity.

People who dread not being able to dance should give it a whirl anyhow, Ms. Eiler believes. In her ballroom dance classes offered at the Lancer Steak House, Schaumburg, she tries to make it easy for the first-time practitioner.

"I don't expect anyone to be a Fred Astaire, a Gene Kelly or a Ginger Rogers," she said. "After people have more confidence, then we get into techniques."

Once the novice learns the basics of the cha cha, the jitterbug, the fox trot and the waltz, there's no stopping. Most want to tackle the rhumba and the tango, taking to the dance floor at every opportunity.

"It becomes automatic after a while," Ms. Eiler said. "Just enjoy yourself. It's like driving a car or playing golf."

A word of caution for the ladies: leave women's liberation outside the ballroom. Men must lead. Awkward, possibly painful mistakes can be sidestepped this way.

There are few rules for the ballroom dancing enthusiast, says Marilyn Turek, a dance instructor at the Harper College evening program. For one thing, the old dress code is out.

"Years ago, it meant rhinestones and your best dress," Mrs. Turek said. "Now it's anything from a slacks outfit to long dresses. It's all the dress of today, but it's not blue jeans."

Mrs. Turek welcomes the changing trends in style and sound that mark the ballroom dancing comeback. Definitely, more young people are dancing, she says. "It takes the trend away from standing at the bar and drinking all night. It's social expression, a lot more fun."

By all means, brush up on your steps if you've been away from the dance floor for several years, the dance instructor advised. Many of the big band nostalgia tunes are still popular, and the new pop songs can be played in an easygoing tempo.

The country sound blends right in with formal dancing, says George Sotos, co-owner of the Blue Moon Ballroom and Lounge in Elgin. He says most anyone can find enjoyment in the restful ballroom atmosphere — even non-dancers. "It's a happy thing to see. They're people having a good time," he says.

Miniature show opens May 21 in Northlake

"The Second Annual Wonderful World of Miniatures," an exhibit of miniature rooms and vignettes, will open May 21 at the Northlake Hotel in Northlake.

The show will consist of exhibits and the buying and selling of miniatures. Military miniatures, dioramas and egg sculptures will also be featured.

The show, in exhibit halls at the hotel, 401 W. Lake St. (formerly the O'Hareport Hotel), will be open noon to 10 p.m. May 21; 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. May 22 and 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. May 23. Tickets, sold only at the door, are tax deductible. Cost is $2 for adults; $1 for children under 12. School groups are invited to view the exhibit the afternoon of May 21 at a reduced group rate.

Proceeds of the show go to Medi-Check International Foundation which provides free emergency medical identification devices to children and adults with medical problems. The show also benefits the Renee Shaffer Gettleman Memorial Foundation Auxiliary which provides funds for cancer research in the fight against Hodgkins Disease.

For more show information call 724-8280 or write The Wonderful World of Miniatures, 2640 Golf Rd., Suite 223, Glenview, Ill. 60025.

"The Surrender of Cornwallis"

Sheets mark Bicentennial

The U.S. Postal Service will release four Bicentennial Souvenir Sheets May 29, opening day of INTERPHIL '76 (the Seventh International Philatelic Exhibition) in Philadelphia.

Each of the 6x8-inch souvenir sheets has five stamps as part of the design which may be detached and used for postage. All five stamps on a sheet are the same denomination but each sheet has a different denomination.

The sheets are based on famous paintings:

— "The Surrender of Cornwallis" by John Trumbull (13-cent denomination.

— "The Declaration of Independence" by John Trumbull (18-cent).

— "Washington Crossing the Delaware" by Emmanuel Leutze/Eastman Johnson (24-cent).

— "Washington at Valley Forge" by William T. Trego (31-cent).

by Bernadine M. Rechner

Souvenir sheets are being printed by the offset and intaglio processes and will be sold uncanceled in full sheets only during INTERPHIL '76 (if you happen to be in Philadelphia), at philatelic centers (including the Loop Station and the Main Post Office in Chicago) and by mail from "Souvenir Sheets, Philatelic Sales Division, P.O. Box 764, Washington, D.C. 20044." Mail orders must specify which sheet is desired and include a 50-cent handling charge per order. Remittance must be by check or money order; cash and stamps are not acceptable for payment.

Requests for first day sheet cancellations should be sent to "Bicentennial Souvenir Sheets, Philadelphia, PA 19104" and must include a self-addressed envelope of a size large enough to accommodate the 6x8-inch sheets. Remittance must be by check or money order and orders must specify which sheet is desired. The cost of each sheet is the face value of the five stamps on it: Surrender of Cornwallis, 65-cents; Declaration of Independence, 90-cents; Crossing the Delaware, $1.20; Valley Forge, $1.55. The cost for all four sheets is $4.30.

Customers submitting mail orders are asked to be patient and allow up to 60 days for return of their orders.

Got an idea for a stamp? Write Gordon Morrison

Suppose your Uncle Alfred invented the percolator and you think he ought to be honored with his portrait on a postage stamp.

What to do is write Gordon Morison of the Postal Service. He has 13 file cabinets full of such suggestions and receives them at the rate of 4,000 a year.

Mathematically, Uncle Alfred's chances are slim. While the country has had 38 presidents, 101 Supreme Court justices and 10,653 members of Congress, there have been only 259 identifiable persons — from Dante to Walt Disney — pictured on postage stamps since they were first issued in 1847.

But Morison, director of the office of stamps and customer marketing, promises that every idea the public offers for stamp subjects will be laid before the Citizens' Stamp Advisory Committee, sometimes over and over.

It took Ernie Pyle's fans 16 years to get him on a stamp.

Some suggestions are offbeat: a stamp honoring the pretzel, with beer-flavored glue on the reverse; stamps portraying Lassie, the canine star; the hamburger; the Beatles; the FBI's 10 Most Wanted fugitives presumably to facilitate their apprehension; the first daylight bank robbery, the 2,000th swimming pool built in Palm Springs, Calif.

The advisory committee consists of 14 stamp collectors, artists, historians and experts on designing and printing who meet four times a year around a conference table and make recommendations which are forwarded to the postmaster general. Members are paid $100 plus expenses for each meeting.

To narrow the list, the committee eliminates anyone except presidents not dead for 10 years with exceptions made in the past for Walt Disney and Winston Churchill. Stamps must honor significant anniversaries and have "wide-spread national appeal and significance" but no commercial impact.

The committee chairman, Belmont Faries, a retired news editor of the Washington Star and a philatelic columnist, says the panel's suggestions are almost always accepted by the postmaster general.

Some decisions turn out to be controversial. One was the "LOVE" stamp, designed by contemporary artist Robert Indiana and issued in 1973. The idea came from someone who wrote asking, "Why don't you have a stamp for love letters?" Faries recalls.

"There was a terrific backlash," he says. "People called it a hippie stamp. Then we noticed the damn thing was selling." In fact, it became a best seller.

Each year, about 30 stamps honoring 15 subjects are issued. The committee is halfway through 1977 issues and is working on 1978.

Stamps have impact. After a "Giving Blood Saves Lives" stamp came out in 1971, blood banks reported no shortages for six months.

Sports car club plans road rallies for novices

The Tri-State Sports Car Conference will again sponsor a series of mini-rallies for novice road rallyists.

Six mini-rallies designed to introduce the beginning competitor to TSD (Time, Speed and Distance) rallying will be sponsored each month starting May 15. Other rally dates are June 19, July 17, Aug. 21, Sept. 18 and Oct. 16.

Starting point is the J.C. Penney Auto Center, Woodfield Mall in Schaumburg. Finishing point is Groupers Restaurant, U.S. Rte. 12 and Ill. Rte. 68 in Palatine. Registration begins at 6:15 p.m.; first car off at 7:01 p.m.

Cost is $3 per event. There is no limit on people per car. Awards will be given to first through third place finishers. The top five overall series competitors — best three out of six events — will also receive awards.

The UTRO Rally Club will sponsor a TSD rally June 5, starting at the Skelly Truckstop, on U.S. Rte. 20 near Marengo. Registration is 6 p.m. with the first car off at 7:01 p.m. Fee is $6. Trophies will be given to the first two finishers in both experienced and novice classes.

For more information on the mini-rally series call Liz, 253-6864 after 6 p.m. For information on the UTRO rally call 885-8688.

Canoe race set for June 20

All types of canoes including birchbark, fiberglass, aluminum, hide, racing and dugouts are welcome in the race which will begin at 11 a.m. The race is part of a Bicentennial Weekend Fair June 19 and 20 at the Roy C. Blackwell Recreational Preserve, Butterfield Road west of Winfield Road in DuPage County.

The race will be twice around 65-acre Silver Lake. Medals will be awarded to the first three canoes across the finish line. There is no charge to enter the race and forest preserve boat permits are not required.

The race is among several contests with a colonial theme sponsored by the DuPage County Forest Preserve District during the two-day fair. Visitors will have a chance to participate in log rolling, pole climbing, ax throwing, horseshoe throwing and a fishing derby.

Woodcarvers, blacksmiths, candlemakers, weavers and other craftsmen who produce colonial products are invited as exhibitors. Anyone wishing to exhibit or enter the canoe race should contact Mike Riddet at 323-0389.

Shedd exhibit features undersea exploration

Don Zumwalt, curator of fishes at the aquarium, will explain with slides procedures in collecting marine specimens exhibited at the aquarium at 1 p.m. May 15 and 16.

Scuba diving will be explored by Ron and Jennifer Stephenson, certified divers and underwater photographers, in their "Crystal Silence" presentation at 1 p.m. May 22 and 23.

An undersea habitat, Sealab II donated by the U.S. Navy, will be on display this month. The habitat houses three ten-man aquanaut teams for 15 days each at a depth of 205 feet off the California coast from Aug. 28 to Oct. 10, 1965. The major objective of Project Sealab II was to test man's ability to function at such a depth.

May hours are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily and until 9 p.m. Fridays.

Eventline now open

To find out what's going on in Chicago, residents can now dial 922-7000, the Visitor Eventline opened by the Chicago Convention and Tourism Bureau.

The eventline, open around the clock, will provide a short recorded message on theatre, entertainment, sports and special events.

Maybe your back is aching for a Spinal-Guard.

King Koil, with the help of the International Chiropractors Association*, designed the Spinal-Guard especially for people who wake up with a backache because of a saggy mattress. The critical center area of Spinal-Guard is constructed with heaviest springs to provide extra support to the heaviest part of the body. Spinal-Guard also features Flex-Edge non-sag border supports that let you sleep comfortably edge to edge. Inert cushioning materials reduce the possibility of bothersome allergy symptoms and the cover is chemically treated to stay hygienically fresh. A foam foundation gives the mattress a firm base.

Cliff Robertson plays 'Buzz' Aldrin

by Joan Hanauer

After you've walked on the moon, what do you do for an encore?

That was the problem Col. Edwin E. "Buzz" Aldrin faced after he followed Neil Armstrong onto the lunar surface to become the second human to walk on the moon.

The flight to the moon was as easy as a stroll down Main Street for Aldrin, compared to the re-entry problems he faced in finding a place for himself back on Earth. NASA used him as an amateur lobbyist to pry funds from a reluctant Congress — so reluctant, in fact, that it cut back on the space shuttle program that Aldrin considered his future.

It's this re-entry problem that is the focus of "Return to Earth," a television movie based on Aldrin's book, scheduled to air Friday at 8:30 p.m. as the second half of ABC's Friday Night Movie double feature.

The moon landing provides a backdrop for the credits, because this is not the story of the dramatic landing, but rather what happened after — a drama of the struggle within a man to find peace with himself and to fight off the crippling effects of severe depression, which drove him to a psychiatric hospital for treatment.

It's a difficult role for Cliff Robertson, since the actor saw Aldrin as an essentially private person and the very nature of depression involves withdrawal into the self; demanding subtlety and providing no opportunity for chewing the scenery or displaying the boyish charm that Robertson can bring to the screen.

Robertson worked with Aldrin and became friendly with the former astronaut during the filming of the television movie and in an interview the actor said:

"Working with Buzz, he seemed by nature a very private person. That was compounded by his academic background — West Point, completely scientific and military. By nature these private, private people, with less emotional color to their characters, are more prone to depression and less able to give expression to their problems."

In Aldrin's case, he had been brought up by an ambitious military father (Ralph Bellamy in this version) and a mother who, he tells a psychiatrist, once tried to commit suicide and probably welcomed death when it later came.

His goals were his life, and his wife (played by Shirley Knight) and children were part of the picture of the very model of a modern colonel-astronaut — until it all fell apart.

"Would Aldrin have had psychiatric problems if he hadn't gone to the moon?" Robertson mused. "Very likely not. Everybody has his stress point and Aldrin's came when he returned and was sent out on an endless round of speechmaking. His whole orientation was going to the moon. But nobody spent any time or money anticipating what would happen to the astronauts after they came back from the moon."

Robertson has been increasingly interested in mental health ever since he made the television play, "The Two Worlds of Charly Gordon," and the movie, "Charly." But his concentration has been on helping the retarded — Charly Gordon was a retardate — and currently he is chairman of the Community Advisory Board of the Woodward Mental Health Center for emotionally disturbed youth in Freeport, N.Y.

Cliff Robertson, who plays astronaut "Buzz" Aldrin, in ABC's "Return to Earth," is welcomed home after his walk on the moon.

"I did charities like anybody else, but I never aligned myself with retardation before 'Charly,'" Robertson said, speaking of the fictional character almost as though he were alive.

"But I got involved with retarded kids and I guess I got emotionally kind of hooked. Retardation seems to be one of those diseases that haven't attracted a lot of sponsors — as though it weren't a clean one like TB. Actually, they're the last of the innocents."

Perhaps the fact that he and his wife, actress Dina Merrill, have a bright 7-year-old daughter, Heather, enters into his feeling for less fortunate youngsters.

"With Charly we opened a lot of closet doors," he said. "Maybe 'Return to Earth' will help people who suffer depression, or those close to them.

"After all, if it could happen to a hero, an astronaut, Mr. Perfect — well, it could happen to anybody, in any profession, of any sex, race or religion."

Are you a TV addict?

With tongue in cheek, Nicholas Johnson, chairman of the National Citizens Committee for Broadcasting, says television can be just as addictive as alcohol.

The answers to these 10 questions, he says, will help determine if you are a TV addict:

1. Do you turn down the set when you answer the phone so the caller won't know you're watching television?

2. Do you stay up late watching television, but can't remember the next morning what you saw?

3. Do you have to watch a television program as soon as you get up in the morning?

4. Do you suddenly find you have watched several programs in a row without thinking about it?

5. When you have visitors, do you find it impossible to turn off the set or to carry on a conversation without continuing to watch?

6. If unexpected visitors come, do you rush to turn the channel to a "better" program?

7. Did you refuse a social engagement because you didn't want to miss a program, but were ashamed to tell anyone that was the reason?

8. If you try to go through an evening without television, do you become nervous and irritable? Do you have trouble figuring out what to do with your eyes?

9. When other people say you're watching too much television, do you become defensive?

10. Do you find yourself saying, "I never watch TV, but I just happened to turn the set on the other night and . . ."?

Dance:

sounds of their steps and you'll find yourself smiling back when they look your way.

Ballroom dancing is first and foremost an enjoyable way to spend an evening, says Delores Eiler of the Delores Eiler School of Dancing, Arlington Heights. She says teenagers, college students and mature adults take to this sociable activity.

People who dread not being able to dance should give it a whirl anyhow, Ms. Eiler believes. In her ballroom dance classes offered at the Lancer Steak House, Schaumburg, she tries to make it easy for the first-time practitioner.

"I don't expect anyone to be a Fred Astaire, a Gene Kelly or a Ginger Rogers," she said. "After people have more confidence, then we get into techniques."

Once the novice learns the basics of the cha cha, the jitterbug, the fox trot and the waltz, there's no stopping. Most want to tackle the rhumba and the tango, taking to the dance floor at every opportunity.

"It becomes automatic after a while," Ms. Eiler said. "Just enjoy yourself. It's like driving a car or playing golf."

A word of caution for the ladies: leave women's liberation outside the ballroom. Men must lead. Awkward, possibly painful mistakes can be sidestepped this way.

There are few rules for the ballroom dancing enthusiast, says Marilyn Turek, a dance instructor at the Harper College evening program. For one thing, the old dress code is out.

"Years ago, it meant rhinestones and your best dress," Mrs. Turek said. "Now it's anything from a slacks outfit to long dresses. It's all the dress of today, but it's not blue jeans."

Mrs. Turek welcomes the changing trends in style and sound that mark the ballroom dancing comeback. Definitely, more young people are dancing, she says. "It takes the trend away from standing at the bar and drinking all night. It's social expression, a lot more fun."

By all means, brush up on your steps if you've been away from the dance floor for several years, the dance instructor advised. Many of the big band nostalgia tunes are still popular, and the new pop songs can be played in an easygoing tempo.

The country sound blends right in with formal dancing, says George Sotos, co-owner of the Blue Moon Ballroom and Lounge in Elgin. He says most anyone can find enjoyment in the restful ballroom atmosphere — even non-dancers. "It's a happy thing to see. They're people having a good time," he says.

Miniature show opens May 21 in Northlake

"The Second Annual Wonderful World of Miniatures," an exhibit of miniature rooms and vignettes, will open May 21 at the Northlake Hotel in Northlake.

The show will consist of exhibits and the buying and selling of miniatures. Military miniatures, dioramas and egg sculptures will also be featured.

The show, in exhibit halls at the hotel, 401 W. Lake St. (formerly the O'Hareport Hotel), will be open noon to 10 p.m. May 21; 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. May 22 and 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. May 23. Tickets, sold only at the door, are tax deductible. Cost is $2 for adults; $1 for children under 12. School groups are invited to view the exhibit the afternoon of May 21 at a reduced group rate.

Proceeds of the show go to Medi-Check International Foundation which provides free emergency medical identification devices to children and adults with medical problems. The show also benefits the Renee Shaffer Gettleman Memorial Foundation Auxiliary which provides funds for cancer research in the fight against Hodgkins Disease.

For more show information call 724-8280 or write The Wonderful World of Miniatures, 2640 Golf Rd., Suite 223, Glenview, Ill. 60025.

Jill gets her wish

JILL ST. JOHN

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — "Be careful what you wish for," said Jill St. John, "your're liable to get it."

The gorgeous redhead, who may be the most beautiful woman in show business, has idolized comic strip heroine Brenda Starr since childhood. Now she will be seen playing the glamorous newspaper gal in a television movie.

Hill advises caution about wishes only half in jest. The 90-minute film; "Brenda Starr," to be aired by ABC at 7 p.m. tonight, didn't turn out exactly as she'd hoped. It was made to be a series but fell short of expectations.

"I've associated myself with Brenda since I was a little girl" Jill said. "And we do have a lot in common.

"We both have red hair. Our faces and figures are pretty much the same. We travel around to exotic places — I leave for Tahiti and Bora Bora next week — and we both wear beautiful clothes.

"I've read the comic strip all my life. Some of my friends still call me Brenda. Brenda has stars in her eyes and, oh, did I want to be Brenda Starr."

In the television show Jill plays Brenda as a single girl although the comic strip heroine has married Basil St. John — no relation to Jill — after two decades of courtship.

"Basil has raised black orchids as a hobby since I can remember," Jill said. "But I had to convince everyone connected with the show there is no such orchid. I know because I raise them myself. So they had to dye some orchids black."

Jill was personally responsible for the television movie to begin with. Two years ago she made a guest appearance on "The Hollywood Squares" and was asked by a friend what she'd really like to do for movies or television.

She replied, "I'd like to do Brenda Starr."

The matter was forgotten. But the man who had asked the question was producer Joe Sigman. Eight months later he telephoned Jill to say he acquired rights to the property.

It is the first television movie Jill has made in six years and one of the few roles she has accepted since making her permanent home in Aspen, Colo., four years ago.

"I backed off for awhile because I'd been working in radio, movies and television since I was four years old," Jill said. "I'm the daughter of the greatest stage mother of all time. She was determined that I would have a career.

"I've worked hard all my life and it came to a crisis in England four years ago. I'd just finished doing the James Bond picture, 'Diamonds Are Forever,' and went right into 'Sitting Target' with Oliver Reed.

"Two pictures in a row was exhausting. I woke up one night screaming and couldn't get back to sleep. I decided I needed a new way of life.

"I chose Aspen because I'd found it pleasurable visiting on and off for six years.

"I bought a three bedroom house on six acres in the mountains. I have a potting shed right in the house and have filled the place with orchids and other plants.

"I'm close to nature surrounded by beauty you know didn't come from Disney. I raise my own vegetables, ski, walk in the woods and jog a mile and a half every day. It's the healthiest possible life."

At one time Jill was as much business woman as actress. She was involved in a wig venture, endorsed a line of clothes and dabbled in the Indian jewelry business. She has put those enterprises behind her.

Jill keeps an apartment in Beverly Hills but spends less than 12 weeks a year in the city. Most of her trips to Hollywood are to visit her parents.

Single since her divorce from singer Jack Jones several years ago, Jill is not planning to remain unmarried although she has no prospective husbands in mind.

"The thought of being 50 years old and all by myself isn't appealing to me," she said. "But I don't want any children because I don't like them.

"No thanks, I have an affinity for the mountains and I love to ski. I'm truly happy with my life, and for the moment there is little I can imagine that would improve it."

Sports car club plans road rallies for novices

The Tri-State Sports Car Conference will again sponsor a series of mini-rallies for novice road rallyists.

Six mini-rallies designed to introduce the beginning competitor to TSD (Time, Speed and Distance) rallying will be sponsored each month starting May 15. Other rally dates are June 19, July 17, Aug. 21, Sept. 18 and Oct. 16.

Starting point is the J.C. Penney Auto Center, Woodfield Mall in Schaumburg. Finishing point is Groupers Restaurant, U.S. Rte. 12 and Ill. Rte. 68 in Palatine. Registration begins at 6:15 p.m.; first car off at 7:01 p.m.

Cost is $3 per event. There is no limit on people per car. Awards will be given to first through third place finishers. The top five overall series competitors — best three out of six events — will also receive awards.

The UTRO Rally Club will sponsor a TSD rally June 5, starting at the Skelly Truckstop, on U.S. Rte. 20 near Marengo. Registration is 6 p.m. with the first car off at 7:01 p.m. Fee is $6. Trophies will be given to the first two finishers in both experienced and novice classes.

For more information on the mini-rally series call Liz, 253-6864 after 6 p.m. For information on the UTRO rally call 885-8688.

Canoe race set for June 20

Canoeists are invited to compete in a free-for-all style canoe race on Silver Lake near Warrenville June 20.

All types of canoes including birchbark, fiberglass, aluminum, hide, racing and dugouts are welcome in the race which will begin at 11 a.m. The race is part of a Bicentennial Weekend Fair June 19 and 20 at the Roy C. Blackwell Recreational Preserve, Butterfield Road west of Winfield Road in DuPage County.

The race will be twice around 65-acre Silver Lake. Medals will be awarded to the first three canoes across the finish line. There is no charge to enter the race and forest preserve boat permits are not required.

The race is among several contests with a colonial theme sponsored by the DuPage County Forest Preserve District during the two-day fair. Visitors will have a chance to participate in log rolling, pole climbing, ax throwing, horseshoe throwing and a fishing derby.

Woodcarvers, blacksmiths, candlemakers, weavers and other craftsmen who produce colonial products are invited as exhibitors. Anyone wishing to exhibit or enter the canoe race should contact Mike Riddet at 323-0389.

Shedd exhibit features undersea exploration

Scuba diving, underwater photography and undersea exploration will be highlighted this month at the John G. Shedd Aquarium, Chicago.

Don Zumwalt, curator of fishes at the aquarium, will explain with slides procedures in collecting marine specimens exhibited at the aquarium at 1 p.m. May 15 and 16.

Scuba diving will be explored by Ron and Jennifer Stephenson, certified divers and underwater photographers, in their "Crystal Silence" presentation at 1 p.m. May 22 and 23.

An undersea habitat, Sealab II donated by the U.S. Navy, will be on display this month. The habitat houses three ten-man aquanaut teams for 15 days each at a depth of 205 feet off the California coast from Aug. 28 to Oct. 10, 1965. The major objective of Project Sealab II was to test man's ability to function at such a depth.

May hours are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily and until 9 p.m. Fridays.

Eventline now open

To find out what's going on in Chicago, residents can now dial 922-7000, the Visitor Eventline opened by the Chicago Convention and Tourism Bureau.

The eventline, open around the clock, will provide a short recorded message on theatre, entertainment, sports and special events.

Maybe your back is aching for a Spinal-Guard.

The critical center area is constructed with heavier springs for extra support to the heaviest part of the body.

King Koil, with the help of the International Chiropractors Association*, designed the Spinal-Guard especially for people who wake up with a backache because of a saggy mattress. The critical center area of Spinal-Guard is constructed with heaviest springs to provide extra support to the heaviest part of the body. Spinal-Guard also features Flex-Edge non-sag border supports that let you sleep comfortably edge to edge. Inert cushioning materials reduce the possibility of bothersome allergy symptoms and the cover is chemically treated to stay hygienically fresh. A foam foundation gives the mattress a firm base.

Now is a great time to buy. Spinal-Guard is at special prices.

Cliff Robertson plays 'Buzz' Aldrin

by Joan Hanauer

After you've walked on the moon, what do you do for an encore?

That was the problem Col. Edwin E. "Buzz" Aldrin faced after he followed Neil Armstrong onto the lunar surface to become the second human to walk on the moon.

The flight to the moon was as easy as a stroll down Main Street for Aldrin, compared to the re-entry problems he faced in finding a place for himself back on Earth. NASA used him as an amateur lobbyist to pry funds from a reluctant Congress — so reluctant, in fact, that it cut back on the space shuttle program that Aldrin considered his future.

It's this re-entry problem that is the focus of "Return to Earth," a television movie based on Aldrin's book, scheduled to air Friday at 8:30 p.m. as the second half of ABC's Friday Night Movie double feature.

The moon landing provides a backdrop for the credits, because this is not the story of the dramatic landing, but rather what happened after — a drama of the struggle within a man to find peace with himself and to fight off the crippling effects of severe depression, which drove him to a psychiatric hospital for treatment.

It's a difficult role for Cliff Robertson, since the actor saw Aldrin as an essentially private person and the very nature of depression involves withdrawal into the self; demanding subtlety and providing no opportunity for chewing the scenery or displaying the boyish charm that Robertson can bring to the screen.

Robertson worked with Aldrin and became friendly with the former astronaut during the filming of the television movie and in an interview the actor said:

"Working with Buzz, he seemed by nature a very private person. That was compounded by his academic background — West Point, completely scientific and military. By nature these private, private people, with less emotional color to their characters, are more prone to depression and less able to give expression to their problems."

In Aldrin's case, he had been brought up by an ambitious military father (Ralph Bellamy in this version) and a mother who, he tells a psychiatrist, once tried to commit suicide and probably welcomed death when it later came.

His goals were his life, and his wife (played by Shirley Knight) and children were part of the picture of the very model of a modern colonel-astronaut — until it all fell apart.

"Would Aldrin have had psychiatric problems if he hadn't gone to the moon?" Robertson mused. "Very likely not. Everybody has his stress point and Aldrin's came when he returned and was sent out on an endless round of speechmaking. His whole orientation was going to the moon. But nobody spent any time or money anticipating what would happen to the astronauts after they came back from the moon."

Robertson has been increasingly interested in mental health ever since he made the television play, "The Two Worlds of Charly Gordon," and the movie, "Charly." But his concentration has been on helping the retarded — Charly Gordon was a retardate — and currently he is chairman of the Community Advisory Board of the Woodward Mental Health Center for emotionally disturbed youth in Freeport, N.Y.

Cliff Robertson, who plays astronaut "Buzz" Aldrin, in ABC's "Return to Earth," is welcomed home after his walk on the moon.

"I did charities like anybody else, but I never aligned myself with retardation before 'Charly,'" Robertson said, speaking of the fictional character almost as though he were alive.

"But I got involved with retarded kids and I guess I got emotionally kind of hooked. Retardation seems to be one of those diseases that haven't attracted a lot of sponsors — as though it weren't a clean one like TB. Actually, they're the last of the innocents."

Perhaps the fact that he and his wife, actress Dina Merrill, have a bright 7-year-old daughter, Heather, enters into his feeling for less fortunate youngsters.

"With Charly we opened a lot of closet doors," he said. "Maybe 'Return to Earth' will help people who suffer depression, or those close to them.

"After all, if it could happen to a hero, an astronaut, Mr. Perfect — well, it could happen to anybody, in any profession, of any sex, race or religion."

Are you a TV addict?

With tongue in cheek, Nicholas Johnson, chairman of the National Citizens Committee for Broadcasting, says television can be just as addictive as alcohol.

The answers to these 10 questions, he says, will help determine if you are a TV addict:

1. Do you turn down the set when you answer the phone so the caller won't know you're watching television?

2. Do you stay up late watching television, but can't remember the next morning what you saw?

3. Do you have to watch a television program as soon as you get up in the morning?

4. Do you suddenly find you have watched several programs in a row without thinking about it?

5. When you have visitors, do you find it impossible to turn off the set or to carry on a conversation without continuing to watch?

6. If unexpected visitors come, do you rush to turn the channel to a "better" program?

7. Did you refuse a social engagement because you didn't want to miss a program, but were ashamed to tell anyone that was the reason?

8. If you try to go through an evening without television, do you become nervous and irritable? Do you have trouble figuring out what to do with your eyes?

9. When other people say you're watching too much television, do you become defensive?

10. Do you find yourself saying, "I never watch TV, but I just happened to turn the set on the other night and . . ."?

Jill gets her wish

JILL ST. JOHN

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — "Be careful what you wish for," said Jill St. John, "your're liable to get it."

The gorgeous redhead, who may be the most beautiful woman in show business, has idolized comic strip heroine Brenda Starr since childhood. Now she will be seen playing the glamorous newspaper gal in a television movie.

Hill advises caution about wishes only half in jest. The 90-minute film; "Brenda Starr," to be aired by ABC at 7 p.m. tonight, didn't turn out exactly as she'd hoped. It was made to be a series but fell short of expectations.

"I've associated myself with Brenda since I was a little girl" Jill said. "And we do have a lot in common.

"We both have red hair. Our faces and figures are pretty much the same. We travel around to exotic places — I leave for Tahiti and Bora Bora next week — and we both wear beautiful clothes.

"I've read the comic strip all my life. Some of my friends still call me Brenda. Brenda has stars in her eyes and, oh, did I want to be Brenda Starr."

In the television show Jill plays Brenda as a single girl although the comic strip heroine has married Basil St. John — no relation to Jill — after two decades of courtship.

"Basil has raised black orchids as a hobby since I can remember," Jill said. "But I had to convince everyone connected with the show there is no such orchid. I know because I raise them myself. So they had to dye some orchids black."

Jill was personally responsible for the television movie to begin with. Two years ago she made a guest appearance on "The Hollywood Squares" and was asked by a friend what she'd really like to do for movies or television.

She replied, "I'd like to do Brenda Starr."

The matter was forgotten. But the man who had asked the question was producer Joe Sigman. Eight months later he telephoned Jill to say he acquired rights to the property.

It is the first television movie Jill has made in six years and one of the few roles she has accepted since making her permanent home in Aspen, Colo., four years ago.

"I backed off for awhile because I'd been working in radio, movies and television since I was four years old," Jill said. "I'm the daughter of the greatest stage mother of all time. She was determined that I would have a career.

"I've worked hard all my life and it came to a crisis in England four years ago. I'd just finished doing the James Bond picture, 'Diamonds Are Forever,' and went right into 'Sitting Target' with Oliver Reed.

"Two pictures in a row was exhausting. I woke up one night screaming and couldn't get back to sleep. I decided I needed a new way of life.

"I chose Aspen because I'd found it pleasurable visiting on and off for six years.

"I bought a three bedroom house on six acres in the mountains. I have a potting shed right in the house and have filled the place with orchids and other plants.

"I'm close to nature surrounded by beauty you know didn't come from Disney. I raise my own vegetables, ski, walk in the woods and jog a mile and a half every day. It's the healthiest possible life."

At one time Jill was as much business woman as actress. She was involved in a wig venture, endorsed a line of clothes and dabbled in the Indian jewelry business. She has put those enterprises behind her.

Jill keeps an apartment in Beverly Hills but spends less than 12 weeks a year in the city. Most of her trips to Hollywood are to visit her parents.

Single since her divorce from singer Jack Jones several years ago, Jill is not planning to remain unmarried although she has no prospective husbands in mind.

"The thought of being 50 years old and all by myself isn't appealing to me," she said. "But I don't want any children because I don't like them.

"No thanks, I have an affinity for the mountains and I love to ski. I'm truly happy with my life, and for the moment there is little I can imagine that would improve it."

John Rubinstein

Is John Rubinstein, the son-in-law on "Family," related to pianist Arthur Rubinstein? Please print his picture.

C.A.

John, who plays Jeff Maitland on the series, is the son of famous virtuoso Arthur Rubinstein. He is also a musician in his own right, having composed the score for "Family."

Fawn relieves loneliness

"The Yearling," the classic film and winner of three Academy Awards for its poignant tale of a boy's love for his pet fawn and of his parents' fight to tear a living from the American frontier, will be aired Sunday, May 9 on CBS. Gregory Peck and Jane Wyman star, with Claude Jarman Jr.

The film, which was nominated for eight Oscars, is based on the Pulitzer Prize-winning novel by Marjorie Kinnan Rawlings. Peck and Miss Wyman portray Penny and Ma Baxter, a couple who are locked into two desperate struggles. Trying to scratch out the barest existence from the land in the backwoods of Florida's scrub country just after the Civil War, the couple also are at odds with their only son, Jody, a young boy whose loneliness is almost unrelieved in the wilderness.

While hunting for a marauding bear, Penny Baxter is bitten by a rattlesnake. In a desperate effort to save his life, he kills a doe and uses the animal's liver as an antidote for the deadly snake poison. While Penny lingers near death for a time his son decides to raise the doe's fawn as his pet. The fawn proves too wild and hungry for the family's meager food supplies. They have no choice but to destroy it — a decision Jody rejects with all his heart.

Peck, who won an Oscar for his role in "To Kill a Mockingbird," was nominated for another Academy Award for his portrayal of Penny Baxter.

Miss Wyman, nominated for an Oscar for her role of Ma Baxter in "The Yearling," won the coveted award for her performance in the film "Johnny Belinda)"

Claude Jarman Jr. made his film debut in "The Yearling" and went on to become a child actor with an impressive assortment of credits,

Celebrity sell-out

Ad agencies search for big names

by Randall Poe

The making of television commercials has become a frantic celebrity game for stakes that are going out of sight.

Brand-name entertainers, who had persistently refused to commercialize their art and fame are now lining up like ducks, and companies are rapidly picking them off.

"The world is on a star hunt," says Jerry Della Femina, the zesty New York advertising executive who heads his own agency. "The game is to see who can come in with the biggest name."

Since then, a galaxy of longtime holdouts have signed up: Henry Fonda (GAF), Gregory Peck (Travelers Insurance), Rex Harrison (Dodge), Peter Ustinov (Gallo Wines), Peter Sellers (Trans World Airlines). And the beat goes on.

Notes Carroll Carroll, longtime creative force at J. Walter Thompson and now advertising columnist for Variety, the show business newspaper: "I've seen agency people try to talk companies out of using celebrities. They fail because company executives want to take their wives out to dinner with Jack Lemmon."

The roughest competition is going on between movie personalities and sports stars. Joe Namath has become a major target. Namath, who has made over a dozen different commercials, set a new financial record with his $5 million, long-term contract with Faberge last year. And Bill Russell, who refused to make commercials when he played for the Boston Celtics, currently makes more for his AT&T ads than he does coaching the Seattle Supersonics. Then there is Hank Aaron's $1 million contract with Magnavox, the highest ever received by a baseball player.

Some companies, however, have been burned by their rush to sign up celebrities. Dazzled by Mark Spitz' seven gold medals at the Munich Olympics, Schick quickly signed him to a lifetime contract: $100,000 a year for five years and $50,000 a year for life. It turned out to be a costly mistake. Schick announced this month that it was ending the deal although it was forced to make 'a very, very good settlement" with the California swimmer.

There are many who see the current trend as both dangerous and demented.

Bert Sugar, a leading advertising executive who specializes in sports promotions, calls the Spitz arrangement "the worst sports promotion of all time." And he suggests the Aaron deal isn't much better. "When I visited Aaron earlier this year at his house in Atlanta — fully one year after he had signed his agreement with Magnavox — he had a color Zenith in his den."

Some advertising people oppose the use of celebrities on principle, arguing that it takes the creative juices out of advertising. They're right.

"It's very safe to use celebrities," notes Della Femina. "The 60-second commercial is nearly gone. It's 30 seconds now. So everybody panics. Nobody can write a good 30-second commercial. But you get Joe DiMaggio to say 'Hi, I'm Joe DiMaggio,' and in three seconds he's got you on his side. That leaves 27 seconds to sell. We always take the easy way out in this business."

The commercial deals being cut with celebrities are complex. The bidding usually starts at $1 million and comes down quickly to $20,000, except for the monster names. There are straight cash deals, tie-ins. ("sponsor my TV show, and I'll do two commercials") and combination packages ("give me $20,000 for the commercial and a half a cent for every jar of jam we sell").

Olivier was the first to sell out.

There are, of course, a cluster of bona fide celebrities who still refuse to touch commercials. Among them: Marlon Brando, Steve McQueen and Al Pacino.

Says Della Feminia: "McQueen and Pacino are about 10 years away from their first commercial. Gregory Peck is Al Pacino 15 years later. Brando is another story. He makes a movie like 'Last Tango in Paris' but refuses to dirty himself with Hotel Bar Butter."

While today's celebrity sweepstakes may be more frantic than it has ever been, things were nearly as bad in the 1920s and early 1930s. Ty Cobb made cigar commercials. Charles Lindbergh returned from his famous flight to do a fountain pen commercial. And the Dionne quintuplets received $250,000 — about $750,000 in today's dollars — to advertise a bathing soap. One New York agent, in fact, made the rounds of companies offering a thick book of people "unbelievably prominent in the world's corridors of fame" who would endorse any product for $5,000.

Carroll Carroll recalls with amusement: "We were sitting around one day planning a commercial for the life insurance industry. We were trying to come up with a big name. Somebody suggested the Pope. Everybody laughed. But you know who we ended up with? The Archbishop of Canterbury."

It is not difficult to understand why so many noted people want in on the action. As Euell Gibbons told me several months before he died last year: "I didn't know that making commercials was like finding a gold mine in your backyard."

Barbara Walters would like a rest

Barbara Walters will make her final appearance as host of the NBC "Today" show June 4, but Miss Walters said she does not expect to join ABC until after her NBC contract expires Sept. 9.

"I think I feel the same way as I have since this happened," Miss Walters said. "I have mixed feelings — sad about leaving old friends but looking forward to the new life and new opportunities."

She said she expected to honor her contract and that NBC has not suggested making the divorce final before that date. NBC has said it will not make an immediate replacement, but that temporarily Betty Furness will fill in for Miss Walters on the "Today" show.

"I can't be on the air," Miss Walters said, sounding almost relieved, "but after all the pressure, a vacation would be nice.

"Technically my last appearance on the air will be June 4, but that will be taped. My last live appearance will be June 3, which I expect will be a quiet goodbye show," she said.

"There'll be a party for all of us involved with the show and it will be a very teary day and I'll feel sad until I contemplate the new life."

She said she has had no conferences with ABC officials on the new format for the evening news show she will anchor with Harry Reasoner in the fall, nor about the four specials her own production company will produce, nor about her appearances on "Issues and Answers."

Shelby Lyman on chess

During one of the most turbulent periods in its history, the state of Israel is scheduled to host the World Chess Olympics. It is possible more than 100 nations will compete in that event, which will be in Haifa in October and November of this year. Though, according to the Jerusalem Post, "Speculation over whether the Soviet Union will defend its title . . . is actually the most intriguing question concerning the Chess Olympics."

My most recent information from a source who has spoken to Soviet and East European chess officials is that the Post's speculation can be answered YES!

Let's hope that intervening events will not make a full and peaceful olympics in Israel impossible.

BEGINNER'S CORNER — Hint and explanation: The black king cannot move. Tal needs only a check to achieve mate.

U.S. Champion Walter Browne, currently ranked 14th in the world, is an admirable fighter at the chessboard.

He gave an especially gritty performance in the March Lone Pine tournament when he gained a second place tie by taking 4½ points in his last five games after drawing in the first round and losing in the second.

The unfortunate temptation after such a bad start in so short a tournament is to withdraw from play.

One possible variation would be the following:

Browne	Blumenfeld
32. . . .	K-B2
33. BxB	PxB
34. K-B5	P-R3
35. P-N3	K-K2
36. K-N6	etc.

Another:

32. . . .	BxB
33. KxB	K-B2
34. K-B5	P-R3
35. P-N3	etc.

Solution to BEGINNER'S CORNER: The move 1.QxPch!! does the job. After 1 . . . KxQ, white mates with 2. R-R4.

Win at bridge

by Oswald and James Jacoby

When Helen Sobel Smith, the greatest woman bridge player, first played at New York's Cavendish Club she was young, attractive and did not look as if she had any idea as to how to play bridge.

The time was 40 years ago and very few players knew the correct way to handle certain card combinations.

East won the first spade and returned the suit. Helen was in dummy with the jack and promptly led a club to her ace. When the king fell from the West hand, Helen was sure of two club tricks which is the exact number she needed to make three notrump.

West, a rather pompous pseudo expert, told Helen, "You were lucky. You should have finessed the jack."

He was wrong. The play of the ace was a perfect safety play to insure two club tricks for declarer. Helen knew that, but merely smiled sweetly and thanked him.

Two months went by. Helen made the same play and her instructor (once more her opponent) remarked, "You'll never learn."

Camp to teach children how to ride and care for horses

A camp for children interested in learning to ride and care for horses will be sponsored this summer by the Cooperative Extension Service of the University of Illinois.

A horse will be assigned to each child who will have the responsibility of caring for it. The children will learn how to ride and care for horses and equipment. Demonstrations and riding exhibitions in jumping, barrel racing and colt training will be given by professional horsemen. Campers will be able to participate in a horse show on the last day of camp.

The program is run in conjunction with the service's 4-H Camp at Camp Shaw-Waw-Ans-See near Manteno, Ill. The camp lasts a week; 20 riders will be accepted each week. Cost of the program is $91: $51 for the camp and $40 for horse instruction. The camp is limited to 4-H members but will be opened to outsiders if there are vacancies. For more information call 991-1160.

Adler exhibit shows history of astronomy

The new Sky Centennial exhibit at the Adler Planetarium, Chicago, features a panoramic 200-year history of American astronomy.

A mini-theatre, photo-murals, special lighting and visual effects and space hardware are part of the new display. Another new attraction is the Sky Show, "America's Journey to the Stars." The one-hour show reviews the last 200 years, then moves two centuries into a future of Mars colonies, space ships, and perhaps, contact with other civilizations in the galaxie.

Pat Boone and the Bible: a musical prayer meeting

by Vernon Scott

Pat Boone hopes to bridge the separation of church and state concept this Bicentennial year by appearing with "If My People . . .," a roadshow Christian musical presentation.

Boone, who wore a halo and white buckskin shoes when Elvis Presley wore sequins and rolled his hips, wants churches to participate in America's 200th birthday celebration.

Pat, cleaner-cut than ever, has grown progressively religious in the past decade. He attends prayer meetings, church services and makes some 25 appearances a year at rallies speaking out on Christianity and the Bible.

"I think 'If My People . . .' will become the most important event of the Bicentennial," he said the other day.

"Its tremendous spiritual impact will appeal to all people of Judeo-Christian faiths. It's not really a show so much as a religious reawakening."

Written by Jimmy and Carol Owens, "If My People . . ." is based on II Chronicles 7:14 of the Old Testament which Boone described as being a call to the church to an intercessory role for the nation.

It reads: "If my people, which are called by my name, shall humble themselves and pray, and week my face, and turn from their wicked ways, then will I hear from heaven and will forgive their sin, and will heal their land."

Boone will narrate that passage and others on his travels with the show, as well as sing and lead prayers.

He and actor Dean Jones will appear together or individually at performances during the 70-city tour.

"We'll be playing in the largest arenas and auditoriums in each city," Boone said. "Audiences will run from 7,500 to 20,000 persons.

"The important thing is to involve all churches and synagogues along the way. We want everyone to participate.

"The basic unit of the show is a six-piece orchestra and a choir of 40. But we expect as many as a couple of thousand singers, representing 30 or more churches, in some of the bigger cities.

"The music is contemporary soft folk-rock. Admission is free."

Boone appears to be self-conscious about his religious work. He avoids the zealot's role.

"When I speak at rallies people show up out of curiosity because I'm an entertainer," he said. "But when they see my sincerity and that I'm not asking them to join a church, it gives them second thoughts.

"I tell them, 'I bumped into God and he's real. And I encourage you to do the same thing. But not on my terms. Find out on your own.'"

Pat has been called a Jesus freak, Bible pounder and other unflattering appellations. He shrugs them off with a grin.

"I've been a church-goer all my life," he said. "But in the 1960s some things happened in my personal life that changed me completely. Everything went wrong with my career, my marriage and my attitudes.

"In the past eight years the Bible has been more real to me. I've written about it in my latest book, 'A New Song.' It tells the whole story and why I feel the way I do about God."

Boone is an elder in The Church On The Way which he says is loosely associated with the Four Square Church.

"I once believed in organized religion," he said. "Not anymore. I don't think organization is the answer. The real answers lie in individual relationships, a one-to-one basis with God and with one another.

"The message of the Bible is personal relationships."

When not working for the church, Boone — who has cut a dozen religious albums in the past eight years — makes a living on personal appearances with his wife, Shirley, and four daughters, Lindy, Debby, Lary and Cherry.

The family plays some 100 concerts yearly in various parts of the country, drawing enormous crowds at state fairs and in large auditoriums.

While Boone doesn't include specific religious references in his show, two or three songs carry spiritual messages.

"My primary purpose is to entertain," he concluded. "But it doesn't do any harm to express my philosophy a little bit."

Fawn relieves loneliness

"The Yearling," the classic film and winner of three Academy Awards for its poignant tale of a boy's love for his pet fawn and of his parents' fight to tear a living from the American frontier, will be aired Sunday, May 9 on CBS. Gregory Peck and Jane Wyman star, with Claude Jarman Jr.

The film, which was nominated for eight Oscars, is based on the Pulitzer Prize-winning novel by Marjorie Kinnan Rawlings. Peck and Miss Wyman portray Penny and Ma Baxter, a couple who are locked into two desperate struggles. Trying to scratch out the barest existence from the land in the backwoods of Florida's scrub country just after the Civil War, the couple also are at odds with their only son, Jody, a young boy whose loneliness is almost unrelieved in the wilderness.

While hunting for a marauding bear, Penny Baxter is bitten by a rattlesnake. In a desperate effort to save his life, he kills a doe and uses the animal's liver as an antidote for the deadly snake poison. While Penny lingers near death for a time his son decides to raise the doe's fawn as his pet. The fawn proves too wild and hungry for the family's meager food supplies. They have no choice but to destroy it — a decision Jody rejects with all his heart.

Peck, who won an Oscar for his role in "To Kill a Mockingbird," was nominated for another Academy Award for his portrayal of Penny Baxter.

Miss Wyman, nominated for an Oscar for her role of Ma Baxter in "The Yearling," won the coveted award for her performance in the film "Johnny Belinda)"

Claude Jarman Jr. made his film debut in "The Yearling" and went on to become a child actor with an impressive assortment of credits,

Celebrity sell-out

Ad agencies search for big names

by Randall Poe

The making of television commercials has become a frantic celebrity game for stakes that are going out of sight.

Brand-name entertainers, who had persistently refused to commercialize their art and fame are now lining up like ducks, and companies are rapidly picking them off.

"The world is on a star hunt," says Jerry Della Femina, the zesty New York advertising executive who heads his own agency. "The game is to see who can come in with the biggest name."

Since then, a galaxy of longtime holdouts have signed up: Henry Fonda (GAF), Gregory Peck (Travelers Insurance), Rex Harrison (Dodge), Peter Ustinov (Gallo Wines), Peter Sellers (Trans World Airlines). And the beat goes on.

Notes Carroll Carroll, longtime creative force at J. Walter Thompson and now advertising columnist for Variety, the show business newspaper: "I've seen agency people try to talk companies out of using celebrities. They fail because company executives want to take their wives out to dinner with Jack Lemmon."

The roughest competition is going on between movie personalities and sports stars. Joe Namath has become a major target. Namath, who has made over a dozen different commercials, set a new financial record with his $5 million, long-term contract with Faberge last year. And Bill Russell, who refused to make commercials when he played for the Boston Celtics, currently makes more for his AT&T ads than he does coaching the Seattle Supersonics. Then there is Hank Aaron's $1 million contract with Magnavox, the highest ever received by a baseball player.

Some companies, however, have been burned by their rush to sign up celebrities. Dazzled by Mark Spitz' seven gold medals at the Munich Olympics, Schick quickly signed him to a lifetime contract: $100,000 a year for five years and $50,000 a year for life. It turned out to be a costly mistake. Schick announced this month that it was ending the deal although it was forced to make 'a very, very good settlement" with the California swimmer.

There are many who see the current trend as both dangerous and demented.

Bert Sugar, a leading advertising executive who specializes in sports promotions, calls the Spitz arrangement "the worst sports promotion of all time." And he suggests the Aaron deal isn't much better. "When I visited Aaron earlier this year at his house in Atlanta — fully one year after he had signed his agreement with Magnavox — he had a color Zenith in his den."

Some advertising people oppose the use of celebrities on principle, arguing that it takes the creative juices out of advertising. They're right.

"It's very safe to use celebrities," notes Della Femina. "The 60-second commercial is nearly gone. It's 30 seconds now. So everybody panics. Nobody can write a good 30-second commercial. But you get Joe DiMaggio to say 'Hi, I'm Joe DiMaggio,' and in three seconds he's got you on his side. That leaves 27 seconds to sell. We always take the easy way out in this business."

The commercial deals being cut with celebrities are complex. The bidding usually starts at $1 million and comes down quickly to $20,000, except for the monster names. There are straight cash deals, tie-ins. ("sponsor my TV show, and I'll do two commercials") and combination packages ("give me $20,000 for the commercial and a half a cent for every jar of jam we sell").

Olivier was the first to sell out.

There are, of course, a cluster of bona fide celebrities who still refuse to touch commercials. Among them: Marlon Brando, Steve McQueen and Al Pacino.

Says Della Feminia: "McQueen and Pacino are about 10 years away from their first commercial. Gregory Peck is Al Pacino 15 years later. Brando is another story. He makes a movie like 'Last Tango in Paris' but refuses to dirty himself with Hotel Bar Butter."

While today's celebrity sweepstakes may be more frantic than it has ever been, things were nearly as bad in the 1920s and early 1930s. Ty Cobb made cigar commercials. Charles Lindbergh returned from his famous flight to do a fountain pen commercial. And the Dionne quintuplets received $250,000 — about $750,000 in today's dollars — to advertise a bathing soap. One New York agent, in fact, made the rounds of companies offering a thick book of people "unbelievably prominent in the world's corridors of fame" who would endorse any product for $5,000.

Carroll Carroll recalls with amusement: "We were sitting around one day planning a commercial for the life insurance industry. We were trying to come up with a big name. Somebody suggested the Pope. Everybody laughed. But you know who we ended up with? The Archbishop of Canterbury."

It is not difficult to understand why so many noted people want in on the action. As Euell Gibbons told me several months before he died last year: "I didn't know that making commercials was like finding a gold mine in your backyard."

Barbara Walters would like a rest

Barbara Walters will make her final appearance as host of the NBC "Today" show June 4, but Miss Walters said she does not expect to join ABC until after her NBC contract expires Sept. 9.

"I think I feel the same way as I have since this happened," Miss Walters said. "I have mixed feelings — sad about leaving old friends but looking forward to the new life and new opportunities."

She said she expected to honor her contract and that NBC has not suggested making the divorce final before that date. NBC has said it will not make an immediate replacement, but that temporarily Betty Furness will fill in for Miss Walters on the "Today" show.

"I can't be on the air," Miss Walters said, sounding almost relieved, "but after all the pressure, a vacation would be nice.

"Technically my last appearance on the air will be June 4, but that will be taped. My last live appearance will be June 3, which I expect will be a quiet goodbye show," she said.

"There'll be a party for all of us involved with the show and it will be a very teary day and I'll feel sad until I contemplate the new life."

She said she has had no conferences with ABC officials on the new format for the evening news show she will anchor with Harry Reasoner in the fall, nor about the four specials her own production company will produce, nor about her appearances on "Issues and Answers."

Shelby Lyman on chess

During one of the most turbulent periods in its history, the state of Israel is scheduled to host the World Chess Olympics. It is possible more than 100 nations will compete in that event, which will be in Haifa in October and November of this year. Though, according to the Jerusalem Post, "Speculation over whether the Soviet Union will defend its title . . . is actually the most intriguing question concerning the Chess Olympics."

My most recent information from a source who has spoken to Soviet and East European chess officials is that the Post's speculation can be answered YES!

Let's hope that intervening events will not make a full and peaceful olympics in Israel impossible.

BEGINNER'S CORNER — Hint and explanation: The black king cannot move. Tal needs only a check to achieve mate.

U.S. Champion Walter Browne, currently ranked 14th in the world, is an admirable fighter at the chessboard.

He gave an especially gritty performance in the March Lone Pine tournament when he gained a second place tie by taking 4½ points in his last five games after drawing in the first round and losing in the second.

The unfortunate temptation after such a bad start in so short a tournament is to withdraw from play.

One possible variation would be the following:

Browne	Blumenfeld
32. . . .	K-B2
33. BxB	PxB
34. K-B5	P-R3
35. P-N3	K-K2
36. K-N6	etc.

Another:

32. . . .	BxB
33. KxB	K-B2
34. K-B5	P-R3
35. P-N3	etc.

Solution to BEGINNER'S CORNER: The move 1.QxPch!! does the job. After 1 . . . KxQ, white mates with 2. R-R4.

Win at bridge

by Oswald and James Jacoby

When Helen Sobel Smith, the greatest woman bridge player, first played at New York's Cavendish Club she was young, attractive and did not look as if she had any idea as to how to play bridge.

The time was 40 years ago and very few players knew the correct way to handle certain card combinations.

East won the first spade and returned the suit. Helen was in dummy with the jack and promptly led a club to her ace. When the king fell from the West hand, Helen was sure of two club tricks which is the exact number she needed to make three notrump.

West, a rather pompous pseudo expert, told Helen, "You were lucky. You should have finessed the jack."

He was wrong. The play of the ace was a perfect safety play to insure two club tricks for declarer. Helen knew that, but merely smiled sweetly and thanked him.

Two months went by. Helen made the same play and her instructor (once more her opponent) remarked, "You'll never learn."

Camp to teach children how to ride and care for horses

A camp for children interested in learning to ride and care for horses will be sponsored this summer by the Cooperative Extension Service of the University of Illinois.

A horse will be assigned to each child who will have the responsibility of caring for it. The children will learn how to ride and care for horses and equipment. Demonstrations and riding exhibitions in jumping, barrel racing and colt training will be given by professional horsemen. Campers will be able to participate in a horse show on the last day of camp.

The program is run in conjunction with the service's 4-H Camp at Camp Shaw-Waw-Ans-See near Manteno, Ill. The camp lasts a week; 20 riders will be accepted each week. Cost of the program is $91: $51 for the camp and $40 for horse instruction. The camp is limited to 4-H members but will be opened to outsiders if there are vacancies. For more information call 991-1160.

Adler exhibit shows history of astronomy

The new Sky Centennial exhibit at the Adler Planetarium, Chicago, features a panoramic 200-year history of American astronomy.

A mini-theatre, photo-murals, special lighting and visual effects and space hardware are part of the new display. Another new attraction is the Sky Show, "America's Journey to the Stars." The one-hour show reviews the last 200 years, then moves two centuries into a future of Mars colonies, space ships, and perhaps, contact with other civilizations in the galaxie.

Pat Boone and the Bible: a musical prayer meeting

by Vernon Scott

Pat Boone hopes to bridge the separation of church and state concept this Bicentennial year by appearing with "If My People . . .," a roadshow Christian musical presentation.

Boone, who wore a halo and white buckskin shoes when Elvis Presley wore sequins and rolled his hips, wants churches to participate in America's 200th birthday celebration.

Pat, cleaner-cut than ever, has grown progressively religious in the past decade. He attends prayer meetings, church services and makes some 25 appearances a year at rallies speaking out on Christianity and the Bible.

"I think 'If My People . . .' will become the most important event of the Bicentennial," he said the other day.

"Its tremendous spiritual impact will appeal to all people of Judeo-Christian faiths. It's not really a show so much as a religious reawakening."

Written by Jimmy and Carol Owens, "If My People . . ." is based on II Chronicles 7:14 of the Old Testament which Boone described as being a call to the church to an intercessory role for the nation.

It reads: "If my people, which are called by my name, shall humble themselves and pray, and week my face, and turn from their wicked ways, then will I hear from heaven and will forgive their sin, and will heal their land."

Boone will narrate that passage and others on his travels with the show, as well as sing and lead prayers.

He and actor Dean Jones will appear together or individually at performances during the 70-city tour.

"We'll be playing in the largest arenas and auditoriums in each city," Boone said. "Audiences will run from 7,500 to 20,000 persons.

"The important thing is to involve all churches and synagogues along the way. We want everyone to participate.

"The basic unit of the show is a six-piece orchestra and a choir of 40. But we expect as many as a couple of thousand singers, representing 30 or more churches, in some of the bigger cities.

"The music is contemporary soft folk-rock. Admission is free."

Boone appears to be self-conscious about his religious work. He avoids the zealot's role.

"When I speak at rallies people show up out of curiosity because I'm an entertainer," he said. "But when they see my sincerity and that I'm not asking them to join a church, it gives them second thoughts.

"I tell them, 'I bumped into God and he's real. And I encourage you to do the same thing. But not on my terms. Find out on your own.'"

Pat has been called a Jesus freak, Bible pounder and other unflattering appellations. He shrugs them off with a grin.

"I've been a church-goer all my life," he said. "But in the 1960s some things happened in my personal life that changed me completely. Everything went wrong with my career, my marriage and my attitudes.

"In the past eight years the Bible has been more real to me. I've written about it in my latest book, 'A New Song.' It tells the whole story and why I feel the way I do about God."

Boone is an elder in The Church On The Way which he says is loosely associated with the Four Square Church.

"I once believed in organized religion," he said. "Not anymore. I don't think organization is the answer. The real answers lie in individual relationships, a one-to-one basis with God and with one another.

"The message of the Bible is personal relationships."

When not working for the church, Boone — who has cut a dozen religious albums in the past eight years — makes a living on personal appearances with his wife, Shirley, and four daughters, Lindy, Debby, Lary and Cherry.

The family plays some 100 concerts yearly in various parts of the country, drawing enormous crowds at state fairs and in large auditoriums.

While Boone doesn't include specific religious references in his show, two or three songs carry spiritual messages.

"My primary purpose is to entertain," he concluded. "But it doesn't do any harm to express my philosophy a little bit."
